The enemies of the Church, they are either hereticks and schifmaticks, within her pale; or elfe perfecutors, and profeft Tyrants without. That Tyrants are Foxes, is evident in Herod, Luk. 13.22. who was also a kind of Heretick, a Sadducce, as some think, the more to colour his cruelty, and from him fprung the Herodians, Mat. 22.16. And that Hereticks are fo and Schilmaticks, appears by their fruits and nature; having not only the craft of that beaft, transforming themselves, 2 Cor. 11.13. carrying a Fox in their bosom, when they are Lambs outwardly; but also the rage and bloudy cruelty, where they get power, none being like them; for never did the Church of God fuffer more from the maddest and blindest Heathen, then they have done from Hereticks and Schismaticks that were among them. The Lord complains for Ifrael, that her Prophets were Foxes, Ezek. 13. 4. and the complaint is fo much the juster, because such Foxes they are, as can never be extirpated. Annot.

Friendship is the sweetness, intimateness, and strength of love. All the degrees and kinds of friendship meet in Christ towards his Spouse, it is the friendship of a husband, of a brother; and if there be any relation in the world wherein friend(hip is, all is too little to express the love of Christ. In friendship there is mutual confent, an union of judgment and affections, a mutual sympathy in the good and ill one of another, as if there were one foul in two bodies. There is liberty which is the life of friendjhip, a free intercourle between friends, a free opening of fecrets. There is mutual folace and comfort one in another. There is also a mutual honour and respect one of another, all which may be found in the mutual friendibip between Christ and his Church, only in this last there is some difference; for though Christ calls us friends, and therein in some fort brings himself down to us, yet we must remember that it is a friendship of unequals. Christs honouring of us, is his putting honour upon us, our honouring of him, is the giving him the honour due to his Name. He that inspireth friendship into others, will undoubtedly keep the laws of friendship himself, will count our enemies, his enemies; And as his friendship is sweet, so is it constant in all conditions. If we be not ashamed of him, he will never be ashamed of us. Sibs.

Some expound this garment, of Christ his humane nature, wherein by his blood-shed he reconciled the elect to God. But the former fignification agreeth best with the Text. Garment down to the feet ] The perfect righteousness of Christ imputed, wherewith his Spouse the Church (for whose covering the Garment ferveth) is cloathed from the Crown of the head to the fole of the feet. Rev. 1 13. He was cloathed with a garment down to his feet. Some expound this of the purity and innocency of that Priest-hood, which Christ did exercise for his Church. Others of the venerable dignity and mae jesty of Christ, as King of his Church : and indeed Kings did wear long Robes in token of Majefty. Also Priests by Gods appointment. But the first exposition I hold best. We often find Christ his imputed justice, compared to a Garment. Pfal. 21. 1. Mat. 22. 12. & Rev. 16. 15.

It was the custom of Rulers to wear Garments and Girdles distinct from others, Ifa. 22.21. Exod. 28. 24. and 39. 5. The Robes of fuch were usually large and long, for state.

These are the beautiful garments of Sion, Isa. 52. 1. the fine linnen, clean and bright, the righteothiels of the Saints, Rev. 19. 8. who have put on the Lord Jesus Chriss, Rom. 13. 14. Gal. 3. 27. and in their faith, doctrine, convertation, and administration are holy, just and rightcous, and cloathed with salvation, Psal. 132. 9. 16. So that the favour, the fame and good report hereof i fweet, like the finell of Lebson, where pleafant and odoriferous trees, herbs, and spices grew in abundance, God maketh manifest the savour of his knowledg by them in every place, for they are unto God a sweet savour in Christ, 2 Cor. 2. 14, 15. See Hos. 14. 5,6,7.

Our fouls are naked, as our bodies by nature, but Christ adorneth them, covers their nakedness, and will clothe them with salvation. For Garments some read Sacrifices, which may perhaps denote the body (which is the clothing of the foul, 2 Cor. 5. 4-) and her suffering for Christs sake; in which fiery tryals he takes more delight, and fmells them more joyfully, than the burnings and evaporations of incense. of God, or after he had in his own age served the will of God,

All thefe things shall come apon this generation, Mat. 23.36. Tered, generation, fignifies not a whole facle, but rather the third part of a facle, or hundred years. So in Hesyshius the word is taken to fignifie either the lije of a man, or thirty years, or twenty five, or twenty. Now the life of a man, figuifies not the ordinary force of mans life, from birth to death, but so as the space of the life of 14 men, children to one another, make up 14 generations, Mat. I. So that here by the phrase this generation, such a space is meant, that they that were then alive, might and should live to fee it. Dr. Ham. Annot. i.

"Gifts and calling of Goo] The gift of calling, by Himdiadis: or by Gifts, understand the good things given according to clection of grace, as in v. 28. and by calling, that effectual work of the Spirit, whereby God hath called many Jews, and decreed to call many more to his Kingdom, by drawing them to Christ. The gifts and calling of God are without repentance, Rom. 11.29. The gifts and calling proper to the Elect, are faid to be without repentance, not in the nature of the things which are mutable, (God alone being absolutely unmutable: ) nor because the Saints might not, or deserve not to lose them wholly; but because there is no change with God, who so conferreth them, as he also preserves them without any alteration of his purpose, or grief for that which he hath done, 1 Sam. 15. 29. Numb. 23. 19. In all which places, Repentance is used to fignifie change or mutation of Gods decree, which is more firm than heaven and earth; as even Lyra, Haima, and other Popish Authors expound. Here is then in this text frong ground for the doctrine of perfeverance in grace, and a check to the Popish erroneous opinion of doubting of falvation, and of losing the grace of a instituting faith, whereby they cross the Oracle of the Spirit, affirming such gifts to be without repentance. God give Papilts true repentance, fuch as belong to him.

we are it by the grace of God in Jesus Christ, I Cor. 1. 30 Dne (Boo) Such a God as in essence is one, and in his will 'allo, being always conftant and like himfelf, Rom. 3. 24. One God which inflifieth, &c. viz. keeping one course in justifying both Iews and Gentiles.

Dnip true God | God who is the true and very God, to be fo one, as he is the only God, and none other, without whom there is no God; and this God is in Scripture taught to be three in persons, the Father, the Son, and the holy Ghost; for the unity of Divine effence is not destroyed by trinity of Persons, oloh. 17. 3. Tois is eternal life to know thee the only true God.

Whereas Arians take advantage from this place for their eroror, to prove Christ not to be true God, because the Father is the only God: Let it be marked,

. That the Text faith not, that the Father only is God.

2. That it will as well follow that the Father is not Lord, because it is written, 1 Cor. 4. 8. There is one Lord, even Christ; as that Christ should not be God, because the Father is called one God, and God only.

'3. This particle [only] excludeth not the other two perfons, but all Gods in opinion, as Heathenish Idols; or by office, as Magistrates.

'4. As [ only ] comprehendeth both Paul and Barnabas, 'I Cor. 9. 6. So here [only] includes Christ, who is the same God with the Father. Lastly, Chrysostomes reading of this Text may well be receie ved; to wit, that this is eternal life to know thee, and Christ whom

. thou baft fent, to be the only true God.

'Finally, whereas the first verse saith that Christ had glory with his Father afore the world, it proves him both to be a perfon diffinct from the Father, and to be his eternal Son, even God from everlafting.

Note: that (Elobim) the name of God in Hebrew in form plural is usually joyned with a verb singular, as Elohim bara, God · canted; but in some other few places it is coupled with a word f and without mystery of the Trinity, to teach unity of efter e in grality of perfons, Gen. 20. 13. Alfo, Gen. 35.7. · & 2 Sam. 7. 23. In which though the plural number be joyned, yer a plurality of Gods is no way intended : one Scripture must clear another.

Es fee God To enjoy the eternal bleffedness in heaven, which confifs in the vision of God, Heb. 12-14.

To be their God To be joyned unto God, by perfect and immediate fellowship, which shall be the portion of the faithful in heaven. Rev. 21-3. And God binstiff foul be their God with The notion of piety in this place is observable for christian Religion, the doctrine of Christ, whether as that which is it self the true way of leveling and worthiping of God, fo as will be acceptable to him (and so corresponding to that which prescribes and delivers the most exact and perfect way of serving God, and so by a Me-tonymie is called piety. That it fignifies so here, as appears by the parts of this Mystery, as they are here set down, being the parts of our Religion, into which all Christians are initiated or entred, the foundation on which all our Christian practice is built, the branches of our initiation into Christian religion, grounds of our believing and practifing the Christian doctrine. Thus ch. 6. 5. Where speaking of the wicked hereticks of those times, the Gnoflicks he mentions it as a piece of their doctrine, that coorsess is mocrouds, piety (i. e. the Christian Religion, the being of that profession) is gain, matter of secular advantage. In other places it's true, that core Beia, piety is taken in a narrower sence, for that virtue particularly of worshiping God aright, as Tit. 2. 12. in diffinction from the duties towards others and our felves, 1 Tim. 6. 11. 2 Pet. 1. 6. and in one place, 1 Tim. 5. 4. oyned commonly with other words, sometime of the sin- for the return of gratitude in Children to their Parents, gular number, and of the plural, sometime indifferently, as which is a kinde of piety also, as the love of our Coun-Eloim, that is, God be went, I Chron. 17. 21. and Elobim, trey, honouring of Magistrates, that are a fort of gods, as,

'Gog and Bagog | All the fecret and open enemies of 'Christ and his Church, both Papists and Turks, banding them-' selves against the Gospel, in these last times, fince the loosing of Satan. And thus much the very names themselves import; for God fignifieth one covered, and Magog fignifieth one uncovered. Rev. 20.8. Even Gog and Magog to gather them to battle.

For the better understanding of this place, we must have recourse to Ezekiel, ch. 38, & 39. where under the names Gog and Magog, are comprehended such Princes as gathered great ' Armies to fight against Israel, after they came from the Captivity of Eabylon. This ftory is here in the Revelations applyed to those enemies as Satan should muster together against the 'Church of Chrift, a little before his coming to judgment. Other Authors refer Gog and Magog to the Turks and Persians, and such regions as are at their command. Certain it is, that a 'mighty Army of such Heathenish people, stirred up by the De-'vil (being now let loose) is meant here.

They that by Gog understand the Pope and his strength, do not consider that before this battel be, the Pope, the Beast, and false Prophets, are utterly destroyed, and sent packing to hell; as in the former Chapter may be seen vers. 20.

Gog fignifieth Afia Minor, having that name from Gyges the King thereof. Magog is Hierapolis, the chief feat of Idolary in Syria, built by the Scythians, and from them have that name. So that by the land of Magog, we are to underfland Syria, and by Gog, Asia Minor. And forasmuch as the Princes and people of Syria and Asia Minor, were the most grievous enemies of the Jews, by whom they sustained the chiefest calamities after their return before the coming of Christ : therefore by an usual speech in the fewish language, the Mortal enemies of the Church are called Gog and Magog. And in this sence these names are used, to signifie the enemies of the Church, meaning not the same enemies whereof Exekiel speaketh, but the like enemies of the Church, which should afflict the true Christians, as Gog and Magog afflicted the Jews. Bone | My beloved was gone, Cant. 5.6. or he was gone, he was ne, he was turned away, paffed away, which duplication is more passionate, and being without conjunction, notes the expedition, and certainty of his absence, for which she is much troubled, and like a fad widow wrings her hands, and cries out, he is gone, he is gone. This is the first evil that follows, and punisheth security, and contempt of Christ, who suspends, and denies that light of his preseuce, which he had offered freely before. Seasonable acceptations of grace, when it is tendered to us, are a Christians wisdom and fafety, left they find fuch favour no more. Good opportunities, are like water spilt, which is not easily collected, or not so purely. Annot.

"Beace is the free good will of God, whereby he counterh us dear in Christ Jesus, forgiveth us our fins, and giveth us the Holy Ghoft, and upright life, and eternal felicity. Thus Peter Martyr defineth it.

"Grace is taken, 1. In Scripture,

" First, for the love or liberality of God to man.

Secondly, for the faithfulness of man to God or man. "Thirdly, for the acceptation of man with God or man.

"Fourthly, for the quality or comliness for which he is ac-"2. In common Writers it is taken particularly for three Si-fters, called the three Graces, and hiftorically, for any woman of 'It's, put 1. For the free and eternal favour and good will of God, which is the Well-spring of all the benefits that we have-2 Tim. 1-9. But according to his own purpose and grace. Rom. 11.6. If of grace, not of works, Oc. This is grace of Election, which makes us gracious and acceptable unto God. And by this grace we are so often in Striptures said to be justified and saved, Rom.

2. Faith, with all the healthful and faving effects and fruits.

2. Faith, with all the healthful and faving effects and fruits are freely given thereof: which are called Grace, because they are freely given us. Heb. 12. 15. No man fall away from the grace of God. 1 Pet. 5. 12. This is grace freely given, which Popili So-phisters do wickedly confound with that grace whereby we are freely beloved.

'3. Free imputation of Christs righteousness. Rom. 5. 1/5. The grace of God hath abounded unto many. Alto, verf. 17, 20, 21. In all which places, by Grace is meant, the righteouiness of Christ freely imputed to Believers. This is the grace of Justification, which Papists confound with grace of Sancti-to the obedience of his Will. Rom. 6. 14. Ye are under grace. · Also , vers. 23. 2 Cor. 12. 9. My grace is Sufficiene for thee. 'This is the grace of Sanctification, which is freely given, as a wirness of Gods favour in electing and justifying us.

6 5. That happy and bleffed condition into which we are admitted, and wherein we are kept by the good will and free favour of God. Rom. 5. 2. We have this accels into this grace where-

6. The gifts of the holy Spirit freely beftowed upon us. 2 Pet. 3. 18. But grow in grace. 1 Pet. 5. 10. and elsewhere often, as Joh. 1. 16. This also is grace, freely given, but doth not make us grateful to God.

7. The Spiritual or Evangelical Worship of God. Heb. 13.

'9. It is good the heart be established by grace.

8. Some Godly comfort and instruction to cause others to profit in godliness. Eph. 4. 29. That it may minister grace to the Heavers.

o. Almes or works of mercy to the poor. 2 Cor. 8. 4. That we would receive the grace.

' io. The bountiful liberality of God, enabling us to give to the poor. 2 Cor. 9. 8. God is able to make all grace abound towards

'11. Favour or liking with men. Gen. 19. 19. Thy servant bath found grace in thy fight. And elsewhere often, as Gen. 6.8.

12. The effectual presence of the Holy Ghost. Act. 14. 26. From whence they had been commended to the grace of God. I Cor.

' 15. 10. The grace of God. &c.

Note. Popish Sophisters wrest this place in favour of free will, as if our will by natural strength did concur with grace to bring forth a good work, which should be partly of the effi-'cacy of grace, partly from power of nature; therefore they 'corruptly translate the word of Grace of God with me leaving out the article n, which is mith me: and neglecting the scope of the Apostle, attributing all to grace and to the essicacy of the Spirit, which being present with him, made him labour, and to be what he was, and do whatfoever he did, himfelf being but an 'inftrument and servant to the grace of God, from whence flowes whatfoever is in man good and pleafing to God, it being imoffible any freedom towards good to be in our will, till it be freed by Grace from flaver; of fin, and fo far forth as it is free, it willeth, defireth, and worketh good things. Gods 'grace and Spirit working both the defire and deed, Phil. 2. 12.

13. Afflictions and bands, fuffered for Christ. Phil. 1.7. 'You are all partakers of my Grace. This was a free and peculiar 'gift, verf. 29.

' 14. The benefit and gift of heavenly wisdom. 2 Cor. 1. 12. Not by fleshly mission, but by the grace of God, &c. that is, by the wissom freely given me of God. '15. Generally, any benefit bestowed upon us. 2 Cor. 8. 1.

graces which he had to discharge it, Eph. 3.7. 'Beace for grace' A lively faith, as one grace; afterwards, eternal life, as another grace. Joh. 1. 16. And grace for grace, or, grace of the New Testament, for the grace of the Old Testament; permanent grace for shadowish: Theophylatt.

Or thus: Grace upon grace; that is, one grace of the Spirit after another; the Spirit of Christ daily pouring new graces upon us, and all freely. This is the best exposition.

Or thus: Grace, even grace thus freely given, without merits.

Like phrase in Job 2. 4. Amos 3. 15.
Or thus: Grace and favour shewed to us, for the love and favour which God bears his Son.

Or thus: Grace conveyed into us, from the fulness of grace

Note. Grace in the first place noteth these two things : 1. The gracious favour of God embracing his elect by Christ: This is the grace of Justification.

'2. The gift of the Spirit dwelling in the elect, and daily renewing them: This is grace of Sanctification.

'In the latter place [ for grace] is opposed unto the merit of works, and is as much as gratis, freely.

Some understand this of the most pure integrity which believers have, not by perfection of their own vertues, but by im-Duration of Christs perfect holiness. Both these fignifications may well fland together, for the Saints themselves have an un e perfect uprightness, by infusion of grace, and a perfect integrity from Christ, by imputation of his righteousness

Dail An impression gendred in the air, of a cold and movst vapour. The neerer the earth it is engendered, the thicker, the colder, the sharper it is, and falleth most commonly in the day time. That which is engendred in the higher clouds, through the heat of the air dissolveth, and so is lesser. It is usually in the Summer, for that the heat being then in the air, is beat back into the innermost parts of the cloud, where it causeth hail. Sometimes the dew falling on the earth, through the cold Northwind being drawn together, becomes as Hail. Herewith God punished Ægypt, Exod. 9. 23, 24. their vines and cattle, Psal. 78. 47, 48. Bair The company of the faithful, Can. 4. 1. Thine Hair is

Like the flock of Goats.

As by the bair, the people of Ifrael was fignified, Ezek. 5. 1, 2, 12. This is the ornament and covering of the head, proceeding from moisture and strength of nature, likened here to the hair of a flock of Goats, fed in a far pasture, as on Mount Gilead, whose bair is long, rank, and smooth, figuring the thoughts, purposes, divices, &c. which are ordered and composed aright according unto God, Ayrfw.

The Church is here minded of her duty, not to have a bald glabrous foul, but to abound in holy thoughts and contemplations, which will not be (like Absalons) our ruine, but our great praise and commendation. Annot.

Hair though it hang long upon the head, yet it may in time either fall off of it felf, or be cut off, so were the common Christians in Christs time, as it were bair for multitude, hanging on Christ the head, or falling many of them from him; either of themselves. Joh. 6. 66. or cut off by the practises of the Priests, Matth. 27. 20. Joh. 12. 42, 43. whence it was that Telias durft not commit himself to them, John 2, 23---25. Cotton.

As from the heat the hairs have what ever life or vigour is in them, so all they who by faith cleave unto Christ the head of the Church, do from him their head, derive all their vigour and spiritual nourishment. And as Mount Gilead is beautified by the multitude of Goats feeding thereon, which were it not for them would feem bald: fo is the Church by the faithful, feeding on Christ. Titelman.

Dr. Hall, and S. Finch, understand hereby the Churches gracious profession, and all her appendances and ornaments of expedient ceremonies.

Mount Gilead was fruitful with wholesome pasture, and a goodly fight it was to behold a flock of Goats ipread all abroad, and feeding thereupon, where the Lords people are aftembled, and are fed with the heavenly food, it is in his eyes a goodly and a comely thing. Giffard.

The hair of thine head like purple | Cant. 7. 5. This her hair like purple, denoteth her cogitations and purposes to be holy, heavenly, and as dyed in the bloud of Christ. In Can. 4. 1. the Spoules bair was likened to a flock of Goats. That description differing from this, seemeth to imply a variety of effate; for Gods people are not always of a like condition in this world, though ever glorious in his eyes.

The most spiritual sence is that which expounds all of the higher and lower offices, and Governours of the Church (the Original dallath properly fignifieth tenderness, or tenuity. Aynsw. Which under Christ are as lofty flout heads, and as purple and precious hair unto her, both for defence and ornament; for as Carmel fignifies dignity, and fiability: fo doth purple also, being double died and of a great estimation. Some understand here by the ceremonics by her used, (as it were the ornaments of her head, both the hair-lace and the borders, and all her attire) being for comlines and good order of special account, and a great grace unto her, no lefs then skarlet and purple, Hall, Finch.

And they had hair, as the hair of women, Rev. 9. 8. Their do-Arine hath many enticements to allure men to the liking of it and to provoke unto spiritual fornication. Leigh's Annot.

This noteth their effeminateneis, their lust, and wontonnels in themselves, and withal their carnal allurements to spiritual idolatry, as women do by their hair entice to corporal filthiness.

This figureth their hypocrifie, covering abominable evils, under the shadow of fained Sanctity. Comper.

His bead and his hairs were white like wooll, Revel. i. 14. This fignifieth Christs eternity, as it doth God the Fathers. Dan. 7. 9.

Bairy | Spoken of Efau, Gen. 25. 25. faid to be all over like an hairy garment, Heb. all of him life a martle of bair, which the Greek translateth life a rough bide. This also fignified his fierce, ftrong, and crafty nature. For bair is a fign of natural strength, and nature being corrupted, hairiness denoteth the power of corruption; therefore when Lepers were purified, all their hair was to be shaven off, Lev. 14. 8. Ayı'ıv. Pâl. 68. 21. And the bairy scale, Heb. the crown (or scale) of bair, meaning open and inevitable judgment on the chiefest and most sierce enemies.

This imports the admiration and reverence, whereby the heavenly creatures attended and expected that which was to be revealed by the feventh feal. Annot. b.

Lay hands suddenly on no man, I Tim. 5.22. That laying on bands is a ceremony of prayer, or benediction, is ordinarily known in the Old Testament, used first by the Father to the Children, in bestowing the blessing upon them, and with that succession to some part of the estate, Gen. 48. 14, 15. And from thence it was among them accommodated to the communicating of power to others, as Affiftants, or deriving it to them as Successors. So when Moses assumed the Seventy to affift him, Numb. 11. 17. it was done (faith Maimonides) by his laying hands upon them. And when he left the world, and conftituted Joshuah his Successor God oppointed him to lay his hands upon him, Numb. 27. 18. So Deut. 34. 9. From these three uses of the ceremony, in prayer, in paternal benediction. in creating of officers, three forts of things there are in the New Testament, to which it is principally accommodated.

1. In prayer it is used either in curing diseases, the corporal hands, Luk. 13.16. Act. 19.17. & 28.8. as it was foretold, Mar. 16.18. or pardoning sins, the piritual hands, Heb. 6.2. Where as the Eaprilms are those used among the Jews and Christians, for the admission of Proselites; so the imposition of bands doth probably denote the reftoring of penicents that were lapft after Bap-tim. From that of paternal benediction, is that of laying on bands in betfling of infants, Mar. 10. 16. By that means fignifying them to be fit to be received into the Church by Eaptifm, as those that have title to this Kingdom of heaven, the Church here, and through the same mercy of God in Christ, heaven here-

2. That of confirming those of full of age, that had formerly been baptized. Such that of the Ephesian disciples seem to be, Act. 19. 5, 6. to which in those times many extraordinary gifts were consequent, speaking with tongues, &c. as had formerly fallen out, Act. 10.44.

3. From that in creating Successors or assistants in power, came the use of imposition of hands in Ordination, whether of Bishops or Deacons, Act. 5. 6. & 8. 17. & 13. 3. 1 Tim. 4. 15. & 2 Tim. 1.6. Dr. Ham. Annot.

Dand writing The Moral Law of God, which because it is not fulfilled of us, accuseth us, and sheweth us to be guilty, as if our own hand-writing were brought against us, Col. 2. 14. He bath taken away the hand-wriling. Others think, that by Hand-writing is meant the Ceremonial Law, confifting in Rites, Ceremonies, Sacrifices, and Oblations; the innocent beafts which were flain in Sacrifices, and all other oblations for fin, witneffing (as a Hand-writing) how guilty and worthy we were to die through defert of fin. This is the better exposition; because it is termed, the Hand-writing of Rites or Ordinances. In Col. 2. 14. & Eph. 2. 17. It is called, the Law of the Commandements, which stands in Rites and Ceremonies. A Meta-

e will be bardeneth. Nate. This must not be so taken, as though God did begin to harden mans heart which was not infected before: for what is hardnesselse than resistance of Gods commandement? Which who so thinks to be the work of God, because of this saying (He hardneth whom he will) let him behold the first begin-'ning of mans corruption, and mark well the Commandement of "God; the disobedience whereof, made the heart to offend; and then let him truly confess, that whatsoever punishment befalleth him, fithence the first corruption, he suffereth it righteously and deservedly. For God is said to harden his heart whom he doth not mollify. So, he is faid to reject him, whom he doth not call, and to blind them whom · he doth not enlighten. - 4 Yet note further, that after this withdrawing of Grace, this 'also followeth thereupon, that God doth rightly minister occa-fions of fin in the wicked and reprobate, and marvelloufly inclineth the hearts of men, not only to good, but also to evil; as the same Aug. affirmeth in his book de lib. Arb. & Gratia cap. It appeareth sufficiently by holy Scripture, as Rom. 1.

2 Thest. &c. that God works in the hearts of men, to bend. incline, and bow their wills whereunto him lifteth; either to good according to the riches of his mercy; or, to wickedness. according to their own defert; by his judgment fometime manifeft, and sometime secret, but always just, for there is no iniquity with God. Therefore, when we read in Scriptures, that men were hardened, &c. let us not doubt but their finful defervings were fuch before, as that they did well deferve the punishment which followed. Yet God is no cause of wickedness. fimply and properly, as one who droppeth fin into the heart (as liquor is poured into a veffel) for men themselves are more than enough the true and natural cause of fin. ipatok | An unclean fowl which was not to be eaten, Lev. 11. 16. Deut. 14. 15. It only amongst all the fowls flyeth straight upright, and so cometh down to the ground. Whilest it's able to bring profit and delight to its Owner, it's fed, dieted, lookt to; when disabled, cast off. Its outward bulk is not answerable to its inward courage. When its young ones are able to fly, it gives them no meat, beats them with its beak and thrusts them out of the nest. It must not be kept either too lean, or too fat. Though made tame, yet ceaseth it not to be ravenous. It feedeth on the flesh, not on the heart of fowls. Bread (which prolongeth the life of other fowls) brings death to it. Having caught a Sparrow (being of a hot temper) it keepeth the same at its breast all night, whereby it's defended from the cold, and in token of thankfulness, in the morning difmisseth it unhurt. It's of quick fight, and very twift, and ftrong withall. If it miffeth its prey, it's fo vexed that it returneth not to its Owner. Towards winter it flyeth unto warm places, Job 39. 26. Finding it felf (through age and the weight of its feathers) unwieldy, and not well able to fly, the South wind blowing, it warmeth it felf by the Sun beams, whereby its pores being opened, her old feathers fall off, and new grow in the place. Its main strength is in the break, beaft, and clawes, Between the Hawk and the Hen there's no small difference: the Hen whilest alive, is not regarded, but when killed and made ready: on the contrary, the Hawk when dead is thrown on the dunghil, whileft alive, in high efteem.

inner man, the fpirit, or man as he is regenerate, opposed to the flesh or outward man, Rom. 2.28, 29. and the flesh and spirit, even in Gods children do lust one against another, that we cannot do the things we would, Gal. 5. 17. and when the fpirit is willing (to watch, pray, &c.) the flesh is weak, Mat. 26. 41. Whereas therefore ber beart maked while she stept, it significant that she gave not her self wholby to this negligence, but as the wife Virgins had their lamps burning, while all flumbered and flept, when the lamps of burning, winter all numbered and nept, when the samps of the foolish were gone out, Mat. 25, 4, 5, 8. So she had now given her self to fleshly ease, but had her heart and spirit otherwife disposed. Ayafm.

Some expound this heart objectively for Christ who (as lovers use to call one another) is the Churches beart, so beloved by her, and discharging those functions for her, which she could not for her self. Others bend the word to mean fundamentals and effentials, which are the heart of Religion, wherein the Church is, and shall be preserved Orthodox and pure, even when she may dornstate and lapse in lesser things. Others understand conscience, whose property it is even in the deepest luxury and lethargies wherein men can be buried, to lash them up by sharp and stinging accusations and terrors. When remisses and security had oppressed her in great measure, yet the inward bent and motion of her heart was active and vigilant. Though through native frailty and corruption, the best may put back and lay afide divine imployments and meditations, and devout exercises, (that is, as to the constant act and observation ) yet the godly beart is ever enclining to them, and even when beforted and flupified by carnal temptations and diversions, doth yet contend and defire to wait faithfully on Chrift. Annot.

In all the powers of the foul there is fomething good and fomething ill, something flesh and something spirit. As a Christian may know how it is with himself, though he be mixed of slesh and spirit: So we should as well acknowledg that which is good as that which is evil in our hearts. Gods children never totally fall from grace, though they fleep, yet their heart is amake. A Christian is what his heart and inward man is. A waking state is a blessed ffate. Sibe.

diffolution; nor doth it among profane Writers fignifie the place of the Danned, no nor any kind of place either common to both, or proper to either blis or woe, but only the flare of the Dead, a dus quase deed is, an invisible state. Dr. Ham.

'Bell] The grave, which is the companion of death, or the effate which follows after death; both the Greek words fignifie erave, and the matter requires this sence. For many Saints were to die amongst others; but it were wickedness to think the Saints to be devoured of the Hell of the damned. Rev. 6.8. And bell followed after him. Rev. 20. 13. Death and bell delivered up her dead. Also v. 14. If here we should understand bell for the place of the damned, it would be absurd to say that hell was cast into the burning lake, that were to say, Hell was cast into Hell.

Hell-fit? The whole extreme pain of the damned in hell, Mat. 5. 22. called damnation of bell, Mat. 23. 33. How [bould ye gleap damnation of bell? Fire being a most terrible Element, is fitted to express the dreadful state of such as be in

The earthly and vifible Church of Antichrift, did so drink up and swallow every drop of that salse Dodrine and heresie, that the true invisible Church, did abide pure, and did not get one drop of that poyson that Satan had spewed up. Napier.

The multitude of Christians in Councils prevailing in the Orthodox Faith, drank up the Diobolical inundation, even as the earth is wont to do the water, when it is exceeding drie. Mede.

The providence of God so ordered it, as that all these salse reproaches and attempts of infection prevailed not, but vanished away, even as a flood of land-water is swallowed up of the earth, and is seen no more. Hall.

There was a speedy riddance of this flood within Satans own dominion. Bernard. There's an allufion to the history of Korab. Dathan, and Abiram, who tole up against Moses and Aaron, Numb. 16. 32. As they were holpen by the earth against them, so God holp the woman here against the flood of most noysome and dangerous herefies, that they should not drown her; that is, did wonderfully put them down with their Authors, that they did vanish away, as if they had been swallowed up of the earth. All those herefies which for the space of 200 years overwhelmed the Christian world, were through the powerful efficacy of the holy Scriptures, and zeal of Orthodox Teachers, driven (as it were) into fmoke. Den A well known home-bred fowl. Till its young ones be hatched, it fasteth whole days, and when it rifeth, stayeth but a little while from the neft. It pulleth off the feathers from its breaft, that the heat may the better pass into the eggs. It's then fearless, keeping the nest, though much company be present. Its young ones being brought forth, it changeth its voyce and clucketh. It's more careful for their prefervation than its own. It feeketh food for them, and teacheth them to pick, scrape, feed. It sheltreth them under its wings, whereby not only they are kept warm, but kept safe also; when any danger is near, it calleth them together, and will rather endanger its own life then they should miscarry. It's very fertile, and both whilest alive and when dead it's profitable for the use of man. It is said, that the bones thereof when dead consume gold. Nor only doth it tend the Chickens, but if it hath fit on Duck-eggs, its careful also of the Ducklings, as if they were own Chickens. Hereunto Christ is compared, Mat. 23. 37. Luk. 12.34.

Shipping upon the Bills | Cant. 2.8. spiritually by the Mountains and Hills may be meant the Kingdoms and Nations of the World, subdued unto Christ, by the Preaching of the Gofpel, Rev. 11. 15. Or, it may be translated over the Mountains and over the Hills, paffing over all impediments, which might feem to hinder him, as the fins of his people, the opposition of the world and the like. See Zech. 4. 7. Ifa. 40. 4. & 41. 15. & 42. 15. Hab. 2. 6. Aynfw.

This phrase speaks both alacrity and strength; when the time of deliverance is come, Christ makes hast, and rejoyceth to save, and no Mountains or Hills, either of fin or mifery can from him. Our transgressions are great mountains but he levels and brings them down, even the highest imaginations of them, 2 Cor. 10. 4. our enemies are great hills, Zech. 4. 7. but he thresheth them, and beats them [mall, Ifa. 41. 15. It's faid in Prov. 5. 19. that the Hinde is pleasant, and the Roe loving, and so they are observed to be especially among themselves, leaping and playing together, and thus the fence appears brightly, I charge you O all ye daughters by that which is most dear and amiable in your eyes; as ever ye loved any thing that is lovely or pretty, or defire that it may not perish, that ye take beed what ye do; for else even these irrational creatures will rife up witnesses against you, Deuteronomy 30. 19. and then had you their feet and swiftness, you cannot outfly his vengeance, when he is incensed. So it is a charge, a prohibition upon their uttermost peril, Gen. 21. 23. Annot.

The Church chargeth her daughters as by an oath not to difurb the peace of Babel, not to feek prepofteroutly deliverance from thence before the time that Christ had appointed, left it turned to the diffurbance of her peace, and to the carrying away fuch Gentiles as were coming on to be Profelites, Jer. 29. 4-5.

Christ being careful for the peace and quiet of the Church, the Church here laboureth, that no offence may be given unto him.

Christians must abide in their place and standing, that is to say, in some honest and lawful vocation, as Rachel that looked to her Fathers herds, and not either through idleness or disorderly walking and following after finful pleasures to grieve the Spirit, and to give Christ cause, when they may have and hold him, to disjoynt himfelf from them. Bonour] is a tellification or witness of our good opinion which we conceive of the virtue or dignity, gifts or authority of others, being declared and shewed forth by external signs: these signs be fundry and many, as praise, verses, funee ral orations and duties, veiling of the bonnet, bowing of the body, relief and maintenance where it is due and needful, giving the upper hand, rifing to one, and fuch like; which yet "must not be given either out of time, or place or measure, but according to the proportion of graces and worthiness. To deny due and competent honour, to superiours or equals, or inferiours, (for who is without some gifts and dignity; ) is not only incivility, but injustice. Men may lawfully seek honour, and fland upon their honour, so it be without ambition, and contention, defiring only fo much honour, and from whom, and when it should, and as it is due for order and comliness sake.

'It's put for, 1. All that respect which we owe to our Govere nours of all forts, which more particularly doth confift in ree verence, love, obedience and thankfulness, as in the fifth Commandment. 1 Pet. 2. 17. Honour the King. Exod. 20. 12. Hos nour thy Father and Mother.

Counted worthy of double honour, I Tim. 5.17. The double honour refers to the Elder brothers portion, Deut. 21.17. and this going along with the power of ruling the family, Gen. 4. 7. (after the death of the Father) is fitly accommodated to the cauter the death of the Father) is fitly accommodated to the office of a Bishop in the Church, and so the electing of Barnabas and Paul to the Aposileship. Act. 13.2. is expressed by appeal arts, separate, the word used about the first born, Exod. 13. 2. Thus the double portion of the spirit of Elizarefting on Elisus, was the making him his Successor in the office of a Prophet, as the Father, above the ordinary Sons of the Prophets, to have rule over them. And so this verse is the setting down the reasonableness that the Bishop that discharged his duty or perfecture well, should be looked upon in all respects as one that hath the primogeniture of maintenance (to which vers. 18. refers) as well as dignity, especially if his pains be extraordinary. They make hol-low places in the earth for their neft, which as they increase in number, they inlarge. In their holes somewhat like honey is found, but fearce as a drop. Not providing food for themselves in the Summer, they fast or die in the Winter. By them (upon the prayers of a godly Bishop) a Christian City be-lieged by Sapors King of Persia, was delivered: for the Ele-phants and beasts being stung therewith, waxed unruly, and so the whole Army steel. Whatever little bird or beast they bill for one of them there was a supersonal to the way. they kill (as one of them flung a Sparrow to death ) they bring home a part thereof for their fellows and young ones. They keep watch about Bee-hives, and getting upon their backs make use of them as a charior, whereon they ride and having deprived them of all their food, cruelly kill them. In the Indies they are very troublesome, being both of a deadly enemy, entring into their holes, and destroying both their brood and nefts.

The Dragons power and strength is here called ten horns. Horn in Scripture is commonly taken Metaphorically, and fignifirst ftrength, might, power, kingdom, glory. The number Tin is here taken indefinitely for all those Rings, Princes and Captains ander them, who banded themselves against the woman, which by the perfect number of Ton, are noted to be exceeding many. See Rev. 13. 1. Leigh's Annot.

Two horns like a lamb | Rev. 13. 11. The two horned beaft, or falle prophet, is the Bishop of Rome and his Clergy, having horns indeed like a Lamb, of whose authority of binding and loofing, he braggeth that he hath a deputation. His two horns like a Lamb, that is, that twofold power of binding and loofing, committed to Peter, and the rest of the Apostles by Christ. This authority the beast pretendeth, and in that he carrieth himself as Christs Vicar. Mede.

Bozte A well-known beaft, useful for war, journey, carriage and to draw chariots, &c. The more couragious it is, the deeper it putteth its nostrils in the water whilest it drinketh. Though whilest young it's very untractable, yet afterward being broke it withert young its very untratable, yet alletward ording older to prove to fingular use. As it's of a great body, so is it for great labour. Being to drink, it usually with its feet troubleth the waters, that they become muddy. To reftrain its fierceness, a bridle, to remedy its laziness, a spur must be used. It's a jealous beaft and the Mare having conceived, will not take horse till it have foaled, and then not foon after, it's apt to be taught, and obey its Rider. It's fierce and warlike. Whose description we have in Job 39: 22-28. It's proud and flately, especially ren bravely gamilled. It's much taken with Musick. It's hi-bidinous. Delightech in the plains. Is myefi fubject at kind-fles of all forms. It's very laborous, appecially with firong and well kept. It's very faithful unto his Rider. It's an enemy to Bears, Camels, Elephants, &c. As horfes carry wares

a devouring and defiling nature. To them the Gray or Brock is 1 their Owner leadeth them; who must goor run, they to whom they carry them, refting at home, who in their journey are of-ten troubled with dogs, whole barking notwithstanding they weigh not: So Gods Ministers carry the Gospel to others, &c. with whom Christ is always present, even he that sitteth on the white horse, Rev. 19-11, 12. His cammands only they must obey (as Bucephalus would suffer no other save Alexander to get on his back) not be the devils hacknies. Before it obey its Rider, it must be taught. That horse proves most serviceable, which after his labours is well lookt to, fed, let rest. A bad horse is not bettered by a golden bridle, nor is a noble horfe to be employed in drudgery. A free horfe needeth not the spur, is often dulled thereby. When young, and lufty, and able to travel, it's much fet by, but when old and lazy, employed in drudgery work.

The Sybarites having taught their horses to dance at the found of a pipe, the Crotoniates when they were to fight with them, brought Pipers along with them, whose founding made the horses dance, and betray both themselves and Riders.

It's a lively beaft, knoweth its Owner, will fight for him (as it's faid of fome) and lament for him when dead. My Mothers house, Cant. 3. 4. This may be understood either of the Church of God in her publick Congregations which is the Mother of us all, or elfe of the fanctified heart and confcience which is, the dwelling of Christ, where we should lay him up by faith, and keep him fafely as a jewel of ineftimable price.

* House of Daper The place appointed to assemble in, for the publick worship of God. Whereof, because prayer is a chief part, therefore the place of divine worship is called the house of prayer, as the people assembled in that place are called the house of God. Mat. 21. 13. My house shall be called the house of Prayer. The Papifts idly and soolishly wrest these words, thereby to prove that Temples are made for facrifice: Others as foolifhly abuse it, to shut out preaching. The best way is not to sever what God hath joyned.

17.33.14. Annot.
"Ho speak lies in hypocrifie] In the uttering of falshood and errors, to cover them with religious and holy pretences.

* I Tim.4.2. Speaking lies in bypocrifie.

'This cannot agree unto those old Hereticks, the Manichees. Enchratites, and Marcionites, which ascribed the institution of Marriage, and the Creation and Procreation of mankind to Satan, and affirmed of certain meats, that they were of the Devil: as the Manichees, who faid that flesh, Egs, Milk, and Wine were the gall of the Prince of darkness, and that the Devil made flesh of the stinking matter of evil. Likewise Marcian the Heretick held, that they which did eat flesh, did as if they eat and devoured fouls, August. Hares. 42.

These speak fails od in open blasphemy. But the Papiss that do not in express downright tearms, absolutely condemn Meats and Marriage, to be unclean, but affirming all Creatures in their own nature to be pure and good, yet under pretence of holiness, religion, chaftity, purity, fasting, prayer, by Laws and Decrees forbid Marriage and Means to fome men at all times; are they of whom the Spirit speaketh evidently, that they utter their false doctrine in hypocrisie; and therefore had need to be defcribed by these notes, and the Church to before warned of them, by this prophetic of St. Paul.

2. He that maketh semblance and shew, to be that which he is not in deed, and in truth; outwardly appearing righteous, and being inwardly full of iniquity, like graves or painted tombs, Mat.23.27. Wo to you Scribes, Pharifess, Hypocrites, for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appar beautiful outward, but are within full of dead mens bones, and of all uncleanness, Mat.6.2. Therefore, when thou dost thine almes, do not found a trumpet before thee, as the bypocrites do, in the Synagogues, and in the firects, that they may have glory of men; verily, I say unto you, they have their 'remard, Mat.6.5.
'Hypocrites be close diffemblers, which outwardly cover and cloak their wickedness, wherewith inwardly they be defiled. The Greek word (from whence our English word is borrowed) fignifieth, an under-judgment, that is dissimulation.

Such may be discovered by these notes.

They say and do not, Mat. 23.3.
They require much of others, and plead for great things. to be done by others, which they do not themselves, Ibid.4.

3. What they do, is to be seen of men, Ibid. 5. & Mat. 6. 1.

4. They affect greatness in the respects and entertainments of others, Ibid. 6--12. 5. They do duties of Religion of purpose to hide some foul fin, Ibid. 14. 6. They are curious and strict in small matters, and neglect the greater duties, Ibid.23.24.

7. They are careful to avoid outward faults, but make no conscience of the inward foulness of the heart, Ibid. 25.27.

8. They commend and magnifie the godly absent, or of former ages; but hate and abuse the godly present, and of their own times, Ibid.29--36.

9. They ferve God outwardly, but their hearts are carried away with the vile distractions, Isa.28.13.

To. They pray only in the time of fickness and danger, when they are forced to it, but shew no love of prayer, or delight in God in time of prosperity, or deliverance, Job 27. 8, 9.

11. They judge others severely for smaller faults, being in the mean time themselves guilty of greater crimes, Mat. 7.5.

12. They are over-much just, making fins where God makes none, Luk.12.14.

13. Being convinced in their own conscience, yet do not they confess it, nor yield, though they know the truth, Luk. 12. 56,57, &c. Byfield on 1 Pet.2.1. p.210.

14. The feeming good they do is out of oftentation, and ambition, Mat.6.1,2,5,16.

"Generation of Jacob] A multitude of men coming of Jacob, not by carnal defeent, but by spiritual birth born from above; for Jacobs posterity is twofold, spiritual and carnal, Rom. 9. 8. Pal. 24. 6. This is the generation of Jacob, of them which seek God: this is meant of the spiritual posterity. As Aaron is put for his posterity, the Aaronites, 1 Chr. 12.27. & 27. 12. Also David is put for his children, 1 Chr. 4.31. So Gods people (the posterity of Jacob) are called both Jacob and Israel every often in Scripture. Jacob is a name of Instruity, for he strove for the birth-right, but obtained it not when he took his Brother by the heel in the womb, and thereupon was called Jacob, Gen. 25. 22, 26. But Ifrael is a name of power and principality; for after he had wrestled with the Angel, behaved himfelf princely, wept, prayed, and prevailed; his name was there-by changed from Jacob to Ifrael, that is, a Prince and prevailer with God, Gen. 32.24, 26, 28. Jannes As Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses, 2 Tim. 8. These names are not to be met with in the story of the Old Testament, but are taken out of other Records of the Jews (as divers other things mentioned in the New Testament touching Moss, Act.7.22,23,25.) being the name of the chief Magicians, who did the miracles before Pharaoh, Exod. 7. In those Records they are named Johanne and Mamre, Janis and Jambres, Johanne and Membre, Jane and Memre, Jones and Jambres, John and Ambrose, Jones and Jambres. And among the Heathens John and Amonge, Johns and Jamoros. And among the Heathers in Pliny, there is talk of Moses, Jannes, and Cabala (or as other Copies read Jotape) which he mentions as Jows that used Magick. They are faid to be skill'd in the holy things among the Agyptians, inferior to none in the art of Magick, and the Priests above Atmphis. They are in an Arabick Manuferin tamend Deiannes Jambarus and Suradas, and that God destroyed them with Pharab and bis hosse in the red Sea. To these Sain Paul her every fitly compares the Gnosticks, and their chief Founder Simon (and Micropares the Gnosticks, and their chief Founder Simon (and Micropares the Sain Sea.) rounder and others after him) being a known Sorcero, and refining the truth by lying wonders, as those Magicians did. And of him we find that fulfilled in the event, which is here foretold, vers. 9. that he should meet with the like fate, and discovery that those Magicians met with, for having undertaken to fly, he was carryed up in the air by a Chariot of the Devils, but was thrown down from aloft to a notorious infamous death. one that fate, was to look upon, like a Jasper stone. Some Interpreters think by these three precious stones, Jasper, Sardine, and Emerald, the mysterie of the three Persons in one glorious God-head to be refembled, and in some sort opened. The Father fountain of Deity, shadowed by Jasper (which is Mater Genmarum) most ancient, and of greatest variety. The Son (who was made flesh for us) fignified by the Sardine, which is of a fleshly colour; therefore called Carneell. The Spirit by the Rain-bow, or Emerald, which is for beauty and pleasure, most delightful; to note the unexpressible sweetness of the holy Spirit; such then is God; one in Essence, three in Persons.

He compareth not this light of that Church to any light in heaven or earth; for the Son is sometimes darkned by Clouds, and hurteth our eyes, if we look too wiftly on it: The Moon and Stars lose their light, when the Sun appeareth, and our Madelights decay. But it is compared to a Jaffer, which is not darkned by Clouds, neither doth hurt our eyes; but the more we look on it, the more it pleaseth us; neither doth it leave shining when the Sun shineth, nor doth the brightness of it go out at any time.

Hole of every idle word, Mat. 12.36. It is the custom of all Writers, very frequent in the Sacred Dialect, to use phrases, whereby they understand much more then they express. So degree place idle word, is much more than idle, vain, even blat-phemous speeches. The word depsin, may bear proportion in sense to the Hebrew &IU, which signifies vain indeed, but fre-quently suif, because that which is falle wants the solidity and fubstance of truth. It's quasi degy . when the words are without deeds agreeing to them. It may refer to the notion of movinger pieca, used for reproach and contumely, ch. 5.11. for such was that against Christ, vers. 24. that great contumely and falsity of his casting out Devils by the Prince of Devils. That it is some grand crime, not every word which tends not to fome special end of Christian edification, appears by the next verse, where they are affirmed to be such, as for which under Christ, men are sure to be condemned, and not by evil works or actions only. An Idol to be as an empty and vain dream; not in respect of the matter whereof it is made, (for that is something) or of the external form, but in respect of the internal form which doth counterfeit and falfifie true things, making them feem to be what they are not. Also in respect of the vain mind of the Idolater, who wickedly imagineth some divinity to be in the Idol, whereas there is but one true God in the world. Therefore worthily is an Idol faid to be nothing, being a falfe and lying fign, a very fiction, being nothing for fignification, though fomething for substance, a piece of wood, ftone, &c. 1 Cor. 8. 4. An Idol ought to represent either God, which it cannot, he being unlike to any mortal thing: or Gods, which are none, for there is but one God.

Adolater, or with Modaters 1 Cor. 5. 10. That & do Ao Adology here is not to be reftrained to the particular fin of wor bip. ping pictures or images, will be probable by the rest of the fins which are joyned with it, for which a Christian Professor is to be excommunicated, ver. 11. It feems rather to refer either to the joyning in the Idol feafts, of which the Gnostick bereticks were guilty; or else to those filthy practices so frequent and customary in their mysteries, as prime rices of the Heathen salse Worships, and taken up in a most vile manner by the Gnoslicks also. That the word should thus be used, will appear most reasons. nable,

1. Because of the words used in the Old Testament, to signifie an idol, (קרוב), is one, which fignifies pollution or filth, by which any man is contaminated, and which is formimes rendred BSEAUZHA, abomination, and the false god, or Idol meant fometime, when BSEAU yua, abomination is used, as Wild. 12.

2. Because their Heathen worships were so full of these foul fins, Ibid. 14.23, & 26,27. Jer. 44.19. I King. 14.24. See Lev. 18.24,25,27,28,29. To which purpose no doubt it was, that the fign of Gods Covenant with his people, was that of Circumcifion, a fign of the excision of pleasures, noting the cashing off that superfluity of naughtines, which had been practifed among those Nations; and the same is more then intimated in our Baptifm, the outward part of which is the washing away the filth of the field, and figurifies the forfaking of all the finful lufts thereof. So i King. 15. 12. the Idols and the Sodomites are mentioned together. And 2 King. 23. 7. the houses of the Sodomites are cast down. So Isa, 57.5. christ is the image of God, 1. In operation, because it is he that workerh Gods image in

2. In apparition, because he appeared for God to the Father in the Old Law.

3. In Person; and that in both natures, both as God and

For, the most perfect image of God is, christ God; the perfect image of God, is Christ-man. The unperfect image of God, is Man. He is the perfect image of God, as he is God, Phil.2.6 Heb. 1.4. and this image is an infinite image, like the thing refembled; and this is the same in number, not in specie only, with the thing resembled.

He is also the image of God as he is Man, 1 Tim. 2. 16. and that.

1. As the God-head dwells in Christ bodily; in respect of the unutterable presence of the divine nature.

2. As by his miracles and great works he manifested his Divine nature, and shewed God in the world.

3. As his Humane nature is qualified with knowledge, righteoutness, purity, and other gifts. For if man be Gods image in re-fpect of this, Christ is so much more.

Christ then as he is God, is not only the image of the invisible image of God; but as man, he is the visible image of the invisible God. Byfield on Col. 1. 15. p. 110. 111.

'3. That which being once dead, shall rise again never to die more, as mens bodies. 1 Cor. 1 5-53. Mortality must put on Immortality.

4. That which shall never have end, though it have a ke-ginning; as Angels, and mens souls; of which though it be not in express words said in Scripture, that they be Immortal, yet innumerable places by good consequence prove them to be so, as 1 Cor. 15. verf. 19. 2 Cor. 5. verf. 1. Luk. 16. 22, 23, 24,

Something may be called Immortal four ways.

First, that which simply and every way is incorruptible, as God, 1 Tim.1.16.

Secondly, that which is incorruptible according to the fubstance and perfection of nature, either being severed who!ly, or not derived at all out of any matter, which is ufu-'ally the root of corruption. Thus Angels and Souls be immortal.

'Thirdly,

'Thirdly, that which in its own nature is corruptible, yet by special divine ordinance is preserved from corruption. Thus bodies of Saints in Heaven, and of Reprobates in Hell after the Refurrection, be immortal; the one by Grace, the other by

Fourthly, that which so hath possibility to corrupt and die, that it might not actually corrupt by the Creators gift, and upon 'supposition of not finning: so Adams body before the Fall was 'immortal, that is, had power not to die; as after his Fall it was under necessity of death and could not but die.

2. An action of God, freely accounting the righteousness of *Chrift to be his righteoutiness, who believes in Chrift. Rom. 4.

*3, 4. And it was imputed (or accounted) to him for righteoutiness.

*In Rom. 4. this word [Imputed] derived by Popish Hereticks,

*is feven times repeated in the doctrine of Justification, and is joyned unto Faith; without which there is no imputation of Chrifts Justice to us, Rom. 4. vers. 23. Our fins and punishments were imputed to Christ (who bare our fins in his body, and was made fin for us, 1 Pet. chap. 2. vers. last.) And his righteourners with the merit thereof (even eternal blifs) is imputed and accounted to all believers; whence arifeth justification of a finner before God, 2 Cor. 5. verf. last, He that herew no fin was made fin for us, that we might be made the righ-teousness of God in him. 'The Papifts (coffing at this most necessary and divine action of imputing righteousness to faith apprehending Chrift, calling it in their Notes printed at Rhemes, a New-no-justice, an untrue imputation, an imaginary thing, a putative righte-outners, a fantaflical apprehention: In these and such like taunts, they utter so many blasphemies, against heaven, and all to maintain and establish their own righteousness of Works done after Faith.

'To impute (as some describe it) is to ascribe or account unto another that which he hath not; or that which he did not; and not to impute, it fignifieth, not to account or ascribe and lay to one that which he hath or doth. According to this interpretation, God in justifying elect finners, imputeth to his own Son fins and miseries which he never had or did. And unto finners he imputeth, or accounteth not (but forgiveth) fins and punishment, which they had and did; and imputeth righteousness (even the whole obedience of Christ) which they have not of their own, yet so accounteth it to them, as if by them-'felves ir had been done, 2 Cor. 5, 21, Rom. 4, 5, Rom. 2, 24, & 4.6 '& 14.10. Ifa 42.12.

Note. Imputation being properly used, noteth a righteousness by grace and acceptation; but improperly, when it is joyned with other words, as Rom. 4. 4. 1 Cor. 4. 1. then it fignifieth defert, and debt, quite contrary to his natural fignification, even as the word Profane foundeth, a foul and damnable thing, but onot fo in Matth. 22. 5.

Learned Divines affirm (as Illyricus and others) that things 'indifferent, that be of a middle nature, cease to be such, when any of these conditions following are annexed unto them:

1. Compulfion.
2. Opinion of worthip, necessity or merit.

'3. Scandal and offence.

4. Entrance, and occasion of abuse, or Idolatry.

Any hinderance to truth or edification, or obscuring and darkening of religion and piety by them, though they should contain no other evil in them.

A conformity and through agreement amongst all Christian 'Churches, in outward Rites and Ceremonies, is neither necessa 'ry nor possible, because of the great differences of places, peo-

And the being before instructed of her Mother, Mat. 14. 8. The word ressisation hath a peculiar notion for a Client instructing an Advocate in his Cause, telling him the heads of his defence: And so it may properly fignifie here, that Herodias instructed her Daughter what she should propose to the King by way of request. But it signifies also, to stir up, perswade, instigate. The Interpreters of the Old Testament use it for 73W, to sharpen, Deut.6.7. and that belongs to the same sense. Dr. Ham. Annot. a.

Instructer Gen. 4. 22. Hebr. whetter, marg. Rom. 2. 20. A teacher ( mais-sulfa) as of Children, whether by word or correction, 1 Cor.4.15. παιθαγωρός, a School-mafter, or Child-

"Intercelsion, or request ] The request which the death of Christ maketh for believers after they have finned, that their fins may be pardoned for his merit, and their imperfect obedience accepted; or, it is the merits of Christs death coming between our fins and Gods justice, to appeale it, as an Advocare that pleads for his Client, 1 Joh. 2.2,3. Rom. 8.3,4. And maketh request for us, Heb. 9.24. He appears in heaven for us.

' Christ is our Intercessour four ways:

First, by appearing for us in the fight of God, Heb.9.24. Secondly, by the force of his Sacrifice once offered, to make full fatisfaction to Gods juffice, Heb. 10.12,14.

'Thirdly, by his constant will; that for the merit of that facrifice, God would be pacified towards the Elect, Heb-

Laftly, by the affent and agreement of the Father refting in this will of his Son for us, Joh. 11. 42. Matth. 17. 6. Popilh e intercession of the Virgin Mary, and other Saints, doth disho-

' nour Christ the only Intercessour. The Spirit maketh request, by caufing the faithful to make requests; ftirring up cries and groans in their hearts, Rom. 8. 26. 15. being compared with Gal.4.6. The continual Intercession of Christ, and his prayers made in the days of his flesh, were figured by the bels of gold in Agrons skirts.

2. The request which we make one for another, in the name of our intercellour Christ, either for good things to be given, or evil things to be removed from us. I Tim. 2. 2. 2. VIII. Heavenly, Matth. 25. 21, 23. Luk. 15. 7, 10. John 16. 21.

It's put also, 1. for that which is hoped for, Ezek. 35.5. Heb. 12.2. 2. The object of joy, or that which gladdeth, namely prosperity, Job 20.5. A merry life, Eccl. 8.15.

3. Cheerfulness, and a ready endeavor, 2 Cor. 8.2.

4. A refing or relying upon, Iia.8.6.
This is spoken of God, Jesus Christ, the holy Ghost, Angels, Believers, &c.

-. Of Joyes, some are,

1. unnatural, Job 3.22.

2. Some fensual; such are the joys Epicures conceive in the pleafures and sports of this life, Job 21.12. Eccl. 11.0.

3. Fantaflical; when men rejoyce in meer conceits and fancies. without any ground, as some do when very fick.

4. Diabolicall; when men rejoyce in fin, rejoyce in the milery of Gods people, Ezek. 25.6. And when (through the illufion of Satan to keep them in security) their hearts are tickled with a great deal of joy.

5. Spiritual; being either temporary, which the wicked may feel in the hearing of the Word, Mat. 13. 20. or eternal, as which being now in the hearts of Gods children, shall never either totally or finally be loft. How this last kind may be difcerned from all other joys, is shewed by Mr. Byfield on 1 Per. 1.8.

All jop and peace | Solid and perfect joy, which always, remains, being never taken from them: And by peace is meant tranquility and rest in their own conscience by forgiveness of fins, and concord with their brethren, that there be no longer variance and diffension amongst them. Of which two gifts, Toy and Peace, the true cause is the righteousness of faith. Rom. 15. 13. Fill you with all joy and peace through believing. In this clause Paul alludeth unto the former, saying, Rom. 14.17. The Kingdom of God is righteousness, joy, and peace in the holy Ghall.

Joy darkned] Turning of mirth into heaviness, as the air in the evening waxeth dark. Ifa. 24. 11. All joy is darbened.

Foy of God Comfort of mind, arifing from God's goodness, manisested in some outward or inward deliverance. Pfal. 51. 12. Restore to me the joy of thy Salvation; that is, thy deliverances were wont to make me glad, let it be so again with

"Alop in harveff] Mirth mingled with labour and sweat, hardly gotten, and dear bought joy, such as Souldiers have of the spoil after a battel. Ita. 9. 3. According to the joy of barvest. &c.

"Mo hear of joy and gladness" To be made joyful and glad, by hearing and believing the glad tidings of forgiveness of fins: For joy comes from faith, and faith by hearing. Pfal. 51.8. Make me to hear of joy and gladness.

Joy in the holp Ghoff A gladfome sweet and comfortable motion of the heart, stirred up by the Spirit of adoption, upon the feeling of Gods love in Chrift, to eternal life; and upon the tokens of that love, both in earthly and fpiritual bleffings. Rom.14.17. The Kingdom of God is righteousness, peace, and joy in the boly Ghost. This is called Christs joy, Joh. 15. 11. And glorious joy, 1 Pet. 1.8. because it is part of the Kingdom of heaven.

And joy in the boly Ghoft, Rom. 13. 17. That aceg, joy, Gal. 5. 22. fignifies not the natural passion, but the Christian virtue, and that again most probably that which is exercised toward our Brethren, appears by the ayam, charity, before, and eiping, peace, &c. after it, and therefore it must be understood in that notion, which shall be agreeable thereto, either to fignifie the rejoycing at any good that befalls another, but especially at the virtuous actions performed by him (which I Cor. 13.6 is rejoycing in the truth, i.e. ingrity and fincerity of another opposite to his o'drie, doing amis precedent) or else the defire or delight of doing good to others, which is a thing very pleasant to him that hath it, and as the cause of joy to them that receive benefit from it, may perhaps be called joy. Accordingly joy in the holy Ghost, that grace of the Christian flowing from the fanctifying Spirit of God, or which is according to the will of God; a holy Chriftian joy is the feeking and advancing the spiritual weal and good of others; as the grieving of them is the contrary, the wounding of their consciences and occasioning their fin. Jopate and Jewels] Turnings, or things which comof rich lewels.

4 2. All rich and glorious inward graces, and spiritual ornaments, Cant. 7.1. The joynts of thy thighs are like fewels.

The Original word for joynts used only in this place hath the fignification of turning or going about, and feemeth to mean the bones that turn and move in the hallow of the thighs. These are likened to jewels or ornaments, fignifying the firm, upright, goodly, and glorious stature, gesture, walking and conversation of this Princes daughter, well befeeming the Gospel which she profesfeth; being in fit, orderly and due proportion, as the Greek verfion also implyeth, Ayriw.

The word for jewels is found only here, and springs from a root that fignifies to boar, or infert, or fasten, or link one thing into another, as skilful workmen do in their curious chains, and other jewels, and chiefly, as the great Artift, rall' & Zozno, the Omnipotent wife Creator of man, hath fashioned and united his joynts and bones wonderfully together, which like wheels and compasses move and turn in their order, as he hath appointed. Then which nothing can be a fitter symbole of the Church, which is the work of God too, Isa. 50.21. whose body is fitly joyned together and compacted by that which every joynt supplyeth, Ephel. 4. 16. and in whose praise nothing can be said greater, then that she is careful to preferve and keep this decent compagination: Not a greater bleffing defired for her, then that the may always have her joynes and parts thus beautified, and ffrengthened with truth and peace, which is the work of the same skilful hand that formed her at first. To make Peace is the Prerogative of the God of peace.

Thou that judges, Rom. 2.1. Here, and in the end of the vert and vers. 3. is clearly the Gnosticks Judaizer, who teaches the observation of the Mosaical Law, and accuses the Orthodox Chriflians, who are not circumcifed, for breakers of the Law, and yet himself runs riotously into those fins, for the abstaining from which, Circumcifion was defigned and inflituted by God. This judging and condemning of the Gentile Christians was by them taken up from the Jews, who having themselves guilt enough of fins as well as the Gentiles, would yet discriminate themselves from all others, by this or the like character of Legal observances, as by that which should justifie them, or free them from judgment, under which the Gentiles which knew not the Mofaical Law, and were not circumcifed; were to lie, and be accurfed. Thus is the word used, chap, 14.4. Of the Jewish christian, that abstained from some forts of means, vers. 2. And though he doth that, cither out of weakness, as that fignifies disease, erroneous seduction, or at least out of infirmity and ignorance, as thinking himself bound to it by the Mojairal Law (which he believes still to oblige) and so ought not to be despised or set at nought by him that understands Christian liberty, yet doth very ill in judging all others that do not abstain as he doth. For this is the very same error that is here reprehended in the Tems and Gnoflicks, of judging all others as men out of Gods favour because they do not what they do, or pretend to do, i. e. observe not the Ritual parts of Moles's Law. This is particularly markt in the Tews, Mac.7.1. and beaten down by Christ as an irrational fin-Dr. Hamm. Annot. a 19. Be not thou just overmuch. Wherefore shoulds thou be disolate? Examples of such as to their hurt havetransgressed the bounds of Justice, under pretence of dealing justly, or of not partaking in injustice; we have the man mentioned, 1 King. 20. 35, 30. who because he would not seem unjust, by smiting an innocent 'and godly Prophet (though commanded of God to to do) was 'devoured by a Lyon. Such a thing was that which Saul did, when he spared the fattest of the flock for to facrifice unto God, I Sam. 15. 9. So Timothy by too much abstinence from wine (thinking by fuch aufterity to have reduced the riotous Ephelians to temperance) had almost overthrown the state of his boday, 1 Time 5, 23, See 2 Cor. 2, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. The Co-rinthians were too fevere toward the incefhuous man. Serranus thinks that in this sentence of Ecclesiastes, is condemned a too great and furly boldness of such, who under pretence of juffice and wildom, do proudly judge of the judgments of God, speaking evil of his works, because of some disorder which appeareth in them: whereof Solomon hath spoken in vers. 17. Tremellius and Junius say, that the precept of Solomon calleth upon men to temper and moderate their judgment of themselves, that they neither attribute too much to their own discretion, nor yet too much debase and deject themselves. The Note of Geneva Bible is, that it forbids to boast much of our own justice and wisdom. The first exposition sitteth best both the phrase and circumfances. 2. Whatfoever we have from Chrift, either by imputation of Faith, or by fanctification of the Spirit effectually renewing us. "Tit. 2.7. That we being justified by his grace. In this fignification we find the word [justifier] used, Rom. 8. 30. Whom he called, them he justified. Here Justification is used largely for Sanctification alfo.

· Justification is an action of God, freely, of his one mercy and favour abfolving a believing finner from the whole curfe due to 'his fins, and accounting him perfectly just in his fight, unto eter-' nal life in heaven, through the perfect obedience and fufferings of Christ imputed to his faith, unto the everlasting praise of Gods 'iuftice, mercy, and truth, Rom.3.24,25. & 4.5. & 5.19. 2 Cor. 5.19. Rom.4.4.

The efficient cause of justification is the grace of God; the material, is Christ our Redeemer; the formal, imputation of our sins to him, and his justice to us; the helping instrumental cause 'is faith within, and the Gospel without, Rom. 5.9. I Tim. 2. 6.
'The final cause is Gods glory, the utmost, our salvation the neerceft end thereof.

'Justification before God, is not known in all Scripture to be used for the infusion of the habit of justice into the fouls of the elect, at their first conversion, of unjust to 'make them habitually just. '5. To over-match, overcome, and exceed others in evil. for as others may feem to be just in comparison of them. Ezek. 15. 51. Thou hast exceeded them in thine abomination, and hast justified them in all thy abominations. Jer. 3.6.

'6. To be more just, or less unjust. Jer.3.11. Ifrael bath justified her felf more than Judah.

'7. To exempt one, and to make him utterly and wholly free from any thing. Rom. 6. 7. He that is dead is justified from fin; that is, freed from fin, as some Translations have

'8. To endeavour to make himself more just, or profit and persevere in righteousness. Rev. 22.12. He that is just, let him field be justified. Thus it is read in the Original Greek Text. Here it is used of that inchoate and unperfect righteousness, which is inherent in the regenerate.

'In all the Old Testament, it cannot be found, that the word which fignifieth [justifing] is ever used in the Original Hebrew tongue, otherwise then for [absolving] the person accufed. Neither in the New Testament, when our [justification] before God is spoken of, hath it any other meaning; and ever found (in this Argument) to fignifie, of one evil and unjust, to make him just and good.

Note. There is a justification of opinion only, as that Lawyer in Luk. 10. justified himself: and the Pharisees in Luk. 16. 15. Secondly, there is another justification in truth and very deed, even before God; and this is twofold:

'I. Legal, by perfect keeping of the Law, which could give righteoulness and life eternal to the doers, could any be found that by his own strength could fulfill it, Rom. 2. 13. &c

'2. Evangelical; to wit, the perfect righteoniness which was in the Man Christ, being imputed to the believer, Rom. Three reasons out of Rom.4. why a man cannot be said to be justified by a righteousness habitual, insused, or inherent, as Papiffs understand the phrase in Rom. 4.5.

First then, it should not be written, that faith was accounted for righteousness, but an infused habit was imputed: whereas he he faith not this latter, but the former, vers. 5.

'Secondly, then Paul would not say that righteousness is imputed without the works of the Law, in vers. 6. The elect are infified being finners and wicked men, Rom. 4.5. Therefore the thing for which they be justified, cannot be their own inherent justice, Phil. 2. 6. For habitual righteousness, or inherent justice, it is a work of the Law, and sticketh in the justified per-fon. But what so slicketh, and is adherent, cannot be said to be imputed, which is understood of something without, and which we have not in us.

'Thirdly, fuch as be justified by insufed justice, of them it cannot be affirmed, that their fins are covered, forgiven, and not imputed. For habitual justice expelleth and takes away all fin, and hideth it not; whereas a wicked man is justified by hiding and remitting his fins, verf. 7. And to these, that inherent Justice is all one with Sanctification, which may not be confounded with Justification.
'The doctrine of Justification by Faith only, without the Works of the Law, is not only grounded on Scripture, Galat. 2. 28. Rom. 13. 28. but found Antiquity hath subscribed to this truth. The believer (faith Ambrose on 1 Cor. 1.) is saved by Faithalone, without Works, receiving gratis the remiffion of fins. Again, they are freely justified; working nothing onor making recompense, but justified sola Fide, by Faith alone through the gift of God, Ambrofe in Rom. 2.9. Again, he faith in Rom. A. Abraham was justified not by the Works of the Law, but Fide fola, by Faith alone.

'The Apostle (faith Origen) teacheth the Justification solius Fidei, of Faith alone, to be sufficient. In Rom. lib. 3. Thus the Thief and the Publican, and finful woman, in Luk.7. were justi-'fied, faith Origen. Also Basil (sola side) by faith alone in Christ, 'a sinner is justified. This one thing (saith Chrysola) I earnestly affirm, that fides fola, faith alone by it felf made the Thief fafe, 'and that no works, per fe, by themselves have ever justified the

'Hierom on Rom. 4. God justifieth the wicked converting, per 'folam fidem, and not by works, which he had not: And again, to the Sons of Abraham, faith alone is imputed for righteouf-

Athanafius ad Galat. Faith alone hath in it the power of Ju-'flifying. In all which fentences, Faith alone doth not exclude 'the Grace of God, the Merits of Chrift, and the Word and Sa-'craments, but Humane works and merits.

To Fustifie is fourfold.

1. Fallely, and vain-glorioully; when a man juffifieth himself, Luk.10.29. & 16.15.

2. Politickly, in the publick course of Justice; either rightly, Deut.25.1. or unjulity, Prov.17.15. Ifa.5.22.

3. Legally, by a mans own righteoufnels, according to the Law. So the Fews fought to be justified, Rom. 9. 31. 8 10. 3. but thus none can be justified, Pfalm 143. 2. Rom. 3. 20. Galat. 2. vers. 16. Thus none attain to the righteousness of God, Rom. 9. 31. & 10. 3. yea, them that feek thus to be juftified, Christ profiteth nothing, and they are faln from grace, Galat. 5. 4.

4. Evangelically, Rom. 5.1. Thus are all believers, Act. 13.39. Rom. 3.22.26. and they are faid to be juffified by Chrift. Gal. 2. 16. by grace freely, through Jesus Christ, Rom. 3.24. Tit. 3.7. by faith, Rom. 5. 1. Gal. 3.8. by his bloud, Rom. 5.9. by his knowledge, Ifa.53.11. This act is spoken.

3. Of chiff justifying Man, IIa. 53. vers. 11. namely by acquitting him before God, from the guilt and punishment of

4. Of Christ justified in the Spirit; that is, his divine power gave him approbation, 1 Tim. 3.16.

5. Of the children of wisdom, justifying it; that is, exhibiting honour due unto it, Mat. 11.19.

6. Of God justifying Man; which is, not to impute fin, to cover it, and to forgive the finner in Christ, Rom. 8. vers.

33. "To justifie the wicked To absolve a wicked man from 'his guilt, and pronounce him just, so as he believe in Christ. 'After which, he remaineth not wicked, but is now accounted ' just with God, by imputation of Christ his justice unto him, and worketh just things towards men, by inchoate and unperfect 'fanctification. Rom. 4. 5. To him which believeth in God, who ' justifieth the wicked.

The declaration, confirmation, and confummation of the free 'imputation of the perfect righteousness in Christ, is attributed in Scripture unto the Refurrection of our Saviour Christ, Rom. 4. 25. because it is the perfection of all his sufferings. For whatfoever his fufferings were for continuance, greatness, and 'multitude; yet had he not rifen again, the redemption of man-kind had still been impersed; whereas in that after death, he did again restore his body to life; this sheweth him to be a full conqueror of all our spiritual enemies.

"Do be justified by the Lato] To defire, or to be willing to be, (as did some Galatians) or to glory and boaft of being justified by the observation and works of the Law (as the Pha-'see did, in Luk. 18.) Galat. 5. 4. Whosoever are justified by the Law, &c.

'The nature and force of the Law, is to kill, and to be a Mienister of wrath and eternal death to all which break it, (as all men do, both before and after grace received,) so far off it is from power to juftifie and give life. Also in the phrase and language of Paul, to be justified by Works, is, to have such perfect obedience and holinels, as may deserve the testimony of righte-ousness, before the Tribunal seat of God.

Note: When we are faid to be justified by Faith, and to attain righteousness by or through Faith, understand it instrumentally: but where it is written, Faith is accounted for righteouineis, take it to be spoken correlatively, with reference to Christs merit, which is our justice.

Kingdom That ye may be counted worthy of the Kingdom of God, 2 Theff. 1.5. That the Kingdom of God fignifies the flate of the Goffel, or christian profession, appears oft in the Goffels, especially in the parables of christ, when the Kingdom of God is likeped to a net, to a pearl, &c. But there are two other notions of it.

1. That of reigning with Christ in endless bliss in another world. And, Rr 2

2. The exercise of Christs Regal power, which was then so oft foretold to be approaching, in destroying his enemies, and preserving his faithful Subjects, according to that double duty of a King, Rom. 13. Of averaging of Offenders, and rewarding them that do good. And that this is the notion of it in this place, appears very probable by that which follows, where it is faid, that it is just with God to repay tribulation to their persecuthat it is just with God to repay tribulation to their persecuters, and to the persecuted, diverner, release, restrictions under which they had been. This was it that the Apostles had foretold them in their preachings, and the benefits and fruits whereof the had been promised upon their perseverance in the Faith, through all their persecutions not excluding their eternal reward (but supposing that, for the surveyand in case they did not outlive the present distresses, I Thessell. 12.) hus withal oving them income the largest notice of the surveyand in the survey of the surveyand in the surveyand them income the largest notice of the surveyand them the surveyand the 1 Theff.4.13.) but withal giving them into the bargain this affurance of an eminent deliverance here. The "Kingdom of heaven (faith one) is nothing but a newness of life, by the which God doth restore us to the hope of an everlasting bleffednefs.

5. The bleffed life and everlafting felicity which the Saints fhall enter into after this mortal life is ended. Mat. 5.10. For theirs is the Kingdom of heaven. I Pet. 1.5,6.

The Kingdom of heaven is at hand, Mat. 3.2. The Kingdom of beaven fignifies in the New Testament, the Kingdom of the Mesfias, or that flate or condition, which is a most lively image of that which we believe to be in heaven, and therefore called by that name. For as Gods Regal power confifts in affifting, defending, and rewarding all his faithful Subjects, and in warning, punishing, and destroying his obdurate enemies; so this Kingdom of the Messias, is an exact image or resemblance of it. And being not of this world a fecular Kingdom, but confifting especially in subduing the world to his dominion. That is done first by the descent of the Spirit, and preaching the Gospel, by his Word powerfully working in some and bringing them unto the Faith, and then by his Iron Rod executing vengeance on others, viz. the contumacious and obdurate, and particularly those of the Nation of the Jews, after the Crucifixion of Christ. And accordingly this Kingdom of God will generally fignifie these two to gether, not only the first alone, but in conjunction with it, that other more tragical part of it also; and thus is it used here. Dr. Ham. Annot. c.

written, Five are fallen, Chap. 17.10. The fixth was of Cafar's, or Emperors, who governed Rome when John wrote the Apoca-lyps; therefore he saith, One is, vers. 10. The seventh was of the Pope, of which he faith in the same verse. Another which is not * come, & c. because the Pope reigned not in Rome, till a good while after the death of St. John. Here then is a plain description of Rome to be the seat of the Beast, even of that great Antichrift; no other City in the world having feven hills, and feven kinds of government successively, saving the City of Rome. Rev. 17.10. They are also seven Kings. Such then are deceived, as do think by these seven Kings to be meant, either the first seven Kings, who in the beginning did sway the Scepter in Rome, or the feven Electors of the Empire; the former were past, and the latter remain all still. Or, they who restrain it to seven seveeral and fingular persons, which should be Galba, Otho, Vitelli-" us, Vespasianus, Titus, Domitianus, and Nerva: All which were · Emperors of Rome, between Nero and Trajanus. But of all other, they must err, who interpret these seven Kings (as Ribera 'the Jesuite, and Claudius, a Fryer Carmelite of Paris do) of seven ages of the world, whereof five should be expired at the first coming of our Lord, the fixth should last from thence to 4 the coming of Antichrift, and the seventh from thence to the end of the world. This is to be rejected as a Popish Dream, fitting these seven heads to any City in the world: Whereas the Ho-'Iy Ghost purposed here to give an evident note to know where the throne of the Beast (that is Antichrist) should be. The lasting heads, were hills; the seeting ones are Kings, that is, feveral forts of Governments. Annot. Kings Shall Stand up in Bersia Those three Kings which succeeded in Persia, after Darius the Mede, whose names were, I Cyrus; 2 Cambyfes, Son of Cyrus; 3 Darius Histaspes: 4 The fourth spoken of here, which came after the other three, was Xerxes, who at first was a terror to the Grecians, to whom fafterward he proved a laughing flock, and a fcorn, Dan. 11.2,3, 4. In the third verse, the mighty King is Alexander the great King of Macedony, who spoyled the Persian King, and destroyed his people, as in Dan. 2. 24. & 7.6. was prophefied: But after Alexander's Monarcy had flourished seven years, it was divided between, I Nicanor, 2 Cassander, 3 Antigonus, 4 Ptolomy; whereof Nicanor Seleucus obtained Babylon in the East: Callandra got Macedony in the West: Antigonus possessed himfelf of Asia the less, in the North : And Ptolomy Son of Lagus, of Levet in the South. kinghoms of the world are Christs Heathenish Kines. converted to Chrift, who after a fort maketh his royal Majeffy wifible in fuch godly Kings, framing their hearts fo, as to cause them to cast down their Crowns and Scepters at Christs seet; 'and both in themselves and their Subjects, to study chiefly how to promote his glory. Thus Christ reigned by conflaming the Great, and other godly Experors of old time, and of late, by sundry worthy and Religious Princes, in Germany, England, Scotland, Poland and Denmark. Rev. 11.15. The Kingdoms of this world are our Lords, and his Christs, who shall reign for evermore.

Antichrift is weakened, and Chrift hath begun to take the Kingdom out of his hand, and shall have a visible Church like an Empire, in all the known world, and that to the end. There was no fuch Song in the fixth Seal, when Constantine, put down Heathen Idolatry, because then the Church was to be polluted and persecuted again, for a long time after, by the Roman Anrichrist.

Hereby the Church defireth to have Christ manifested in the flesh, and to have the loving and comfortable Doctrines of the Gospel applyed unto her conscience, that she might not be alway under the Schoolmaster of the Law, (which worketh wrath, Rom.4.15.) but might be prevented with the grace of Christ, be reconciled unto God, united unto Christ, and have the feeling of his love towards her; for kiffing is a token of love, 1 Pet. 5. 14. Luk. 7. 45. And as we are willed to bifs the Son, Pfal. 2. 12. that is, lovingly and gladly to submit unto and obey his Commandments, so the Church here prayeth that the Son would kifs ber, that is, in love and kindness teach and apply unto her the grace of this Gospel. See 1 Joh.4.10,15. Cant.8, I. Aynfw.

I would kils thee | Cant. 8.1. The cheerful and bold readiness of the Church to receive and imbrace Christ in an open and publick profession of him; for this is to kiss him, and is the happy effect of his own Spirit, by which we are not only united to him, but likewise imboldened and incouraged to acknowledg and confess him before men; even though it be to suffer for him, as he did for us without the gates. Annot.

This is in fign of love, honor, and obedience, as all are exhorted to kiss the Son, Pfal. 2.1 2. Aynsw.

an holy kife] A pure and chaste kiss, as a sign and token of Christian and Brother love. 1 Cor. 16.20. Salute ye one another with an holy kiss. A kiss of dilection, Rom. 16.16. Kissing is a token of love and reverence. This cuftom grew from the Hebrews, Gen. 27.26.

'There be five kinds of Kiffes in Scripture :

' 1. One a flattering kiss; such as was Absaloms, who would take the people to him, and kifs them.

'2. A dissembling kis; Joab's kis, when he kissed Abner, and killed him.

4. A treacherous betraying kifs; Judas kifs, who had treafon in his lips. 4. An unchaste kiss, such as the Harlot giveth the young man,

'5. An holy kis, called of Peter, the kifs of love, which, in the Primitive Church the Christians used in their affemblies, in their general prayers, and specially in receiving the holy Communion; which use was taken from the Patriarchs; but it is not necessary to retain it now, it fitted those times well enough.

Kiffing was used both at the meeting and parting of friends, Gen. 31. 28. & 29. 11. & 31. 55. Ruth 1. 14.

2. To declare submission to a Superiour, whereof (in the East Countrey) kissing was a token, Psal. 2. 12. Prov.24.25. Gen.41.20.

There are kiffes.

1. Of true affection, as most of those afore-mentioned. 2. Traiterous, 2 Sam. 20. vers. 9. Prov. 27. vers. 6. Matth. 26.

3. Hypocritical and flattering, 2 Sam. 15.5.

4. Idolatrous, 1 King. 19. vers. 18. Job 31. vers. 27. Hosea 13. 2.

5. Carnal and whorih, Prov.7.13.

7. Holy, Luk. 7. 34. Rom. 16.16. 1 Cor. 16.20. 2 Cor. 13.12.

Asin Prov. 27. 6. the wounds of a friend, fignifie sharp reproofs, and are opposed to the deceitful killes, that is, the flattering speeches of an entmy. So here the kiffes defired of this friend, are the comfortable words of the Doctrine of salvation; opposed to the fevere rebukes which the Law giveth for our fins, condemning and curfing every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the Book of the Law, to do them, Gal. 2.10. But Christ (into whose lips grace is poured, Pfal. 45.3.) openeth his mouth, and uttereth bleffings, Mat. 5.2,3, &c.

The comforts and graces of the Spirit of God, are his Symbolical kiffes and Greenings, being feals and affurances of love, and the happy Preface to that full injoyment in the world to come. Oh! these are sweet and unvaluable, being the foft earnests and fruits of the Spirit of comfort, which like Balm heal the wounds and bruiles of the Law, and make ample reparation, as the dandlings and huggings of an indulgent Mother do, for the sharpness and bitterness of any Rod. The kiffes of Christ alone work reconciliation and peace and good will and everlasting joy. The finits of his lips is peace, Isa. 57. 19. whereas all other pleasures sowre and wither by using, those of his Spirit become more fresh and delightful. Annot.

Knowledge of God is used sometimes actively for that Knowfledg whe evy God feeth and knoweth himfelf, and all things created and done by him or others, most wifely and perfectly as Gal. 2.3. Rom. 11 33. Sometime it is used passively, for that knowledg whereby God and his will be known of his children unperfectly, yet diffinctly and sufficiently unto salvation in hea-ven, Phil 2 8. Also knowledg is sometime considered as an at-* tribute in God, and sometime as an effect of his Spirit in usmen, 5 t Cor 12.

Of Knowledg, as it is a gift in the elect called to Christ, so there be fundry degrees of it: For one measure thereof is required in strong Christians, another in weak ones; Also that knowledg which will juffice a Christian man unto his salvation, will not suffice a Minister unto the discharge of his vocation. And as the goodness or multitude of means, or length of time do differ, to different profiting in knowledg, is to be expected and looked for.

Some understand this to belong to the time of the calling of the Jews, which shall be before Christ his coming to judgment; in which calling they shall not refuse upon vain excuses, as at first, Matth. 22. But at the first hearing (through the most effectual grace of Christ) they shall very readily obey the Dodrine of Faith, wherein they shall joyntly delight themselves, as men which fit together at a great Supper, which being in the evening and end of the day, doth fignific, that this calling of the Jews, shall be in the evening and end of the world, as a forerunner and representation of the great supper which the Church and Christ shall have together in heaven. This exposition is not rashly to be rejected.

See Jer. 5.6. Hab. 1.8. Dan. 7.6. Another like a Leopard. This Kingdom is faid to have four wings upon the back, to note the extream and unspeakable quickness and speed: and it had also four heads, to signific the four Princes or great Prefidents, among whom that Monarchy was in process of time divided, through a conspiracy against Alexander and Hercules, two Sons of Alexander the great, flain by

A beaft not very big, but out of measure fierce and cruel; a great enemy to man, on whose eyes when it its in power, he rutheth with great violence, plucketh them out, and teareth him in pieces. In this respect the Lord threatened to be unto the Jews as a Leopard, Hof.13-7. It's exceeding (wift and by leaping rusheth on it is prey. In this respect it's faid that the Horses of the chaldeans were swifter then the Leopards, Hab. 1.8. It's skin is beautiful, and full of foots, whereby and with its favour, which is very fweet and pleafant (its deformed head being in the mean time hid) others beafts come to view it, on whom (watching for fuch an occasion) it suddenly seiseth, Jer. 13. 23. & 5. 6. Having eat poylon, by feeding on mans dung it's restored. Sometime it fleepeth three whole days together, then awakening, cryeth out aloud, and finelling most sweetly the beasts slock to it, on whom it preyeth. Being brought up with a Kid, it would not eat of its flesh, when by the Owner killed, such was its thankfulness. When it toucheth poyloned flesh it dieth. Its skin being hanged in the same house with the skin of the Hyena, loseth its hair. The male is very libidinous. It's a great lover of wine, whereby (being put by the hunters in the fountains, wherein it drinker in the morning) it is caught and made a prey. Between it and the Dragon there's continued enmity. Also that Romis rabble be most hateful to true Christian men, not being able to endure the Image of fuch (being adorers of all other Images:) they are fwift to michie, using not more celerity in effecting cruelty, then they do subtility in contriving it, enticing many thousands into their 'fnares, by a kind of venerable majesty, and counterfeit plety, Finally, they be ravenous as Bears, proud, ftout, and intolerably infolent and favage withall as Lions, having (to be short) fall fuch immanites and deformities in them alone, as Dan. 7. 4, 5, 6. under several beasts severally applied to those three great Monarchies, to wit, Affyrians or Chaldees, Persians or Medes and Greeks. Rev. 13.2. This Beaft was like as a Leopard, 'his feet like a Bear, and his mouth was like the mouth of a Lion. Whereas some interpreters understand this Leopard of the Romane Empire, civil, or become Christian, but tainted with corrupt error, it doth not so well agree as to that Antichrist, to the corporation of the Papacy, whereof the Bishop of Rome is head and chief, who hath exercised and doth practise cruelties of all forts, wanting no kind of spiritual nor bodily spors and filthiness.

Three things are remarkable of the Leopard;

1. It cannot abide the image of a man, nay, not drawn in paper; it is kindled with fury at the fight thereof. 2. It hath an homely skin, pleasant to look unto for the diver-fity of spots.

3. It hath a fweet favour, whereby it allureth other beafts of the earth to come near it, hiding her head (because her face is terrible to them) till they come within her compass, and then maketh a prey of them.

All these agree properly to the Romane estate both under Emperors, and (chiefly) Popes.

1. They are superstituously addicted unto Images, but cannot fuffer the image of a Catholick Christian.

2. Variably blacked are their Leopard spots, neither want they their fweet odour, whereby they allure others to refort unto

3. Their Jubile years, their Indulgencies, and Pardons draw the ignorant fort after them, and with such deceit make a prey, both of their persons, and purses, comper.

Who would have suspected that under the representation of a Leopard, or of a Panther (which is the same, so called mir 3he, because he is a friend to all other beasts excepting the Dragon) there had Iyen hid the Dragon? that is, under the shape of that beast, which when other beasts being allured either by the beauty of the skin, or the sweetness of the smell, love to come beauty of the skin, or the incention of the linear, not to connect unto and look upon; only the Dragon is faid to abbor and fly from? Or, (that I may a little more clearly unfold the matter) who would have judged that under an Empire pretending the worship of Christian Religion, demolishing Idols; horrible Idolatry, and lately abolished heathenism, should be mainly set up, and promoted by Laws and Edicts? Mede.

* Christian Liberty is a spiritual benefit, purchased by the death of Christ, to the setting free of the faithful which believe in Christ. only from the precepts and traditions of men, (I Cor. 7 '23.) as binding the Conscience, and from the yoke of the whole Ceremonial Law of Moles; (I Cor. 9. 19. Gal. 5. 1. 'Rom. 8. 1. ) but also from the curse and rigorous exaction of the Moral Law, Rom. 7.4, 5. & 5. 15. 16, 17, 18.) even from the whole wrath of God, due to our fins, by the juftification of Faith: and finally, from the dominion and reign of fin, by the fandification of the Spirit (Rom. 6. 13.) 14, 15.) That ye may ferve and obey the will of God, with out all terrour and flavish fear, (Luk. 1. 47.) in all quiet tranquillity of mind, and cheerfulness of conscience, under furehope of eternal glory. Therefore, they are much decei-ed, who think Christian liberty to consist in freedome from the doctrine and obedience of the Moral Law, or from the yoke of any lawfull authority, Civil or Ecclefiaftical, that men may live licentioully, as themselves lift, using their Liberty as a cloak of wickedness.

God is light, I Joh. I. 5. The word  $\varphi \tilde{\omega}_{S}$ , light, is a figurative expression, to fignific the most perfect immaculate purity; and carlos, darbufs, is directly contrary, mixture of all impurity; the affirming of which concerning God, is no such strange thing, as that the Appostle should introduce it with so much ceremony as here we see made of, vers. 1, 3, 5. That which all this solemnity was thought fit to introduce, was certainly somewhat either doubted of, and questioned by the doctrines, or opposed and resisted by the lives of those to whom he writes. And that which feems most probable to be the full importance of it, is in the general, to denote the great perfection of purity, which is now commanded in the Christian Law; and more particularly, the great obligation that lies upon Christians, not to make that profession a pretence or excuse, for the favouring of themselves in any degree of liberty or impurity. Contrary hereunto were they who called themselves Teacest, & Transproi, perfett and knowing men, beyond all others, who yet living in a sink of all incleanists, said, they had not sinned, v. 10. See Buxtorf. Lexic. in the root 778, whence 78, and 778, a Lion, where their several names are set down, with the differences between them. It's of fuch magnanimity, that though it be detained captive. yet doth it not serve his seeders, but is by them served. It seepeth little, having great eyes, and so small eye-lids, that they cannot wholly cover their eyes. It's young ones for the space of tirree days, and three nights sleep, after they are whelped, but by the lions roaring are awaked. Such is its majefty, that an Army of Harts is more fearful, having a Lion for Captain, then an Army of Lions, having as Hart. At the roaring of the Lion all other beafts quake and tremble. It's often troubled with a quartain Death quare and temper. Its often down. It's bones have but a little marrow, and being flruck, fire illueth therefrom, as from a flint. Being angry, it breaketh the bones of its young ones. Its chiefest force consisteth in its head, breast, and tail. When through the force of the feaver it rages, by feeding on an Ape it recovereth. The gnats in the Summer are very troublesome to it, especially to its eyes. When it hath eaten too much, it fasteth for divers days together. It's a continual enemy to the Leopard, but is thereby circumvented; for the Leopard knowing that he is not so strong as the Lion, maketh his den so large in the entry, that the Lion may eafily come in, but in the middle so strait, that being come in he cannot get out, but is caught as in a net. It cannot endure fire, smelleth if the Lioness hath committed adultery with any other; never devoureth any thing till famine constrainhim. The male feedeth not with the female, but either of them apart; nor do they return to eat that which they leave, as Princes will not of one dish twice served; and having breathed upon that they leave uneaten, no other beaft will eat thereof. They are most cruel, and will set upon whole troops of horfe-men together, depopulating whole herds and flocks. When they fer upon Oxen, they come to an herd, and terrifying all, feife upon one. They drink but little, and that very feldom. They love their nourishers, and those with whom they are acquainted They are neither fraudulent, nor suspicious; desire never to be looked upon. Such is their elemency, that they often spare such as are profirate before them, feldom deftroying women and children; and if they be harmed by any man, according to the quality of the hurt, they frame their revenge. If a man and beaff he offered at one time, it spareth the man. As they are thankful to their benefactors, so are they mindful of injuries, and will revenge them. When feen, they are ashamed to fly, but when our of fight, fly apace. They live long, yet are their intrals subject to corruption. They are stronger before than in their hinder parts. The Lioness is very libidinous, yet not very hurtful. The young ones tear their Mothers belly, which being but small at the first, quickly grow great.

Herein may be feen, both prudence avoiding the Hunters nets, instice in sparing the humble, and bringing down the lofty, temperance in abstaining from meat some days together, fortitude in flanding out against its adversaries. The Liones loveth its young ones so dearly, that often in their defence it loseth its self. It cannot abide the Cocks crowing, the noise of wheels, and is an enemy to Apes and Wolves.

Lion of the tribe of Judah, Rev. 5.5. Christ is called a Lion to the terror of his enemies, and comfort of his own. A Lion he is in respect of his enemies to vanquish them and tear them in pieces, but a Lamb he is in respect of his meekness, patience, and willingness to suffer for his own. And therefore he is not simply called a Lion, but a Lion of the tribe of Judah. Naturalists have observed, that Lions are not cruel against their own kind, year they spare beafts of another kind that subject themselves unto them. 4. All confolatory Scripture, of Evangelical promifes, which are written in a book, that they might be extant to comfort Christians in all ages; and because they lead directly as a ready way to the throne of grace, (through one Mediator) and not by windlasses and circuits: therefore it is said to be a little book. Mr. Fulls expounds it thus. 65. An uncertain work or book, written very anciently, touching the estate of latter times; affirming, that as the Doctrine of 'grace was preached first to the Jews, then to the Greeks, and lastly to the Latines; so contrariwise, it should return from the Latines to the Greeks, and so back again to the Hebrews, whence it first came; saith an unknown Author.

6. The flender, mean, and weak knowledge of divine truth, given to some one certain age, whereof John speaks. Mr. Bright-man takes it thus. Let godly Readers take what sense of these they shall think meetest; I most encline to Mr. Gifford's exposition: That the holy Bible, which long had been thut up from the people by the craft and malice of Antichrift, should at length be clearly known unto the people,

Accordingly another. The word which we render localls, fignifies not living creatures, as some have ignorantly conceived: no by no means, but the tops of hearbs and plants. And Burchardus, relateth that in the Monasteries of Palestine near Jordan, the Monks use a food of a fort of hearbs called Locusts. Dr. Hamm, Locufts The falle Prophets, and all the worthippers of **Mahomet in the Eaft, arifing out of groß errors and ignorance, flying (as it were) by companies, and feeding, not upon their own, but the things of others, like locufts, till they had in a manner devoured and miserably wasted both the East Regions of the world, and the West Countreys of Europe. Also by these locusts are meant especially the great swarms of Popish Friefts, Fryers, Monks, and Cardinals, even the whole Popilh Hierarchy, and Pontifical Clergy in the West. These are fitly likened unto Locusts, which are a little and vile vermine, fpringing (as some say) out of smoak; flying together by heaps and swarms, eating up and destroying green things and fruits of and (warms, eating up and deutroying green times and units of the earth, being a very floathful & idle creature; even fuch for all the world as the Popith Clergy men. They are bred out of the fmoak and darkness of hellish ignorance, they are flow-bellies, 'living upon the sweat of other mens brows: Whatsoever in any Region or Countrey is most pleasant, they draw it unto them, and eat it up, laying wafte all the green things in the Church, over-spreading the earth in great heaps and rabblements, flinging thousand thousands with their damnable devices, and devilish invention. Rev. 9.3. And there came out of the smoak, Locufts upon the earth, which have power as the scorpions of the earth bave power. The Popish Writers themselves do acknowledg by these Locusts to be meant the Masters of errors, heretical Tea-'ehers, fuch as should give heed to Spirits of error, and doctrine of devils, bringing in dangerous errors and denying the Lord;

** Thought one most dear and affectionatery defined, or and of the my fifter my love.

What, had Chrift no love but his Sponfe? Did his love go out of his own heart, to her, as it were? It is ftrange, yet true, Chrifts love is fo great to his Church and Children and to continual to it, the first character of the proof of the pro that his Church and people, and every Chriftian foul, is the feat of his love. That love in his own breft being in them, they are bis love, became he himself is there and one with them. There is no saving the to any our of the Church, which is his love, when Churs said in love, he shews that as his love goes and planes and seas it self in the Church, so it is united to that, and is not scattered to other objects. Sibs.

This title given unto the Church even in her infirmity, flews what affection became unto the chirch her, and how he efteemed of her, notwithflanding er fins, which he imputed not, but looketh upon her graces which he had indued her with, as if she were perfect and undefiled. Aynsw.

* Not to love their lives To prefer the truth of the Gospel, and faith in Christ, before their own-lives, being prodigal to spend even their bloud, rather than by any torments to be removed from the Gospel. Rev. 12. 11. And they loved not their lives unto death; that is, not their lives more than Christ. A comparative speech, like that in I Cor. 1.17. Christ fent me not to baptize, but to preach; that is, rather and more sent to preach then to baptize.

Act. 20.24. 2 Cor. 11.23. & 4. 11. But exposed them to death.

Or, despised them, and set them low, in comparison of the conconflantine in the war against the perfecutors. Some understand this of the Martyrs who died for Religion before Constantines time. Annot.

If ye love me, keep my commandments, Joh. 14.15. The notion of loving God in Scripture, but especially in the New Testament, seems most fully to be taken from one most eminent act and expreffion of love amongst all men; viz. that of doing those things which are esteemed most grateful and acceptable to the beloved; either as tending most to his good, or any other way most defirable to him. For this indeed is the one expression of loving one anvther, all other being effects of love to our felves. But because God wants no contributions of ours to the advancing of his good, or (indeed) of his glory; and our only way of doing grateful things to him, is our performing what he commands, therefore it is confequent, that our obedience to the will and commands of God in the highest and most perfect manner, is styled the loving of him, being indeed the prime, if not the only way of demonstrating our love to him. So here, If ye love me keep my commandments. If ye are so affected to me, as to desire to gratifie me, obedience to all my precepts is the way of doing it. So vers. 21. 23, 24. & 1 John 2. 5. & 5. 3. From whence it is, that as in some places compared together, love is equivalent or parallel with keeping the commandments of God, as Exocl 20.5. Settle 5.9. & Gal. 5.6. compared with 1 Cor. 7.19. (and disobedience to enmity, Rom. 8. 7. & Jam. 4, 4. So the whole condition available to our acceptation with God, and Salvation, is oft express by this ftyle of love. And because those duties that are to be performed to God immediately. are more acceptable and grateful to him; but especially that of confessing him, and in despight of dangers and death it felf, keeping close to him; therefore that is many times exprest by loving of Cirift, 1 Cor. 8.3. & 16.22. 6. This word Make, whereas it fignifieth very often working, or causing something to exist and be: yet once it is used by way of supposition, as Mat. 12.33. Either make the tree good, by way of supportation, as called 3.5. Early support of the series first to be good which should bring forth good fruit, and that tree to be evil which should bring forth evil fruit. This to be the sense of the words, appeareth by the next vers. 34. How can you speak good things, when you your selves be evil? And also by Mat. 7.17,18. it is most manifest that the tree ought first to 6 be good, before good fruits can follow. Wherefore Origen in 6 vain laboured by the words of Christ in Mat.12.23. to prove Free-will, as if some men could make themselves good trees by bringing forth faith, vertuous, and good works, out of the power of their free-will; whereas Faith is meerly the gift of God, and is not the work of our natural strength, no man being able to make himself a believer, and so to make him a good

According to the measure of a man, that is, of the Angel. It is the measure of a man which the Angel uleth, whence it followeth that the measure of 12000 furlongs here named, must needs be understood of folia furlongs, there being no other manner of measuring folid figures either possible or usual among men. but only by folia measures. According to this interpretation the compass of this new Hierusalem doth in all probability, and for al that can be shewed to the contrary, exactly agree with the compass of the ancient and literal Hierusalem; and also with the compass of that city, which is by the Prophet Ezekiel in his last chapter measured and described. the number of a man.

It is not only known to be by revelation, but also may be found out by humane wildom, let wile men therefore feek to find it out.

It is called the number of a man; either because men do number, or because it is obvious and usual, as concurring more than once in Scripture, or because the name of the Beast containing this number is also the name of a man. Leighs Annot.

The number of the Beast being said to be the number of a man, if we adhere to the words, and confider them, they render unto us these positions:

1. That the beaft whereof he hath spoken is not properly

M a beaft, but Metaphorically, and that it figureth a man.

2. The number of the beafts name is not the number of a time, nor the number of writings, nor any other work of a man, but it is the number of a man, to wit, that man, whom St. Paul calleth, The man of fin.

2. It is not the proper name of one particular man, but a collective name of a whole flate and fuccession of men, like that name of Facob or Ifrael, by which all they of the whole twelve Tribes in all ages fince, customably are expressed; for it is impossible that any one particular man in three years and an half (as the Papifts dream) should deceive the whole world. and do fuch other great works as here is faid this Beaft shall do.

Gregory constructs it of the multitude of them which preach and fet forth Antichrist; and Thomas Aquinas (their own great Doctor) faith, it is a body, no one man: With whom agreeth their ordinary Glofs, that Antichrift is an whole head with his body entirely. All these testimonies do bewray the wisful biindness of the Papits, which teach Antichrift to be fome one special and fingular person that should come and reign a little space (some 3 years and a half) afore the latter day. They might have learned (but that their eyes are justly held that they cannot see because they despise the truth of God) that as many Kings are collectively in Daniel's Prophetie understood under the particular names of one Bear, Lyon, &c. So Paul the Apostle agreeably with Daniel, (being both led by one Spirit) hath comprised the whole body under the name of one Man, one Antichrift, one Son of perdition, one Beaft, one Woman, one great Whore, &c. The Son of man is Lord even of the Sabbath day, Matth. 12. 8. That by the phrase the Son of man, in this place, is not meant man in common, but peculiarly christ, is more than probable, not only by these words, a greater than the Temple is here, but also by the use of this phrase in Daniel, chap. 7. 13. and in every other of the 88 repetitions of it in the New Testament. And although by the words as they are in Saint Mark, chap.2. 27. the contrary seemeth not improbable, yet to that the answer is ready, that the case of which Christ here and there speaks, being for the neceffary use and good of man, plucking and eating for neceffity and prefervation of life, that may be very fitly referred to by Christ, when he faith, the Sabbath is made for man, so that the phrase for man, shall signific for the good of man, could not reasonably be conceiv'd to oblige him to any thing so contrary to that, as is starving or debilitating of nature, so as to render him unable to discharge the duty of their Calling. The only proper conclusion from this notion, of the Sabbath's being made for man, will be this; That therefore he that gave that positive Law, can dispense with the observance of it; and consequently Christ may do it, as here he doth in such cases as are for the good of man, as works of mercy, which being part of the Moral eternal Law, he prefers before the performance of these positive laws, which respect his own service, verse 7. Nay, that at the very making of it, it was dispensed with in some cases, as those vers. 5. of the necessary service of the Temple; and what was done here, was for the fervice of Christ, who is greater than the Temple. Dandzakes | Lovely, or amiable, so in the Hebrew : the Greek translateth them, apples of Mandragoras, or Mandrake apples; they were such things as gave a pleasant fmell, Gen.30.14. Cant.7.13. In these two places the word is found.

It is a kind of herb, whose root hath the likeness of a man. The fruit hereof hath been anciently conceived to be of an amorous operation, caufing love, conducing to coition and conception; it is faid to be of pleasant smell and colour, by some Writers; others say it is of a rank and unpleasant savour: Howsoever, the Mandrakes mentioned Gen. 30.14. are not like to be Mandrake apples, because at this time of the year, which was wheatharvest, and that was about the beginning of May, (in this Countrey) the Mandrake apples are not ripe, but rather that Dudain, here rendred Mandrakes, was some flowers of the field, (such as pleased little children chiefly with the colour, for Ruben that gathered them, was about five or fix years old ) and had withall a delightful fmell, Cant. 7. 12, 13. So that Rachel was taken with a special delight in them, and defire of them. Large Annot. on Gen. 30.14. See Drufus his learned Treatife on this subject, wherein the nature of this herb is fet down.

Bandzakes All amiable flowers, which be fair and lovely. by Synecdoche, a part for the whole.

2. All holy vertues and fruits of faith. Cant. 7.13. The Mandrabes bave eiven a Smell.

It appears by Rachel's defire of them, and by the smell that here they are faid to give, that they were very lovely and pleasant, differing from the Mandrakes that grow in these parts.

If their nature and virtue be such as it is reported by the learned, and these are that powerful Mandragora, of which the Greek Herbalists and others write so much, whose great effects are love and fruitfulness, and sleep; then it is evident that they are most apt symbols and figures of grace, and all other divine and heavenly influences, which not only conciliare love and charity, where there were none before, but likewise make the barren heart fruitful in every good work, and quiet the troubled and perplexed heart with abundance of peace and joy. Others think it should be read חרב אחם, Maharem attha, Be thou accursed : But and doth not fignifie curfed, but curfing. It's more fit to take it as compounded of two Syriack words, NIN ITA, Our Lord cometh; for it's faid that this was the form of the greater Excommunication, as is expressed in Jude vers. 14. as if the sense were, The Church despaireth of such a one, therefore leaveth him to the judgment of the Lord Christ, who is quickly to come: Or, Let the Lord come, namely as a revenger, let his divine vengeance and curse break out upon him, Gloff. Phil. fac. D. 201.

It is a Syriack word, fignifying, Our Lord cometh; for Maran is our Lord and atha cometh. It is a word used in the greatest excommunication among the Christians, implying that they summoned the excommunicated before the dreadful Tribunal at the last coming of the Son of God, Jude V.14,15.

Mark of the Beaff ] Some publick fign of token whereby men were known to others, and did profess themfelves to be the servants of the Beast; as the Jews were severed from other people by the mark of circumcifion, and Christians are marked by the fign of Baptim, whereby they are sealed to Christ. So the followers of Antichrift are remarkable and known by fome external fign and ceremony: But what this mark is, Divines do not all agree. Some will have the mark to be, the profession to be a member of the Latin Church , or Romane Church. Some, the Chrism in their Sacrament of Confirmation. Some fay the Mark to be all one with the Name of the Beaft. But I like best of them which think that the Beast had fundry marks, wherewith he branded his worshippers, because we see in the Text, the Mark, the Name of the Beast, and the Number of his Name, diftinguished by the Holy Ghoft. And it is known by experience, that some were more nearly marked to the Pope, and with a more special brand than other were. For Emperors, Kings, and other great men of the earth were obliged to the Pope, by the or mark of a folenn oath promising and binding themselves to be Desenders and Protectors of the chief Bishop and holy Church of Rome, as did the Emperor Otho, the first of that name, in the year of our Lord, 2442. fwear to Pope · John the twelfth, that to his utmost power he would extol him and the holy Church. Now the Popes Clergy of all forts, as Cardinals, Fryers, Monks, Nuns, &c. they had their peculiar mark, even the ceremony of Popish Orders, their peculiar mark; even the ecremony of Popith Orders, called amongft themselves, an indulvive-baratier. Futher-more, the Lay-papiths profess themselves to be the Popes of their bard or cognizance.) This Character is not their bard or cognizance. This Character is not the mark of the person of Antichrist, the second Ecasts.

calling themselves after his name [Catholick Papists] as their High Priest, the Bishop of Rome doth intitle himself [the Catholick Bishop. ] Finally the Greek Church, which a great while withstood the power of the Pope, at the length took upon them the number of his Name, when Michael Patook upon them the number of this Name, when betchall Pa-bellangus the Greeian Emperor, promifed for himself and all his Subjects, to submit himself, and yield the Primacy to the Latin Bishop, to be subject unto the Mother-Church of Rome. Thus of these 3 signs, the Character or Mark of the Beast, belongs to the Princes and Clergy, as unto Sons; his name unto the people and vulgar fort, as unto his Slaves and the number of his name unto the Grecians, as unto Strangers. Rev. 12.16. and he made all to receive a mark in the right hand, and in the forehead. Some understand this of having their forehead and hand figured with Chrism in Confirmation, or with their greafie oyntment. Others interpret it of maintaining Papifin, both fecretly and openly. But the first interpretation

He alludeth to the old custom by which Servants were wont to be marked with the names of their Master's, Souldiers with the names of their Commanders; the first especially in their forehead, the other in their hands. And therefore by like reason, the followers of the Lamb also, in the Chapter following, that they may be contrary to the followers of the Beaft, are written in their forehead with the names of the Lamb and of his Father ( with the same meaning of the type in both ) to fhew who is his Lord, and for whom each company fighteth; those professing themselves servants of the Beast and his Image; these, of Christ and his Father.

Mark in the hand, is the oath of fidelity, and subscribing to his Supremacy; in the forehead, profession of his Decrees. Broughton.

Their hand is put for their actions, and the forthead for their open profession, and in one of them at the least, every man must openly declare that he acknowledgeth the Pope of Kome, to be the Lord over his faith. Gifford. Dext. The mark and the Beaft, is that whereby they of the Romillo or Latin Religion (whom we call Papifls) are diffinguished for others, that is, their subjection unto the Pope as their head, and acknowledgment of the See of Rome. This inwardly in the foul is their implicite faith, whereby every Papilt is bound hand over head to believe whatfoever the Pope or Church of Rome believeth: And and the rather, because they are to be perswaded, that neither of both can err. That which outwardly is expressed is either by consession of the mouth, or operation of the hands; so that the profession of the Ramille Religion, and certain manner of living, according to the Laws and Customes of the Pope and Church of Rome, may also be said to be the mark of Antichristians; even as the observation of the Heathenish Rites, is called , 2 Mac. 4. 10. the Character of the Grecians. Whosoever therefore in heart believeth whatsoever the Pope and Church of Rome, do, or shall believe, and outwardly profess the Romane Religion, and frameth his life according to the laws and customes of the Church of Rome; as for example, to fall down before images, to adore the Eucharift, to frequent the Mass, &c. he may be truly said to have the mark of the Beast, Downham of Anticorift, Chap. 8 lib.1 Sect.5.

The mark of the Roman Beaft, is that invisible profession of fervitude and obedience, that his Subjects have professed to his Empire fince the first beginning thereof, noted afterward by the Pope, with divers visible marks, namely, the abfurd Characters of e.g., and Crosses of all kinds, taken out of the number of the first Beasts name. Many Hereticks there were in the ancient Church, which prohibited Marriage, and taught Abstinence from Meats as necessary, having much of their doctrine from the Pythagorean Philosophers. Such were the Encratita, Montanists, and Marcionites. But these came after the Apostles times, and are not so probably spoken of here, as those which were present then in the Church. And fuch (faith Ignatius) there were in the Apostles times, and such (faith Ireneus) was Saturninus, who with Simon Magus, was the Father of the Gnofticks. He was the first that among Christians affirmed Marriage to be the work of the Devil, and commanded to abstain from the flesh of Beasts. And this was generally the doctrine of the Gnoflicks, who under a pretence of continence, committed all villary against the Creation and the Creator; teaching that men ought not to receive Marriage, nor get children, nor bring into the world such as would be miserable. nor furnish death with food or nourishment, i. e. people, the world with men, whom death will consequently feed on. "The Mass is a Mass of Abuses, or a heap of Corruptions, "inferted and put into the Sacrament of the Lords Supper, but it is not properly the Sacrament it felf. The Cor-

'The pretended antiquity is from the time of Christ his last Supper, where Christ Sacrificed himself, and instituted this Sacrifice with commandment to his Apostles and their Suc-Sacrince with commandance to us repoints and then our ceffors for ever to continue it, by faying  $[D_0 \ th\dot{u}, \phi_c]$ . Whereas in truth Christ ordained a Sacrament, and therefore offered no Sacrifice, (for these are far differing) and it is an hard exposition to interpret [Doing] to be [Sacrince]. ficing | and the Text speaketh of giving bread and breaking it, of eating and drinking, not one word of offering; yea, their own men (as Jefuite Azorius faith) deny Christ to have offered up himself under the forms of Bread and Wine. Aquinas teacheth, Christ to be no otherwise sacrificed in the Mass, but as it representeth the Passion of our Lord, and as thereby men are made Partakers of the Fruit of his Pasfion. Lastly, Cornelius Masso a Popish Bishop, desended, that Christ in his Sacrament offered no Sacrifice at all, becaufe then St. Pal had not written truly, that Christ had fandified and made believers perfect, and that he dyed but once, &. Heb. 9, 25, 26, 29, & 10. 10. For by the Romith Doctrine he offered a double Oblation twice made; once at the last Supper, and once upon the Cross. That flift of bloody and unbloody Sacrifice will not here help them, because it is written, that without shedding of blood there is no remiffion of Sin, Heb. 5, 22. Let them therefore either grant that Christ at his last Supper suffered death, and shed his blood the night afore he shed it: or else let them say that he offered up no Expiatory or Propitiatory Sacrifice.

Whereas some of the Fathers call the I ords Supper a Sacrifice, it is not properly and fimply, but figuratively, and in some respects. First, because all sacred Rives may be called Sacrifices, (à faciendo sacra) from doing holy and sacra) cred Actions.

'Secondly, in rogard that in the Supper there is a commemoration of that onely and true Sacrifice of Christ, and a participation through faith of the benefits of that Sacrifice.

'Thirdly, in respect of divers prayers and thanksgivings poured out, and gifts offered to the poor, which in Scripture be termed Sacrifices.

Laftly, because the spiritual Sacrifices of our Souls, as Faith, Hope and Charity, be there exercised and stirred up by the use of the Supper.

3 Measure of Elbrat Such a portion of Bread as would serve a man for a day, if he eat wheat; and three Measures of Barley, fignifies three mens Bread-corn, if they would eat Barley-bread. This great scarcity of victuals is threatened as a plague for contempt of the Word. Rev. 6.6. A measure of wheat for a Penny.

Gr. A chanix. The word fignifieth a measure, containing one wine quart, and the twelfth part of a quart, and the Roman penvy was about seven pence, or seven pence haif penny of our money. Annot.

The chanix in the judgment of all Interpreters, is such a measure of dry Corn, as might serve to be Bread for a day unto any man; The penny again was the ordinary wages for a common Laborer for a day, Mat. 20. 10. 13. So great then shall the Dearth be, that a man laboring all the day long, shall be able to gain no more bread, than may suffice for his own Belly. Comper.

Or, understanding Justice not Dearth, the meaning may be this, A Chanix of Wheat for a Penny, that is, let the daily Pittance of wheat be fold for the price, or wages, or Revenue of a days labor: to wit, that none should have need to spend more a day in victuals, than what is allowed him to be fpent for a day. And that also, three Chanices of Barley for a penny, may feem to belong to the equalizing of the price, according to the qualities of the Wares. Mede.

He was both King and Prieft; as King he brought forth Bread and Wine to refresh Abraham and his Soldiers after their "Victory; and as Priest he blessed Abraham, bearing in him both a Type of Christ the Soveraign King and High-priest of his Church: See Heb. 7. Pfal. 110. In that these two Offices met in Melchizedech, it was extraordinary, and for fome special Use, and cannot prove (now that Ecclessaftical and Civil Order are by God himself diftinguished) the conjunction of these two Estates in one Person to be lawful. That Sem ( Noah's Son ) should be this Melchizedech, the Hebrews think against reason, for 1. Canaan fell to cham. 2. The Father and Mother of Shem be known and expressed. 3. Very likely he would have visited Abraham and unlikely the Nephew should give Tithes to the Grand-Gather.

Dr. Williams in his Treatife of the Incarnation of the Word layeth also down his Reasons to prove that Sem was not Melchizedech, and that he was no other than Felus Christ take him to be the Holy Ghoft. Mr. Gregory in his Epiftle to the Reader, before his Notes and Observations, alledgeth out of the Arabick Catena, that Melchizedech was the Son of Heraclim, the Son of Phaleg, the Son of Eber, and his Mothers Name was Salathiel, the Daughter of Gomer, the Son of Japhet, the Son of Noah. Mr. Hugh Broughton in his Treatife of Melchizedech; endeaworeth to prove that he was Sem, and by the general confent of his own Sons, by the continual judgment of Ages, and by plentiful Arguments of Scripture.

4. Eternal Blis in Heaven, as the chief fruit of Mercy. 2 Tim. 1. 18. That he may find Mercy at that day. Mercy as it is referred to God, it is either eternal, to wit, the Nature of God, infinitely inclined from everlasting, to pity and succour his Children: or temporal, in the Acts and Works of his Mercy, shewed in time, upon and toward his Children. These Works because they be many and sundry, concerning partly this natural worldly life; as health elife, riches, peace, good Magifrates and laws, & And partly, that life which is spiritual and eternal, as faith, bone, love, &c. wrought within us; predeffination, vocation, forgiveness of fins, imputation of Christ his perfect justice, fanctification, glorification, wrought without us: Hence it is that though mercy be fingle and one in God, yet Scripture often speaks of it in the plural number: as Gen. 432. 10. 2 Cor. 1.3. and Rom. 12. 1. Now because we do owe all we are or have to these mercies; therefore in that text of Rom. 12. 1. Paul befeecheth us by these mercies, to mortifie our evil affections, and to live godlily. And indeed there is no more forcible arguments in the world, than to " move Gods children to duty and obedience, by fuch mercies as by which they are elected, called, justified and glorified. Hence springeth a readiness to do the will of their God with chearfulness, without grudging, or compulsion and servile e fear. 6 In the Mercy of God, confider,

Some by Michael understand the faithful. who profess the mighty God, and are affished with the Anegels in the Battel against Satan. Others think Constantine the Great to be noted out by Michael, because of the great Rrength wherewith he was endowed of Christ (who therefore lent his own Name ) to fight his Battels against Maxentins and other cruel Enemies of the Christian Church. We e may well understand both him as an Instrument, and Christ as Captain and chief Commander, in this Battel, as captain and enter commander, in this baute.

But thou wilt demand (faith Mede) who is this Michael?

Not, I suppose (faith he) Christ himself, but as in Daniel, unless I be deceived, is manifest, one, yea even the chiefest of the chief Princes, or seven Arch-angels, Chap. 10. 13. to wit, that great Angel, who in the same Daniel is said, to stand for the Children of God, Chap. 12. 1. and whom Christ that great chief General, and confequently King of Angels and men, hath so opposed against Satan, and his black Guard raging against his Saines.

They are both very high and magnanimous Sayings, but fuch as Faith useth and Love prompteth, which gives away it felf, and referring no propriety, yet enjoys more than All, in Chriff. By Faith (as by Marriage) two are made one, and there is nothing in either, that is not common to both. Christ gives all to her, and what can she deny to such Bounty First, she is chosen to be his, and then this cherisheth and strengthens her Faith and Love towards him; so that being joyned to him, she becomes one Spirit with him, 1 Cor. 6. 17. and boasteth her self to be onely his, Psal. 119.94. which is a rare and ingular Priviledg of the Saints of God, and though it appear a common and easie thing to say, yet can truly be spoken by none, but those that have the Spirit of God.

There is a mutual intercourse and vicissitude of claiming Interest between Christ and his Church. The words imply: 1. A mutual propriety, Christ hath a propriety in me, and I in Christ; a propriety with peculiarity.

2. Murual love, affection and love to the uttermost.

3. Mutual familiarity. Christ discovers himself to her in the secret of his Love, and she discovers her self to him in Prayer and Meditation, opening her Soul unto him upon all occations.

4. Mutual likeness. The one is a Glass to the other, Christ fees himself in me, I see my self in him, Love frameth the Soul to the likeness of the party loved.

5. Mutual care of one anothers good.
6. Mutual complacency, a refling, contenting Love.
7. Courage in owning Christs Cause with Resolution. Christ is mine, faith the resolved Soul, I will be Christs. Now as Christ comes to be ours,

1. By his own and Fathers Gift.

And 2. By his Spirit, fo we come to be his,

'3 Minifier of soin One who teacheth persons freely justified and absolved from Guilt and Punishment of Sin, being accepted for just before God by faith in Christ, to live boldly in the service of Sin. Gal. 2. 17. Is therefore Christ the Minister of Sin? that is, neither Christ, nor Paul the Servant of Christ, taught such Liberty, but the flat contrary, that justified persons have their hearts purified by Faith, and are made able with hate of Sin, to forfake the Service of it by the Spirit of Sanctification.

The Hebrews at first measured their Months according to the course of the Sun, and then every Month consisted of thirry Days, Gen. 7. 11.8.4. but after their departure out of Agypt, they measured their Month by the Course of the Moon, containing either thirty Days, and then they were called full Months; or twenty nine days, and then they were called deficient Months. Before their Captivity in Babylon, they counted their Months without any Name, according to their Number, the First, Second, Third Month, &c. After their return, they called them by these Names:

The 1. Nifen, called also Abib, which fignifieth an Ear of Corn, for that in this Month Early began to be Eared. It anfivered to part of our March and April.

The 2. Jix, called also Zif, which fignifieth Beauty, for then the Trees began to be beautiful with Buds and Blotloms. It answereth to part of our April, May.

Hence it was that the ifrae ites being by the

2. The vanity of all earthly things, subject to changeableness, as Riches, Honors, &c. which the Members of the Primitive Apostolical Church despited, being far from that Ambition and Luft after Honors and Wealth, which hath fince entred in and raged. Rev. 12. 2. And the Moon was under her feet. It is a godly and learned Exposition, by the Moon to understand that Light and truth of Doctrine, concerning Manners, received from the Word (as the Moon borroweth her Light of the Sun) after which the Members of the first Apostolical Churches directed their Feet and Steps; being for Worship, Government, Life, and Manners, oteps; being for worming, Government, Life, and manners, cook uniform, and as yet, undefiled with humane Inventions.

But the first fignification is Godly, and also more usual.

Treading under foot the Jewish Feafts, which depended, many of them on the Moon; or, contemning worldly things which are mutable, like the Moon, as men do things which they tread under their feet. Annot.

The Moan here figures the world, which is ever subject to Mutations and Changes , like the Moon , which never abides in one estate. It is like the Gourd of Jonas, flourishing this day, and confumed by the Worm the next day, Jonah 4. 3. like Nebucadnezzar's Image, having an Head of Gold, but Feet of Clay, Dan. 2. 32, 33. The woman with the Moon under her feet, fignifieth the Church for his love trampling under foot all mutable things. The beginning of Perfection is the Contempt of the World, figured here by trampling the Moon under foot. Nor could she do this, till she was cloathed with the Sun, intimating, that we shall never despise the vain things of the World, till the Lord illuminates us. Comper.

And the third part of the Moon, Rev. 8. 12. Here the Moon figureth the Church; for, as the Moon in it felf is a dark body, and hath no Light, unless it receive from the Sun; So the Church hath no Light, except Jesus the true Light of the World illuminate it. And as the Moon is not alway in one Estate, for sometimes it shineth full, illuminate with the Beams of the Sun, sometimes it is deprived of a great part of the Light thereof, and sometime sheweth no Light at all: So It is with the Charch, fometime it looketh with a full face, shining in most beautiful manner, sometime it is more obfoure, and sometime doth scarce appear at all, which is to be observed by them, who will have this Church at all times alike configuous and vifible. That the third part of the Sun, Moon and Stars were darkened, imports a fearful and dangerous Darkness spiritual. Because we are most sensible of bodily Losses, the Lord by them leads us to confider, how great an Evil it is to want spiritual Good. But though we should enjoy the Benefit of the bright shining Sun, if they want the Word of the Light of Life, what else can they do, but as is threatened, grope even in the Non-tide of the day. The Sun in the Firmament is in it felf always alike lightfome, onely the Clouds coming between obscure it, or the Moon betwixt us and it, eclipses it, or the Earth interposed between us and it, hideth it from our fight, as in the Night; even so Jesusthe true Light of the World is faid to be darkened, when his Light is any way hidden from us; and because he shineth now no other way unto us but by his Gospel, the obscuring thereof is a darkening of himself. The Stars are Types and Figures of Preachers. Happy are those on whom God shineth by his Light, and whom he warmeth and quickeneth by his Spirit of Life and Grace : these not only get Grace to themselves, but become Instruments of light, life, and grace unto others. Comper. The Sun the Scripture; the Moon the Doctrine borrowed thence; the Stars the Ministers; the Day, the Joy and Comfort of the church in enjoying her happy Sun. A grievous Night of Darkness, either of Idolatry and Superstition, as some, or of Persecution, as others, darkeneth and obscureth the chief Ornaments of the purer Church of Christ. Leighs

The third part of the Spiritual Preachers, civil Magistrates. and Christian professors, were so plagued with Heresies, and were so blinded with mens Traditions, that they lost that Light of Gods Truth that sometimes shined in them, and neither the Oriental or Easterly Church (where the day springs) nor the Oriental or Westerly Church (where the Night glooms) have (by the third part) that bright Light of Christs pure Evangel, that they were wont to have. Napier.

They are very fruitful, to that it hath been found by experience, that a female Mouse having free liberty to litter in a Vessel of Millet-seed, within less compass than half a year hath brought 120 young ones. They love one another, and endeavor for each others safety. At the Siege of Casilinum by Hanibal, the Famine was so great, that a Mouse was sold for 200 pieces of Coyn, whereby the Buyer lived, the Seller died. They corrupt and make unprofitable whatfoever they tafte. It's writ-ten, that in Heraclea not one of their Mice touched any thing consecrated to Religion, or to the Service of their Gods, yea not their Vines. They are useful in Physick. They trust not to any one hole, but have divers, that being driven from one, they may be safe in another. They love heat, live not long. It's faid that the Egyptians being in danger of Senacherib's Army, a number of Mice eat the Enemies Bow-strings, Quivers, &c. whereupon they fled away. They are much given to fleep, they provide for their Parents, when unable to help themselves.

Ration | Nation Shall rife against Nation , Mat. 25. 7. The Gr. word 290 here which we render Nation, and the Latine gens, answerable to the Heb. 7128, are the Originals from whence the words Ethnick (or Heathen) and Gentiles come, and by the customary acceptation of the Words for the other Nations of the World, exclusively and in opposition to the Jews then, and Christians now; it comes to pais that the word Nations is ordinarily thought to fignifie all other People of the World, but never the Jews. But this is a Miftake, thus cafually and causelessly occasioned; for there were several Divifions of Palestine ( as they were before govn monda, Deut. 15. o. Many Nations, and great, chap. 9. 1. which the firms were now possess of these is properly called 2010. natio; so βαπλεία and each of these is properly called 2010. natio; so βαπλεία Kingdom too, there being feveral Tetrach over them, Luk. 3. I. So Eccl. 50. 26. There being mention of two Nations, Samaria is presently specified to be one of them. And so here. and Luk. 21. 10. The Phrase Nation against Nation ( and in like manner Kingdom against Kingdom ) may well denote Civil intestine Commotions in Palestine, perhaps one of these Tretrarchies against another; or else, one of these against it self as civil wars are intestine Breaches in the same City or Nation ) and so certainly the very Phrase is used, 2 Chr. 15.6. where is an Expresion of the great Vexation of the Jews, vers. 5.it's added, Nation was destroyed of Nation, City of City; where the Gr. read, Andrew of the solution of the solution for the solution of the solution for the soluti (ball rife ) against Nation. In this sense we find not only the word Nation in the fingular appropriated by some Adjunct to Judea, as our Nation, Luk. 7.5. Our Place and Nation, Joh. Juneau, as our reation, Lun. 7. 5. Our Flace and reation, John 11. 48. The Nation of the Jews, Act. 12. 22. This Nation, Act. 24. 2. Thy Nation, Joh. 18. 35. and my Nation, Act. 24. 17. & 26. 4. & 28. 19. But without any such Adjunct, 30 20 9. the Nation, Luk. 23. 14. & Joh. 11.50, 51, 52. And even in the Plural, the word Nations used in the Prophets, for Palestine. So Pfal. 2. 1. 17112, or Nations, and People that oppose Christ, are I conceive, the Jews, in their Consultation against him; and so it's interpreted and applyed peculiarly to them, Act. 4. 25, 27, 28. And so when of Jeremy it's said, that he was ordained a Prophet to the Nations, Jer. 1. 5. The Jews sure are at least one of those Nations. So chap. 4. 16. Mention to the Nations; i.e. to the Jews. So chap. 25. 11. These Nations; i.e. The Jews hall ferve the King of Bablion feverty years the precife time of the Jewish Captivity. So when Mar. 12. 15. it's faid, that Christ withdrew from Capternaum (and Mar. 7. 5. it's specified that it was to the Sea of Galilee) upon that it is applied to him by St. Matthew, that of Ifa. 42. 1. that he hall declare Judgment to the Gentiles or Nations; and in him shall the Edwn Nations truft , i. e. the Jews in Galilee, and the adjacent Cities of Tyre and Sydon, &c. which came out, and were healed of him, Mar. 3.8. when the Pharifees confulted to destroy him, Mat. 12. 14. So Lam. 1. 1. when of Ferusalems it's faid, That she was great among the Nations, that signifies that City to have been the Metropolis of Judea, as it is farther exprest by the next words, and Princes among the Provinces, hat this is the meaning of Nation here, will appear both by the Completion of this Prophetie in the great Commotions and Slaughters that were in Palestine, as also by the addition of Famines, &c. From Place to Place, which belongs to that Famine mentioned Act, 11.28. And when it's there faid that it shall be on the whole world, that must de understood (as ouselling world, fignifies, Luk. 21. 21. 26. Rom. 10. 18.) the whole Land of Judea, according to the manner of the Septuagent, who oftrender the Lind (when it fignifies the Land of Judea) by δικεμένη, the world. So Ifa. 10.23. where for a τη δικεμένη, in the World, the Apostle, Rom. 9. 28. reads mi f yns, upon the Land. And in this sense of world, the Prediction here The Author and Head of a Nation or People. Gen. 25.

Relief into Judea, which argues the Famine to have been confined to Judea, and not extended to Antioch. See 1 Cor. 16. 1. and 2 Cor. 9. 1. And thus most probably must mayre Elyn be interpreted in this chap. vers. 9. All the Nations, i. e. of Palestine, all the Jews in all Parts, for the Jews were they which to have and perfecuted them ( and the Gentiles comparatively did not, but as they were stirred up by them ) and the Apofiles are not yet supposed to go out of Palestine, but to be on their Task of Preaching through the cities of Israel, till the time of Christs coming to destroy that People, Mat. 10. 23. The winds here spoken of are contrary one to another, both in regard of the Coasts from whence they blow, and in and godly Conversation. Cotton. their quality, yet both are necessary for the Garden. The courses that Christ takes, and the means that he useth with his Church, may feem contrary, but by a wife ordering all agree in the wholfom iffue. The North is a nipping Wind, and the South is a cherishing Wind, therefore the South wind is the welcomer and sweeter after the North wind hath blown. The Nose may be understood the Breath coming out of her Nostrils, people of God need purging as well as refreshing. The that it should be sweet. 1. cap. 8. fect. 3.

' Bumb.r 1 Gr hundred firry fir] A Name confifting of fo many and fuch numeral Letters, as being counted and fumto many and luci numeral Letters, as being counted and lumined up, do make the Number of 666, which is the Number of the Beaft; both the first Beast, (to wir, the Roman Emperor, and Empire) and the second Beast; (to wir, the Emperor, and Empire ) and the second Beaft; (to wit, the Roman Pope and Papacy) for under the Beaft is compresent the second particular man, but an Order and Succession of men, even a Kingdom. Iteneus, who lived near the Apostles time, having seen and heard Polycarpus, who was one of the Disciples of St. John, the Pen-man of the Apostations of John the Port of the Apostations of the Apostat and he himself judged it likely to be so indeed; because (faith he) the most true Kingdom hath that Name. For they be Latines which now do Reign, as he writeth, lib 5. 6. 29. Adversus Harel and the Legis, as in Villeum secretorum sexagints for numeram continet. Now the Pope is Head of the Latine Church, as the Emperor was of the Latine Empire. Therefore if the Emperor with his Empire ( by Irenaus Judgement ) might be called Latinos, much more Popedom and the Pope; who is so much a Latine as he will allow no Exercife of Religion, but in Latine. He comp is all to pray in Latine, he hath the Bible of the Latine Translation, which he prefers before the Bible written in the Hebrew and Greek Tongues by the Prophets and Apostles. His Laws, Decrees, and People are all Latine. His Church Latine, and all condemned as Schismaticks, which will not be subject to his Latine Law, and his Latine Faith. The Greeks being odious to Priests, until they consented to submit themselves to the Latine Bishop, as Primate and Chief, and the Latine Service. May not then the Name Latinos, well agree to the Popish Hierarchy, and better than to the Heathenish Empire? And that 6 this should be the very Name ( howsoever the Judgments of emen much differ, and the Name may be fitted to other words ) which hath the number of a man. containing 666. is apparent by these presumptions. First, because the Name here spoken of, was such as wise men might find, and it was a Name which then might be found, when St. John wrote (else in vain had an Exhortation been to study and search it, had there been no hope to find it. ) Also by Irenaus himself, and afore him, it was received by common consent. Lastely, the Greek Letters of the Name being numbred amount to 666. as may be perceived in this which followeth.

Some hold that the Mark, the Name of the Beaft, and the Number of his Name, is one and the same thing; and that the Later of all these is the Exposition of the Former.

The Mark of Antichrist is nothing else, but the Name of the former Beaft, containing the Number of 666. Therefore Rev 9. 14. 11. 20. 4. He reckons not these three as distinct, but mentions the Mark alone. Leigh's Annot Hereof are to be read many and fundry Interpretations, whereof Mr. Bernard maketh mention, of all which he preferreth this , that this Number setteth out the comely proportion of the whole Frame, Structure and Building, of that Beaft, the the Foundation of the Wall being 12. Cubits broad, the Popedom, the Kingdom of that Antichrift, ( the man of Sin Height of the Wall on the infide next unto the City 12. Cu-

2. It contains the Number 666. as afterwards may be feen | his Invention ) in all the Parts well agreeing and compatted together, each Part answering and fitly agreeing, as this Number within it self. This Number (aith he) runneth all on six every way: six in Unites, in Tens, and in Hundreds. Now this Number of fix hath its perfection, and is the first perfect Number, of which Boniface the Eighth speaketh, in the Preface of the fixth Book of the Decretals; which Book he calleth the fixth, because it is a perfect Number, and for that being added to the five other before, it maketh the perfect Volum, containing (as he faith) A perfect Platform for the Government of Affairs, and a perfect Discipline for the Rule of good Manners. How this Number of fix, of which the Number 666. confisteth, notably setteth out this Antichriftian Kingdom, he inftanceth in particu-

The truth is ( faith the Annet. ) this is the Name of the Beaft, not of Antichrift; and so a National Name, describing that state where Antichrist should rise and Reign, and oning that there where American mountaine and the gift free therefore though it is like to be comprehended in Greek Letters, in which Language John wrot; yet it is not likely to be a Greek word originally, irenaus and the Antients, take it for the word Latterns, which in Greek Letters maketh fix it for the word Laternos, which in Green Leuches Marketh Johnshed fixty and fix, shewing that Anuchrift should be a Romane, or one of the Latine Church. Others suppose his Power should begin in the year of Christ 656. Others that it should latt so many years in the heighth of it. Most are of opinion, that it is a Name of Number, the Letters of which it is made being numeral, containing in them this Number 666. as Activo doth. But as for that opinion (faith Mr. Potter ) concerning the numeral Letters of the Name Naretvo. although it have some clearness and evidence in respect of the truth of its Application, yet it is most uncertain and obscure, in reof its application, yet it is most uncertain and objects, in reflect of the manner of the interpretation; there being no Example in the Scripture of any Number so counted, or any Numbe so characterized: And also the words of the Text seem plainly to cross all such interpretations of any Name whatsever; in that it is expressly said, Let him that hath understanding count the Number of the New Seems. Number of the Beaft. It is not said ( as it is observed by nummy I to the control the Name of the Beaft, or the numeral Letters in his Name, but this manner of freaking is rather par-posity avoided by St. John, as Cotterius affirmith, laying, Quem ad modum logar nothings [cohanner or tissum est. Besides, it is observed that the Number of the Beast, and the Name of the Beast, are two things plainly distinguished in the Text: And therefore it is not likely, the counting of the Number, and the counting of the Name hould be all one; much less that the Name ought to be counted and not the Number ; whereas they that have ought to be counted and not be ramper, secretary top that have understanding are advised by express words of the Text to sount the Number, not the Number. The former opinion being by him rejected, he commendeth the opinion of those Interpreters, who well confidering, that of opposites there's the same reason, have therefore endeavoured to find out the true Interpretation of this Number by comparing it with the Number 144. to which this Number of the Beaft is evidently opposed, which being as it were the Anti-numerus, must therefore be interpreted after the same manner, and in the same particulars applied to the Synagogue of Antichrift, as the Number 144. ought to be interpreted, and as it is in the Scriptures applied to the Church of Christ. The only, or at least, the chief cause why this Number 1:4. was cholen rather than any other to be the measure of the Wall of the Celeftial forulation, is because this Number is raised and built upon the Number of 12, which being multiplied into it self, produceth this square Number 144. for as this Number 144. is raifed and built upon the Number of 12. only, and cannot possibly admit of any other Number to be Root and Basis of it, so neither can the Church of Christ admit of any other Foundation, that that which is already laid by the 12 Apofiles. As therefore this Number 144. Is built upon 12 Unites, so the Church of Christ upon the 12. Apoftles. And the Number of 12. is more confpicuous and remarkable in this Number 144. than any other Number, because it measureth not only the Bottom or Root, but the Sides and Ranks of it alfo; fo it is evident that the Number of 12. is more conspicuous and remarkable in the Church of God, than any other Number whatoever. And hence it is that this Number 12, is rehearfed and repeated above 144. times in the Scriptures, and is in them fo often used, and in fo many and so divers particulars applied by the Spirit to things appertaining to the Church, that we cannot but acknowledg this Number to be chosen, and as it were affected by the holy Ghoft, rather than any other. And though the Number 144, which in the 21. of the Revelation (in which place only it is Named) is faid to be the measure of the Wall of the New Jerusalem, is there expressed, yet our Author makes it manifest that the Number 12. is chiefly intended bits, and the Height of the Wall on the outlide 12 Cubits, and the Breadth of the Wall 12 Cubits; so that the measure of the Wall it felf ( according to all Dimensions not hitherto exprefied) may be most truly, most properly, and most fignificantly said to be 144 Cubits. Now as the Mystery of the Number 144 consistent in 12 the Root of it, so the Square Root of the Number 666 which is opposite unto it, must also be extracted, for the chief Mystery doth not consist in the application of the Number 666 unto Antichrist, but in finding out another Number, by counting of this Number, which other Number is most properly, and most remarkably applicable more him. This Interpretation the very words of the Text do necessarily enforce, for therein it is expresly faid, that the Number 666 must be counted; now after what manner should this Number be counted, but after some such manner, as is commonly used amongst men? It is not said, it is the number of a man, or of man, that is, not only such a Number, but fuch a Computation and Counting, as is known unto men, and such as is commonly used among them? But there is no other way whereby Men usually do, or properly can be said to count Numbers, but by such a kind of Computation, which either is, or is reducible to one of these following, namely either by Addition, or Subtraction, or Multiplication, or Division, or by the Extraction of Roots; in all which kinds of Computation, and in every one of them, the End and Scope is, by one or more Numbers given, to find out one other Number, which was not known, nor could be expressed before the Computation was performed. And hence it followeth nedessarily, that if the Number of the Beast must be counted, then there must be some other Number found out by it, besides the Number it felf, which is named and expressed.

But why must the counting of this Number be restrained to the Extraction of the Root only, rather than to any other kind of Computation? Hereunto might be answered, that the Example of the opposite Number 144 (which is to be counted after this manner) is a fufficient Reason; but rather thus, This Restriction is not only probable, but absolutely necessary, because there is only one Number, named and expressed in the Text, ( which only ought to be in the Extraction of Roots; to extract the square Root of a Number given, is to find out the greatest Number, which being multiplied into it self, and having the Fractions added to the Product, (if there be any Fraction remaining) maketh the first Number ) for if any other kind of Computation had been intended, two Numbers at the least ought to have been expressed, as there must be in Addition, Subtraction, Multiplication, and Division. Now the Root of the Beasts Number 666 being extracted, will be found to be that fatal Number 25, which is remarkably opposed unto 12. And as 12 is the greatest Number, and the least Number, and the only Number of Units, of the fame Denomination with the Number 144, which is or can be contained in the Root of 144, fo 25 is the greatest Number, and the least Number, and the only Number of Units of the same Denomination with the Number 666, which is or can be contained in the Root of the Number 666. And this, ficut similitudinis, is sufficient to establish an evident Antithesis between the two great Cardinal Numbers of these two Roots, although in respect of the Fractions, there be no ficut equalitatis, between them. And whether the Fractions be added or not added to 25; yet they can neither augment, or diminish the Root, no not so much as by one Unite, as it is sufficiently known to those that know what Fractions are. And although there be divers other Numbers, befides this Number 666, by any one of which, we might have been infallibly directed to this Number 25, as unto the only Cardinal number, by which their Roots could have been expressed; vet there is no one of those Numbers, but only the Number 666, whose most persect Figure doth represent the Figure of Rome, as the most perfect Figure of the Number 144, doth represent the Figure of Hierufalem, and therefore it was both convenient and necessary, that this Number 666 should be chofen rather than any other. And this Number 25, is in a double respect remarkable in the Root of 666. 1. In that it is the only Cardinal Number of the Prime or Cardinal Unites. 2. In that it is the only Number of Ordinal Units or Fractions, by which that Root can be by feweft Figures most exactly expres-fed. As Antichrist is opposed to Christ, and 666 to 144, so is 24 ( which hath been conceived to be a faral and unfortunate Number, by fuch, as knew no relation that it had to Antichrift, or to the Number 666, as our Author inflanceth in divers opposed to 12, and so must those things which are chiefly to be measured or numbred by this Number 25 be correspondent, and answerable on the other fide, and in some fort opposed to, or fet over against those things which are measured, numbred, or described by the Number 12. As therefore the Number 12 in the 21th. Chap. of the Revelations, is applied to the Church the true folid measure of that imaginary Cube, whose Compass and Hierarchy thereof, in such things as are most effential to it, is equal to the Compass of the City of Kome. And as the

and in such Circumstances, as are most apparently remarkable in it; so the Number 25 in like manner must be applied to the Papacy, and Pfeudo-Hierarchy thereof, in such things as are most effential to it, and in such Circumstances, as are most apparently romarkable in it. And as the Number 12 is in that Chapter aster such an admirable and wonderful manner applied to the Spiritual Jerusalem, that is, to the Church and Hierarchy thereof, that the literal and material City in which that Ecclesiastical Hierarchy was first Established, is also by the same Number plainly measured, and manifestly described: So ought also the Number 25 to be in such fort applied to the mystical and spiritual Babylon; that the material City it self, in which that Pseudo-Apostolical Hierarchy hath been long fince Established, may be by the same Number, both truly measured, and evidently described. To make this good, our Author sheweth, that Rome is answerable to Hierusalem, and the Popes Cardinals to Christs Apostles, Chap. 14. That as the Colledge of Apostles did originally confift of 12 Persons and no more, so the Colledge and Corporation of Cardinals in Rome, according to its free Indication of the paper (which was about 300 years after Christ, in or about the time of constantine, when the Seat of the Empire was taken out of the way, and removed from Rome to Conflantinople, and the ancient Purity of the Primitive Church decayed, &c.) did confift of 25 Persons and no more Chap. 15. That the Number 12 is actually and expressy applyed unto fix feveral things in the new Jerufalem, namely,

1. Twelve Gates.

2. Twelve Angels at the Gates,

Twelve Tribes written on the Gates.

Twelve Foundations with Names written on them.

Twelve thousand Furlows, the measure of the City.

6. Twelve manner of Fruits of the Tree of Life. And that which way foever these things are to be understood, and accordingly to what possible probability soever they may be interpreted, there are things in all senses answerable unto them in the Romish Babylon. That if by the 12 Gates we understand the 12 Apostles, in respect of their Faith and Doctrine in general, because by their Examples and by the Sincerity and Truth of their Life and Dostrine, all other Christians have been converted to the true Religion: In this respect the Cardinals of Rome, who make themselves answerable to the Apostus, and whose original Number was 25, may be also said to have and whose original Number was 25, may be also said to have been the 25 Gates of Spiritual Babylon; because chiefly and originally, by their Policy and Hypocrifie, in laying the first Foundation of Popery, all other Papists, have been since perswaded, and invited to believe, and embrace the Heresies and Superstitions of the Church of Rome. Or, if there may be said to have been 12 Gates of the Church, because the Administration of the Sacraments, and especially of Baptism (which is literally and properly the Gate of the celestial Hieroscales ) was chiefly and originally committed unto the 12 Apostles in the City of Jerusalem, which is therefore truly called the Mobels of Papist, the Womb, and the Gate of all Churches; so in the first apparent beginning of Papist, the Administration of Baptism apparent beginning of Popery, the Administration of Baptism was originally committed unto 25 Cardinals in the City of Rome, was originally committed unto 25 Catalnas; in the City of Rome, which filleth her felf also the Mother, the Womb, and the Gate of all Churches, Chap. 16. But if the 12 Gates are 12 Churches for Congregations, in which the Sacraments, and especially Baptism was administred, and the 12 Angels are those 12 Pallors to whom these 12 Churches were committed, and the 12 Tribes, are the 12 Tribes, or Parishes, or other Divisions, into which the City and People of Hierusalem were divided; there are things answerable and opposite unto them in the Romish Babylon; for it may be proved by a Cloud of Witnesses, that the Popes about the time of constantine the Great, did divide the City and People of Rome, into a certain Number of Ecclesiasical Divisions, Jurisdictions, Tithes, or Parishes; and that in every one of these Divisions there was a Church erected for the Administration of Baptism, and to every one of these Churches a several Presbyter assigned and appointed. And as some Interpreters do make the Apostles themselves, although in divers respects, to be the Gates, the Angels, and the Foundations of the celestial Hierafalem; so the Cardinals in one respect may be faid to be the first Gates of the Church of Rome, because at their first Institution, the Administration of Baptism was committed to them only: And in another respect they may be called Angels, because they were Pastors of the first Parish Churches in Rome: And lastly, they may be truly said to have been the first Foundation-stones, on which the Popish Hierarchy hath been ever fince erected, as was before declared, Chap. 17. That as the Number 12 having thousands of Furlongs added unto it, is the true folid measure of an imaginary Cube, whose Compass is equal to the Compass of the City Hierusalem; so the Number 25 having thousands of Furlongs added to it, is it hath been long fince actually divided, whereunto the 12 manner of Fruits have a special and evident Allusion, so the Papifts have added new Articles to the Apostles Creed, and have increased the Number from 12 unto 25, so that the Number 24 is as remarkably applicable to the Romillo Faith, as the Number 12 to the Apostles Creed. And that the same was decreed in the Council of Trent, which was begun by 25 Pretates, continued 25 Seffions, and ended with the Subscription of 24 Popish Arch-Bishops, Chap. 18. That the arft decreed and limited Number of Cardinals, and Parish Priestsin Rome was 25, and that the first Number of Churches for Baptism, and Parishes was 25 alfo; our Author proveth, Chap. 19. That according to the Sense literal. as the Number of the Gates of Herusalem was 12 and no more, fo the Number of the Gates of the Ciwas 12 and no more, to the Number of the Gates of the Ci-ty of Rome was 25, Chap. 20. That as 12000 Furlongs are the folid measure of a Cube, whose Perimeter is equal to the Compass of the New Jerulatem, 50 25000 Furlongs are the fo-lid Measure of a Cube, whose Perimeter is equal in Compass to the City of Rome, to that the Measure of the Compass or Circuit of Rome must be p'us minus, between 116 and 117 Fur-longs; that is, fourteen Miles and an half, and almost half a quarter of a Mile, as Authors atteff it to be, Chap. 21. That the Popish Creed consists of 25 Articles (as by the History of the Council of Trent appeareth ) as the Apostles doth of 12, Chap. 22. That as the Number 12 is in many other respects betides these, applicable to the true Church, and to such things as pertain unto it; fo this Number 25, is in many other things as pertain unto it; 10 this Number 25, 15 in many other triangs applicable to the Papacy, and to fuch things as do appertain unto it, Chap. 23. As the Land of Canaan was divided into 12 Juijlitions and Divilions, which were governed by the Heads of the Tribes, and did perhaps type out that Divilion which Excluded for the Tribes. files did exercise, not only over the City of Hierusalem, as Paftors, but also over the whole Countrey belonging to that City, as the first Christian Bishops; So perhaps, the Antichrist of Rome, in those Kingdoms where conveniently he might, and in those times when he had fullest Power, hath also divided certain Kingdoms into 25 Provinces or other Divisions, and hath placed 25 Men of Note and Eminency in feveral Kingdoms, who by their Power could Rule and Govern others. Heretofore there were 25 Abbots in England, which had Voices in the Parliament House And because there are no other in the Romish Clergy, more fitly answerable to those Singers mentioned in the 25 Chapter of the first Book of Chronicles, then their Monks, Fryers, and Singing Maß-Prießs, it is so much the more observable, that the Number 25 should be remarkable in respect of thefe, (that being the Number which was or ought to have been of Monks in their Abbies, Priories, and Deanries ) as the Number 12 appears to be in that Chapter, in respect of those.

Also of the Order of the Knights of the most glorious Virgin Mary ( as they call them ) there must always remain Resident a Rome, in the Court of the Holy Father 25, having 20 Ducats by the Month, and the like Number at Loretto. Those 25 Refidents having Monthly Allowance, are in some fort answerable to those 12 Captains, mentioned 1 Chron. 27. 1. This Number 25 also is remarkable in respect of certain Officers of great Note and Estimation, belonging to the highest Courts of Justice in Rome, Chap. 24. Also the Number 25 is remarkable in divers things pertaining to Sc. Peters Church in Rome: There's placed upon a guilded Globe of Brass, a guilded Cross of 25 Hand-Breadibs in Height. The Gate called Porta Sansta, stands open only one year in 25. In this Chuch have been about 25 Altars, as Onuphrius recites them; and the Number 25 is most remarkably imprinted upon all their Altars (in to many Prints, Marks, Dents or Characters) because Christs five Wounds as they call them, are in five feveral places ingraved upon the Top of every Altar. And that the Number 25 should be remarkable in respect of their Altars, is so much the more to be observed, because the Number 12 is applicable to certain Altars mentioned in the Scriptures, as 1 King. 18. 31. Ezek. 43. 16. Chap.

Finally, the Number 25 is an affected Symbolical Device a mong the Papifts , and their Mass of Christs five wounds five times multiplied, hath been (as they fay ) by an Angel from Heaven commanded, and by Authority Apostolical confirmed. And their Jubile is and hath been for many Ages Celebrated every 25th year only. And their Priests, Deacons, and Sub-Deacons, &c. are not accounted of a perfect Age until they are 25 years old compleatly. And as they feem to affect the 25th Year more than any other, so have they also affected the 25th Day of the Month more than any other; on which their chief Holy Days are, as the 25th of December, the 25th of January, the 25th of February, so oft as it is Leap-year, ( and it is observable that that Day which is added to the Year every Leap-year, is not placed at the beginning or ending of the lalready expired.

Apolles Creed doth naturally branch it felf into 12 Articles, as Year, or any Month, but is made to be the 25th Day of the Month ) the 25th Day of March, &c. And which is thore femarkable than all these, the Feast of St. Bartholomew is Gelebrated at Rome upon the 25 Day of Angult; as their Breulary witneffeth, although in all other places it be Celebrated one Day fooner, being herein fingular, that it should Celebrate one 25. Day more than all the World befide, Chap. 26.

Dilation | Some external thing, offered and given unto God, to pacifie and appeale his Anger against Sin, or to witness thankfulness for some Benefit. Plal. 51. 19. Burnt Offering and Oblation.

The word in the Heb. fignifies generally a Gift or Present carried to any, Gen. 32. 13. Pfal. 54. 12. & 72. 10. and in special, a Gift or Oblation presented to God, Gen. 4. 3, 4, 5. Pfal. 96. 8. most specially the Oblation of Corn or flour, called the Meat offering, Lev. 2. Numb. 29. There is then a civil Offering, called a Present or Gift to men, for Love and Honour sake; and a sacred Offering to God for Gratulation or Propitiation.

Note further, that it was provided by the Law, that things offered to God, were to be without Blemish, neither blind, broken, or maimed, or which had a Wen, or was feurvy, or scabbed; by all which was fignified the perfect Sacrifice of Chrift, holy, harmless, &c. Heb. 7. 27. I Pet. 1. 19. Secondly, our Obedience, though unperfect, yet as it proceedeth from the Holy Spirit, to be pure before God, being without all Hypocrific, as 1 Tim. 2. 8. 1 Joh. 3. 3. Malac. 3. 11. Thirdly, that in Heaven no unclean Person (shall come, Cant. 4. 7, 8. and Eph. 5. 5.

Note further, that the salting of Oblations and Sacrifices with Salt, according to the Law, Lev. 2. 13. which is repeated, Mar. 9. 49 fignifies that the Covenant of God made with us in Christ, should dwell in us and be rooted in our heart, Mar. 9. 50. Secondly, the mortification of our Lufts, as Salt taketh and drieth up fresh and unwholome Humors; to which purpose Christ applieth it, Mar. 9. 42. Thirdly, that Zeal and Fervency ought to feafon all our Actions, joyned with Care of mutual Peace, Mark 9. 50.

So to be sin aperts To receive and get the Gift of Faith by the mercy of God: A Metonymy of the Caule for the Effeet. Rom. 11. 31. Through your Mercy they shall obtain Mercy.

The meaning is more fully thus, that the Mercy shewed to the Gentiles, in calling them to Christ after the Jews were cast our, should be an occasion that the Jews by the Mercy of God (being now in unbelief) should hereafter believe, and be faved, for so much as the unbelief of the Jews was occasion of Salvarion to the Gentiles, v. 30. Methinks the general calling of the Jews toward the fecond coming of Chrift, is plainly by Paul in this 11. to the Romans proved to be possible and probable in verf. 24. by an Argument from the less to the more: Also, from this Power of God, verf.23. and then that it is infallible, and certainly shall be, as agreeable to the Will of God revealed to Paul, verf. 25. confirmed by prophetical Authority, foretelling it in two places, out of Ifa. verf. 26, 27. Detaffon] A season or opportunity of time; a meet, fit, and convenient time. This Joseph's Brethren thought that he would feek against them, Gen. 43 18. This Zebul advised Abimelech to take against his Enemies, Judg. 9. 33. This Sampson fought against the Philistins, Judg. 14. 4. This Samuel advised Saulto embrace, 1 Sam, 10.7. This the Princes sought against Daniel, Dan. 6. 4, 5. In 2 Sam. 12. 14. it may be taken for ground or cause. In Ezr. 7. 20. for need. In Jer. 2. 24. for lust. In 2 Cor. 8. 8. for reason, or because. The original word in Rom. 7. 8. is acosem, which is taken three ways.

1. It properly riguifieth the opportunity of doing a thing.

2. Any Circumf ance or accident, whereby one is occasioned to do any thing.

3. That which draweth a man from doing that which he intended : Both these last ways Sin took an occasion by the Law, for both the pravity of our Nature is more inflamed by the prohibition, and we wish it were removed as a Rub or Block out of our way.

It cometh (as some think) of sound an Assault, because if we give our selves but liberty, never so little, more than is sit, the Flesh will make an Assault upon us. Leigh Crit. Sac.

In Rom. 14. 13. the word is sectional, which figuifieth a Stone, or Impediment in the way, against which a man dashet or may dash his foot. In 1 Joh. 2. 10. the original word is say when Nov, Which Grammarians say, is the Bridg in a Trap, which when Aoy, Which Grammarians lay, is the Briag in a tray, which when the Mouse or any other Vernin puts down, they are taken. Both are together in Rom, 14.12. The first figuifying a Stone, &c. the second to balt, and this seems to follow upon the former; for when a man dasheth his Foot against a thing, he halt-

6. An occasion to fall to sin, Rom. 14. 13. and to pollute the confeience of another, 1 Cor. 8.9, 10.

Differed The word oxevorator in the facred Writers, is either natural or metaphorical.

It naturally fignifies ,

1. A Irap a Gin, or Snare to catch any thing. So in the Greek Translation of Pfal. 69. 22. which should be so rendred in Rom. 11. 9. ( where the fame words are cited out of the LXX. translation and not out of the Hebrew Text of the Pfalm) not stumbling-block, but Gin, or some other word belongs to this fignification.

2. Any Obstacle or Hindrance laid in a mans way, by which the Passenger is detained or stopped; peculiarly, a sharp stake, fuch as in time of War men were wont to put in the fields where their Enemy should follow, to wound their Feet or Legs, in the passage; against which, being so ordinary in War, they anciently used Greves of Brass to defend their Feet or Legs, 1 Sam. 17. 6.

3. A Stone or Block in the way, at which men are apt ( if they be not careful, or if they go in the dark ) to flumble and fall. And thereupon in the Old Testament it is taken for a fall, and so sometime for Sin, the Fall of the Soul. In which sense I conceive its used, Judg. 8. 27. where it's rendred a Snare,

i. e. a Sin ensnaring, or occasioning Ruine.

4. Slander, Calumny, or Defamation, Pfal. 50. 20.
Metaphorically, for the use of the word in the New Testament, some places must be interpreted by bringing the Metaphor from the first sense, as it fignifies a Snare, or Gin, as Mat. 16. 23. Rev. 2. 14. Mat. 5. 29. & 18. 8. Mar. 9. 47. Others, by bringing it from the second sense of a sharp Stake, which he who hath once met with, and been galled by it, is wont to gather up, and cast into the fire, as Mat. 13. 41,42. ( to which St. Paul feems to allude, 2 Cor. 11. 29. Mat. 17. 27. & 15. 12. & 18.6, 7. Luk 7, 23. Mat. 13. 57. Mar. 6. 3. Joh. 6.61. Gal. 5. 11. Mat. 26. 31. Mar. 14. 23, 27. Joh. 16. 11. Rom. 14. 13. A third fore refer to the third mentioned acception of the word, as it fignifies a stumbling-block, as Rom. 9. 33. 1 Cor. 8. 9, 13. 1 Pet. 2. 8. 1 Joh. 2. 10, 11. Dr. Ham. on Mat. 11.6

So the very word Daury, that we ordinarily render Descons, doth Mat. 22.13. fignifie the Officers that take and carry men to Prison, and ( as it was the Lictors Office ) bind men band and Foot, &c. The first is consubstantial of the Father and the Son (Thou in me:) This is an Union coeffential of Persons in one Essence; and it is the foveraign Caufe of the two Unions following. 2. Union is the conjunction of Chrift the Head, with the Church his true and myffical Body. This is an Union of two Natures in one Will. (In them.) The third Union is the Communion of the Faithful one with another, as fellow Members (made perfect is one:) This with the former Union, is not by mixture and transfusion of substances, but by the spiritual Bands of Faith and Love. Whence it cometh on the one fide, that Christ with all his Merits and Gifts, are in common diffributed to Believers his Members: And on the other fide, the Faithful do mutually impart and bestow all their good things inward and outward, unto the use and benefit of one another. And this is that Communion of Saints, whereof we make profession in our Creed to believe it.

Coopen | To receive Christ into the Heart by Faith, to be joyned more near unto him, that he might work more ' mightily, Cant. 5. 2. Open to me my Sifter, my Spoule. God openeth Doors to us, when he bestoweth his Elestings on us, Pfal. 78. 23, 24. Ifa. 45. 1, 2, 3. and spiritually when he giveth Grace to utter his Word, and to believe the fame, Col. 4.3. Act. 14. 27. So we open the Door unto him, when we give him entrance into our Heart, he calling upon us by his Word and Works; when we repent, believe, and accept Christ with his Graces, &c. Rev. 3. 20. Aynfir.

But can we open? Is it in our power? Hath not he the Keys himself, and is not be the Door himself? Doth not he shut and none can open? Yes, but when he bids thee to open, he lends thee a Key; and when he infuseth Grace and Faith, he inables thee to open. It is his Gift, but thy Grace; his Inspiration, but thy Improvement; and oh! how blei ed are they that are but his Tarn-keys, his Door-keepers. Is there a greater Honour or Happiness than to co-operate with God in that, which of all others is the most Godlike Work, the Salvation of Souls. Annot.

And what shall we lose by it? Do we entertain Christ to our Los? Doth he come empty? No, he comes with all Grace; his Goodness is a communicative, diffusive Goodness. He comes to spread his Treasures, to enrich the Heart with all Grace and Strength, to bear all Afflictions, to encounter all Dangers, to bring Peace of Conscience and Joy in the holy Ghost, he comes indeed to make our hearts (as it were ) a Heaven. As the Church in her right temper hath never enough of Christ, but defires further Union and Communion still, so Christ also, he is as desirous of them, yea they are his defires that breed their defires. Christ had the Heart of the Spoule in some measure already, but yet there were some Corners of the Heart that were not so filled with Christ as they should be, he was not so much in her understanding, Will, Joy, Delight, and Love, as he would be, all which he would have her to open. Sibs.

"To open the Wook | To unfeal the Book, by declaring and revealing unto John, and by him to the Church, fuch ' fecret Mysteries as were before hidden in Gods Counsel. This 'no Creature could do: Christ the Mediator he was only able, for he came out of the Bosom of the Father, to declare him to us, having all Power. Rev. 5. 2, 3, 5. Who is worthy to open the Book? Such a Treasure is this Book of Revelation, which is not otherwise communicated to the Cnurch, but by the mediation of Christ, who is the onely Interpreter of his Fathers will, and Doctor of his Church.

To open the Buttomlefs-pit | To fet abroach, publifh, and manifest such devillish Errors and Heresies as came from the deep Pit of Hell, which was done, when Antichrist got Power and Strength to obscure the Truth of Heavenly Do-Arine, and to deceive the World with strong Delusions. Rev.

9. 2. And he opened the Bottomless-pit. Now false Doctrine came forth abundantly, as if Hell had been let loose, or broke up, and the Gates of it set wide open. to let it out at large : For now Mahomet setteth forth his Alcoran for Divine Scripture, the like whereof no Hererick durff attempt before, or at least could not prevail with multipudes of men to believe him, as Mahomet did. So that the opening the Bottomless-pit, is the Apostara's using their Power to let in such gross Errors into the World, as could come from none, as their Author, but from the Devil of Hell. Annot.

To open the Door or the Gate | To receive and admit into the Heart the Grace and Power of Christ, Rev. 3. 20. If any man hear and open the Door. See Door. 'There is a double opening of the Eyes, one proper, when the fleshly Eye of the Body is made to see that which before was not seen. The other improper, or metaphorical, which is the opening of the mind, by which it understandeth things which before lay hid. And this cometh two ways: either of Grace, when the Holy Ghost enlighteneth the mind to see that which is good pertaining to Happiness and Perfection, by an Illumination immediate and extraordinary, as Luk. 24. 45. and mediate and ordinary, to wit, by Do-Arine, as Act. 26. 18. Or it cometh of Divine Judgment, when one hath given him a Sense and Conscience of his own Sin, being prefented to his mind before by Satan blinded, as it hapned to Asiam, Gen. 3. and Judas, Mat. 27. 5. This is sometime done, as by the inward work of the Spirit in the Soul, ( as in the two former ) so by Affiction men are made to understand their Fault, as Juseph's Brethren, Gen. 42, 21. and in the prodigal Son, Luk. 15. 17.

* Church opened by the Death of Christ to all which believe in him, before he came in the Flesh; and to all, who since 'his coming are reconciled to God, through Faith in his Blood. Rev. 11. 19. Then the Temple of God was opened in Heae ven. Some understand this Temple opened ( not of Heaven ) but to receive a multitude of Saints, through Gods good Providence, scattering Persecutions raised by Satan against the Church, being by his Fury shut up for a time, none or few entring.

The felicity of Saints, and that joyful and special fight they shall have of Gods merciful Face in Christ, is here expressed.

The Church now appearing again opinly, is compated to the Temple of ferulaten, wherein the Ark was. It was finst up before, as that of ferulaten under Abaz, 2 Chr. 28. 24. and tebrs, when it was measured verf. 1. and the Court given to the Gentiles, vers. 2. Now is it set open. as that was by Hezekiah, 2 Chr. 29. 3. not to receive a few Saints, as before in times of Persecution, but whole multitudes of Believers. This noteth the free exercise of Religion which was established.

At this time the Mysteries of Salvation ( shut up before by the Antichristian Darkness ) should now be made known, and become common to all Gods people, as they were before to the learned ecclefiaftical Persons. And therefore the 24 Elders ( without mentioning the four Beafts ) a Type of all faithful Christians, do praise God (vers. 16.) as being now to be enriched with Heavenly Graces, to know the holy things of God hid before. Bernard.

The Temple of the Tabernacle of the Testimony in Heaven was opened, Rev. 15. 5. that is, the innermost part of the Taberna-cle, called the Holy of Holiest, and the most holy place; which Tabernacle is termed, the Tabernacle of the Testimony, Numb. 1. 50. & 17. 7. in regard of the two Tables of Stone so called, Exod. 25.21. because on them was written the Law of God, the Testimony of his Will, Exod. 34. 28. Psal. 19. 7. & 119. 14, 22. which Tables were were put in the Ark, Deut. 10.5. 1 King 8.5. and that Ark placed in the innermost part of the Tabernacle or Temple, 1 King. 8. 6. Heb. 9. 3, 4. The Temple was so open, that men might see into it out of the Comt, now, which in the Old Testament they could not. Annot.

After the two Prophets were ascended up (Chap. 11. 12.) and that now the Church became visible, the Temple, that is, the hidden things of God formerly unknown, became now to be manifelt in the true visible Church of Christ, by those Angels, (chap. 14. 6, 8, 9.) who taught what this true Testimony of God was unto the People. Bernard.

3. The holy Ghost with his spiritual Gists, whereby the Soul is refreshed and cheared. Pfel. 45. 7. Thou hast anointed him with the oyi of gladness above his fellows. This is spiritual Oyl, as Mat. 25. 4. Oyl in their Lamps.

4. That oyl wherewith the fick were anointed in the primitive Church, for healths fake. Jam. 5. 12. Anoint them with holy Oyl in the Name of the Lord. This was miracuious Oyl, given for a fign of health, not as a Medicine; and it lasted but for a time, till the Gift of Miracles ceased. Therefore the imitati-on hereof by the Papists is absurd and impious. For the Gift being ceased, there is no sense to use the sign, especially at point of death, when there is no more hope of health.

*Offering with Oyl, was Jacob, Gen. 28, 18. It was afterward *appointed by Law to be fo done: See Exod. 29.2, 3, 4.

Which Ceremony fignified these two things:

One, that Christ was Anointed and Consecrated to his Office of Mediator, with fulness of the Holy Ghost. See Pfal.

45. 8. Isa. 61. 1, 2. Heb. 1. 9.

Secondly, that the Anointing of the Spirit, is that which makes us and all our Services acceptable to God, 2 Cor. 1.21. Note. The effusion and spreading abroad of Spiritual Gifts c in all fulness and most admirable plenty upon Christ our Head, who had the Graces of the Spirit above measure, Joh. 3. 34. and by measure according to the free Gift of Christ upon his Members, Eph. 4-7, 15. is termed in Scripture, Anointing, 6 Ia, 61. I. Plal. 47. 5. Act. 10. 38. I Joh. 2, 20, 27. Allo called the resting of the Spirit upon Christ, Isa. 11. 2. and upon the Prophet Elias, 2 King. 2. 15. and upon Eldad, and Medad, Numb. 26. and upon all the Saints, 1 Pet. 4. 14. which refting, i. e. the abiding and dwelling of the Spirit on Christ, the chief Seat of the Spirits Residence, was some-what shadowed and signified in the Dove resting upon him at his Baptism by John, Mat. 3. 16.

'And note turther, that he refleth upon the Faithful as is convenient for the Members, but on Christ as Head of the Church, in a far more excellency, which standeth in these three things; for it refteth on our Saviour,

" 1. Originally, as touching his Substance, proceeding, and fent both from him and the Father, Joh. 14.

'2. Repletively, and effectively working in him all Graces

' in all perfection. ' 3. Communicatively distributing his Gifts to others, Joh.

1. 16. Eph. 4. 8. which his Members cannot do.

Whereas by the Law, Exod. 30. 31, 32. none might anoint any flesh with the Holy Oyl, upon Excommunication: This did figure that the Reprobate, though they might be addrned with most excellent Graces, yet should never be a oninted with the holy Ointment of Sons and Priests of God. See 1 Joh. 2. 16, 20.

'Note further, that the use of Oyl and Anointing, both before and after Moses Law, was for Sanctifying and Confectating to holy uses, the Persons and Things so anointed, as Gen. 28. 18. & 35. 14. Exod. 40. 9, 10, 11. Job 29. 6. And 'also for representing the Gists of the Holy Ghost upon Christ

Dri Heb. 1. 9. Hath annointed thee with the Oyl of Gladness above thy Fellows. Hath anointed thee from everlasting, as the King, Priest, and Prophet of thy Church, with that

Hath Qualified thee for the Administration of thy Kingdom with his Spirit, compared to 0/1, because as 0/1 strengthneth the Body, so the Spirit of God strengtheneth and rejoyceth the Soul, I Theff. 1.6. This Anointing was when the Son of God assumed our humane Nature into the Unity of his Perfon, whereby the Spirit of God, and all the Graces of his Spirit were communicated unto his humane Nature, fo far as the Oyl wherewith Christ was anointed, is called The Oyl. of Gladness, because the sweet Savour of it gladdeth the Heart of all his Members, that is, all true Christians, who are his Fellows, and Partners in the Anainting. He was Christ, as they Christians; but he more than they. His Manhood was filled with the Gifts and Graces of God, both in measure, number, and degree, above all men and Angels. Leighs Annot.

Oyl was a Token of Confectation in the time of the Law; fo we by this Heavenly oyl of the Spirit are Dedicated to God, as a Royal Priefthood, &c. Oyl gives a fweet Tafle to the Meat; fo this Spiritual Oyl of Gods Graces makes us a fiveet and pleasant Meat to the Lord. Oyl supples the wounds which be in mans Body; so the Oyl of the Spirit supples us against the wounds of Sin. Oyl makes a man nimble; so the Graces of the Spirit makes us more lively in Gods Service. Ovl keeps the Body foluble, and is a means to purge it from many gross Humours; so the Graces of the Spirit cleanse us from many Sins, which are the Corruptions of the Soul.

Oyl fwims aloft above all other things; fo the oyl of the Spirit carries us aloft, makes us to have our Conversation in Heaven. Oyl makes the Lamp to burn; so the Oyl of the Spirit makes us to continue burning in Zeal and all good Works. Oyl makes a man chearful; fo the Graces of the Spirit infuse unspeakable Chearfulness into the Faithful.

The older it is, the better is its Fruit, nor is it fruitful till it be an hundred years old. If its Fruit be not fully ripe, it's not fit to be eat, but is harmful.

There is one kind of Palm, whereof ( as it's faid ) there's but one onely in the World, which doth not multiply, as the others do, but when through Age it's quite spent and gon, then doth it again revive and recover of it felf. Whence it's faid that the Phanix ( which in Greek is the fame with the Palm ) taketh its Name.

' Balm tree A Tree, tall and ftraight, whose Nature is onot to be prefied down with weight, but to grow the more. 2. The Church, which is not made crooked with the weight of Affiictions, but rather becometh more upright

'and ftrong, Cant. 7. 7. This thy Stature is like a Palm-tree. This Tree. ( called in Hebrew, Thamar ; in Greek, Phanix, ) is of a tall and upright Stature, always green and flourithing, bearing pleasant Fruit. Wherefore the just mans state is likened to this Tree, Pfal. 92, 13. and Figures of Palm-trees (fig- | and neter my dark faying upon the Harp. Joh. 16. 29. Now nifying Heavenly Graces ) were made in the Temple, 1 King: 6. 29. & 7.36. and fore old to be also in the spiritual Temple under the Gospel, Ezek. 41: 18, 19. and Palm-branches, carried in the Hand or on the Head, were figns of Victory, Rev. 7.9. And the Palm-tree is faid to be of such a Nature, that it will not bow downward or grow crooked though heavy weights be laid upon it, but groweth still upright. So this Stature of the Spouse likened to a Palm-tree, sheweth her spiritual growth in the Faith (notwithstanding all her Tribulation) rending always towards Heaven, till she attain unto the measure of the Stature of the fulness of christ, Eph. 4.13. for now God hath broken the Staves of her Yoke, and made her grow upright, Lev. 26.13. See Ezek. 19.11. Anniworth.

This Tree is one of the nobleft and most famous of all the Forrest, and is the usual Emblem and Symbole of Constancy, Fruitfulness, Patience and Victory; which the more it is op-pressed, the more it flourisheth, the higher it grows, the ftronger and broader it is in the Top.

Its also easie to be climbed, having many Boughs whereon to flay Hands and Feet, (others hold the contrary) So doth the Church readily entertain all the Faithful that come to her.

Hereunto allufion is made by the Apolile, Eph. 2. 14. where it's faid that Christ hath broken down the middle wall of Partition

By the Ceremonies and Worship appointed by the Law, the Jews were divided from the Gentiles, which being taken away by Christ, he joyneth them both together, both in himfelf and between themselves, and to God. Through him then the Gentiles have a free access now by the Gospel, unto the Church, and the Benefits thereof.

'In the first Passover three things were extraordinary: 'First, the sprinkling of blood on the Door-posts, fignified the sprinkling of Christs Blood, 1 Pet. 1.

'Secondly, the eating with Loyns girt, Staves in their Hands, fignified, the leaving off all uncleaness, 1 Pet. 1. 13, 14. 'Thirdly, their tarrying in the House till the Morning, whereunto Isaiah alludes, chap. 17.

Note further, touching the Passover, that the first and last day was an holy Convocation, to fignifie, that all our Life from the beginning to the end, ought to be holy, I Cor. 5.7.

The Tewish Passover was an holy Action ordained of God, in the killing and eating of a Lamb, partly to the end the Jewish Church might keep in memory the Benefit which God did for them in the Land of Agypt, when he passed over their Houses; and slew the first Born both of man and Beast, of the Agyptians. Also to be a Testimony of Gods good will towards them, and to be a Type of Christ the true Paschal Lamb. Moreover to gather all the Partakers thereof into the Fellowship of one Body: And finally, to put them in mind to be thankful and innocent in their conversation.

t. It was called the Paffover; because the destroying Angel passed over all their Houses, whie Door-posts were stricken with the Blood thereof, and wherein the same was eaten, Exod. 12. 27. shewing thereby, that in the street time Chrift should fusfer; and as at Night there is darkness, and all at reft; so when all Mankind was fitting in darkness of Mind and Life, and all the World at a general outward rest of Peace, then should our Saviour come and fuffer.

As also, the killing thereof at Even, did shew, how that at Even the Sun fetteth , fo it was the Son of Rightconfress that was to suffer and dye, and at his Passion that universal darkness should be upon the whole Earth, Luk. 23. 44.

There are several other particulars (the number of the whole being 34.) shewing the resemblance between christ and which shall be in suture Churches, being restored to excell the Passor; as also some others, shewing their disparity or difference : whereof fee Mr. Guild in his Mofes unvailed, p.58, 49, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66.

That as an effect of his conversion, it was of his own imposing, and that his Humility would not own that name of a proud tall King of Israel, but preferred the contrary of Paulus a little one; agreeable whereunto it is, that he calls himielf, enargottes adrow arion (a word made by himielf on purpole) less than the least of Saints. That it is a Token of this his first Victory over the Heathenism of Sugius Paulus, here in this Chapter, (where he is first called by his Name) whose Name he was therefore to bear by way of Triumph, as Scipio Affricanus, and the like. But it is probable, that he being a few, born in a City of Rome, had at his Circumcifion two Names, Saul a fewilb, and Paulus a Romau Name. Eienun, Peace, fignifies,

1. That Virtue of Charity, Peace with men, and fo it's certainly used in the end of the verse, in opposition to all the uncharitableneß and emulations in the former part of this, and the beginning of the next Chapter, and confequently music regimns, to do or make peace (proportionable to the Phrases mistir dyguorusny, to do righteousness, and woisin dyguorusny, to do righteousness, and woisin dyguorusny to do or commit Sin.) lignifies to use all diligence, of enaervor and industry, to attain it; to pursue peace, to be emulous, ambitious of quiet, studiously to contend for it.

2. According to the notion of the Hebr. DIDU. all happinels and prosperity, as when Peace be to you, is the form of Salutation, and contains all the Bleffings in the World, spiritual and temporal under it; and so by the ordinary Figure of sacred Rhetorick, Antanaclasis, it seems to signific here in the former place, in peace, i. e. in a most happy, gracious, manner, or with a Confluence of all Felicity attending it. Peacock | Hereof mention is made, 1 King. 10. 22. 2 Chr. 9.21. & Job 39.13. It's a Bird of divers colours, full of Feathers and most beautiful. It's not ignorant of the beauty of its Feathers, and therefore doth often spread them out in the manner of a Wheel, adding thereto a majestick and stately gate. This it doth upon the view of the Female, and to be feen and praifed; and thus also it preserveth it self as under a shadow and covering from the Sun-beams. Herein there's like unto that which shineth in the most excellent Pictures, Gems, and Stars, yet more Colours appear to the view of the Beholder (by reason of the reflection of the Sun-beams, mixt with the Colours of the Peacocks Feathers, and the shadow thereof ) then indeed there are. As Children when they breed Teeth, so it languisheth whilst its Comb is breeding. It's Dung is profitable in Phyfick, especially against the Gout, but is feldom found, being (as it's faid ) made away by it, out of its envy towards man; yet doth it love man, reverence him, and helpeth him when it feeth him hurt by other Beafts. That it may still enjoy the company of the Female, it seeketh diligently for its Eggs, and having found them, deftroys them, which the Female endeavors to prevent. Others fay, that he being more heavy than the Female, fitting on the Eggs, by his weight breaks them. It's very watchful, bewraying Thieves, or any extraordinary Fire. It's faid to have the Voice of the Devil. (its Voice is terrible) the Head of a Serpent (which being combed and weak, it resembleth) and the pace of a Thief, being still and without noise. As the Trees their Leaves, fo it cafteth its Feathers; ( whereat its much fadded ) but as in the Spring they recover their Leaves, so its Feathers grow again. As upon the view of its Feathers it's much exalted, so upon the view of its black Feet it's cast down. Its slesh can scarcely be boiled, nor in a long time will putrifie. Hereof tryal hath been made for above a year. If their young ones touch Nettles, they dye. It loveth the young ones, and is careful to preferve them from the Fox. When it ascendeth higher than usual, it presageth Rain. The more Females the Male hath, the more increase ariseth by each, which yet is but small in comparison of other Fowls; whereas if there be but one, its Fruit seldom cometh to good. Then especially beginneth it to love its young ones, when it feeth them combed as it felf.

Deart] A thing of great value and price, and called a Pearl for the orient brightness of it, Job 28. 18.

'2. The precious Doctrine of Salvation, or any godly Ad monition. Mat. 7. 6. Cast not your Pearls before Swine.

62. Gods chosen and faithful People, singled from all other Nations, precious in his fight. Tit. 2. 14. And purge us to be a peculiar People. A purchased People, 1 Pet. 2. 9. marg.

It is one thing to be a People, (as Turks, Indians, Perstans and Jews be) another thing to be Gods People, or his People, Mat. 1.21. A peculiar People, Tit. 2. 14. An holy Prople, 1 Pet. eneral vocation, whereby they are functified to God, and separate from Heathens which do not so profess Thus in the Prophets the Ifraelites are often called Gods People, amongst whom there were many Hypocrines; Ifa. 1.3, 4, 5. Butothers be his People in Truth, by his especial calling, according to Gods purpose, giving them to his Son, and giving his Son for them, and to them, Joh. 6. 3. & 17.12.
We are by the Judgment of Charity to judge all Members of the vifible Church, which yield external Obedience to that which they profess, to be truly his Children, and People of his Love, 2 Theff. 2. 13. leaving the Judgment of Certainty to God alone, who knowesh his own; to whom it belongs to separate the Goats from the Sheep in the end of the World.

Decultar | A peculiar People, 1 Pet. 2. 9. What Ande eis Beiroingry fignifies here, must be discerned from Exodus 19. 6. whence it is taken, ( though the words are removed out of their place, and these, which are there before the royal Priesthood, here placed after it.) The Hebrew reads there which is literally, you [hall be to me a Treasure. or xerunator, any thing that is laid up, and preferred most carefully. The Greek render it there more according to the sense, goede mos dads weisal, ye shall be unto me a special, or peculiar peuple, as that phrase is used and rendred, Tit. 2. 14. And though the Apostle here doth not use that whole Phrase. yet he takes λαδς, people, from thence, and for the word π) λος he renders it from Mal. 3. 17. είς πειποίησην, for an acquilition or possession; for so there, that speech of Gods, which I make a Treasure ( i. e. lay up tenderly and carefully, and, as it follows, (pare as one spareth his Son that serveth him ) is rendred in the Greek no ego word eis wertennow, which I make for an Acquilition or Treasure. And to hade eis mernoinors, are those whom God means to keep most charily, as his aearest Children, or most valued Treasure. Dr. Ham. Annot. e.

Some derive them from the word Palat, which fignifieth either to defend, or such as were excellent, because they were excellent men that defended the Kings Person. But others think they were thus named, rather from their Countrey, than from their Office, and that they were Garrison-Soldiers, living among the Japhlethites, in the Lot of the Children of Joseph, John 16. 3. from which (being valiant and expert Souldiers) the King chose his Guard to attend his Person, who thereupon gave their attendance by course, 2 Sam. 15. 18.

Delican | Reckoned amongst the unclean Fowls, Lev. 11. 18. Deut. 14. 17. dwelleth in the Wilderness, Pfal. 102. 6. It is named Kaath, of vomiting; nor do hthe Name differ from the Custom thereof, which is to vomit up the Meat, as Shelfifthes, by it before devoured. Some take it to be a Shovelar, which is a Bird following Water-fowls that take Fifthes, holding and picking them by the Heads, until they have let go their Prey. Some derive it from massgo, which is to graw, for that it useth with its Beak to strike at and gnaw Trees. In greatness it is like unto the Swan, and hath great Wings, but a lean Body, for that its Intrails are flippery, not retaining the Food which it eateth, but quickly casting them forth without Concoction. One kind frequenteth the Waters, feeding on Fishes; another, Wildernesses, feeding on Serpents, &c. both delighting in folitary Places: It's faid of the former, that it swal-Inght in in lotter Flates 1.1 state of the fortier, that it was been shell-filtes, which being fodden as it were in her Intrails, the caffeth forth, and the Shell opening, the eateth the All People, Pfal. 49. 1. and People upon the Earth, IIa. 42. 5. Such reputed unclean, for that it fed on venemous things. Between it and the Sergent there's a natural Antipathy, and therefore in its absence the Serpent climbeth up into its Nest, and by its Breath and Biting killeth the young Pelicans; for the recovery whereof, their Dam having lamented them three days, with its Bill pierceth its own Breaft, and with the Blood isluing therefrom sprinkleth them, whereby they live again. By this means the Dam becometh so weak, that she can neither provide for her felf, nor them, which they finding, are forced to fly abroad, and provide for themselves. Of them some prove unthankful, wholly neglecting their Dam; others thankful, bringing her Food, who when ftrengthened, accordingly dealeth with either fort (as Writers affirm.) If in its absence the Shepherds fire its Neft, it flyeth thereon, thinking by its Wings to quench it; nor coafeth to do thus, notwithstanding the heat of the fire, till it felf be quite burnt up therewith. One kind of them will not feed on any thing, till it be first dipped or washed in water, and when it drinketh, doth as it were bite the Water.

Penp There were two forts of Pence in use amongst them, the common Peny, which valued of ours, 7 d. ob. and the Peny of the Santtuary, which valued 1 s. 3 d. for it was answerable to their Didrachmum, and of this last was the Tribute-mony, Mat. 22. 19. This Didrachmum or Half-hekel, was formerly paid by the Israelites every year after they were twenty years old, towards their Temple, Exod. 30. 13. Cefar by taking away this Money from the Temple, and changing it into a Tribute for his own Coffers, did in truth take away from God that which was Gods. Co he per (wade e) To be infallibly affured of a thing by demonstrative certainty, Rom, 8, 37, I am perswaded. This is the perswation and certainty of Faith.

· 2. To be probably affured of a thing, by conjectural cercrainty, Heb. 6.9. We have perferaded our felves better things of you. This is perswassion of Charity, Rom. 14. 14. There is an infallible perswafion which the faithful have of themselves. and probable perswasion which they have of others.

Note. The Greek word, which is englished, I am persuaded, or I am fire is used of things which lye in conjectural and not certain knowledg, as well as of things whereof there is infallible and undoubted knowledg. See Rom. 15. 13. 2 Tim. 1.5, &c. It is the Argument wherewith the word is joyned, and which is added to declare the fignification thereof which restraineth the meaning to an assured knowledg, as Rom. 8. 30. For it is most true, that the faithful being justified of God, cannot be condemned.

Bertmaded Heb. 6.9. We are persmaded better things of you. He doth not say, we expect better things from you, we are in good hope you will prove better than thus, and the like: But we are perfuaded, and nothing can remove us from this perfua-fion: We take you to be other manuer of men, far different from the former. The things that be in them are stark naught, but we perswade our selves most excellent things of you. They are Reprobates, but we are perswaded that you are the elect Children of God. We must have a good and charitable opinion of them that fit in the lap of the Church, that subject themselves to the Ministery of the Word, though there be some Desects and Blemishes in them. Jones. · Co be fully perimaned To do nothing with a doubtful conscience and staggering mind, but to be certainly within his own mind affured that his person doth please God, and that the thing which he doth, doth not displease God, being not contrary to his Word. Rom. 14. 5. Let every one be fully per-fivaded in his own mind. This full perswasion of the mind, must be had even in Actions indifferent and of a middle nature; of these one is surely to know, that whether he doth them, or omitteth them, yet his deed or omiffion doth not offend God. Much more ought there to be this affurance in necessary Actions commanded or forbidden, most of all it is required in the Doctrines of Faith. What then shall we think of that implicite Faith of the Church of Rome, where it is held for good Christian Belief, to affent only to that which the Church teacheth, though one be utterly ignorant what it is which is taught of the Church? Is this to be fully perswaded in our mind? Also how do they fin, which for defire of Victory will defend matters, whereof they are not re-· folved in their Heart?

Derthousion I this persuafion cometh not of him that calleth you, Gal. 5. 8. Pharifee | An order or Sect of men, separate and divided from other by opinion of fingular holines, Mat. 5. 20. Luk. 18 11.

There are three opinions concerning the Etymology of this word.

The 1. of those who derive it from UTD, Parash, expandere, explicare; either from the enlarging and laying open their Phylatteries; or from their open performance of good Works in publick view of the people, as being ambitious of mans praise.

The 2. of them who derive it from UTD, exponere, explanare; because they were of chief repute, and counted the profoundest Doctors for the exposition of the Law, so that they were termed Peruschim , quia Pereschim, Pharisees, because they were Expounders of the Law.

The 3. of such as derive the name from the Verb, but in the Conjugation Piel, where it signifiesth dividere, separate, to separate. In this acception by the Greeks they termed aquest-

The particulars unto which they separated, were,

1. To the fludy of the Law in which respect they might be called deposite is the Apostle is thought to have flyled himself, Rom. 1. 11. aquest usever eis ouay sensor, separated to the Gospel, when he was called from being a Pharifee, to be a Preacher of the Golpel', and now not separated to the Law, but to the Gojpel. 2. To an extraordinary sanctity of Life above other men, Luk 18, 11.

The particulars from which they separated, were,

1. Commerce with other people, Joh. 7. 49. 2. The Apparel and Habit of other men.

3. The Customs and Manners of the World. Touching their opinions.

1. They ascribed some things to Fate, or Destiny, and some things to mans free will. 2. They confessed that there were Angels and Spirits, Act.

23. 8.

3. Concerning the Refurrection of the Dead, they acknowledged it and taught, that the Souls of evil men deceased, presently departed into everlasting punishment but that the Souls of good men passed by a kind of Pythagorean were which peas into other good mens Bodies. Hence it is thought that the different opinions concerning our Savior did arife, Mat. 16. 14. as if his Body had been animated by the Soul either of John, Elias, or Teremias

4. They did stiffly maintain the Traditions of their Elders;

namely,

1. They would not eat until they washed their Hands, Mat.

2. When they came from the Market they washt, Mar. 7.4. Luk. 11. 38.

3. They washed their Cups, and Pots, and brazen Vessels. and Tables, Mar. 7. 4.
4. They fasted twice in a week, Luk. 18. 12.

5. They held it unlawful to eat with Sinners, Mat. 9. II. 6. They made broad their Phylasteries, and enlarged the Borders of their Garments, Mat. 23, 5. Of them there were feven forts:

I. Sichemita,

2. Truncatus

3. Impingens. 4. Quid debeo facere & faciam illud.

5. Mortarius.

6. Ex amore. Ex timore.

Neither was their place found any more in Heaven. Some refer this Victory over Saran, to the time of Christ his Passion. whereupon it did depend. Others to the time of Confanting the Great, whom Christ used as an Instrument, to procure a Victory over the Enemies of his Church, which upon the Gate of his Palace, he represented by the Picture of a Dragon lying under his Feet, with a Dart thrust throw him. Euseb. in vita Constantini, Oratione 3. fol. 137. A. This latter more agreeing to the truth of this Text.

By Heaven here the Church of God is meant, in which the Dragon fate and exercised his Tyranny. The Phrase, Not to have his place, is taken out of Dan. 2.35. The Dragon had no more place in the Church to domineer and tyrannize over the Saints as they had done, but they are now conquered and expelled out of Heaven. A general overthrow is not here properly meant, but a special Victory of some special Dragons that rose up to waste the Church, because this is a Prophesic after

St. John's time. Leighs Annot.

Natural and Spiritual Planting or Graffing agree in two things, and in other two they disagree.

'1. They are alike in this, that as a Ciens or Branch can do nothing at all toward the planting of it felf; so the elect Sinner can bring nothing to the incorporating himself into Christ, and toward his own luftification.

But on the other fide, as we graff a good Branch into a Gowr barren Stock: So evil Branches, wicked men (being as wild Olives) are planted into the Eody of Christ his Church, which is like a good Tree.

Again, in the natural planting, there the good Branches or Graft giveth Sap unto the Tree, which is turned into the nature of the sweet Plant: But in the Spiritual, the Branch receiveth from the Root Christ, whose Grace altereth them, and makes them like himself, Partakers of his Godly Nac mré.

The Porch is synecdochically put for the whole Temple. That mentioned in Ezek. 4c. 48. was not that called Solomons Porch, wherein Jesus walked, Joh. 10. 23. and wherein the People ran together to Peter and John, and the Cripple healed by them, Act. 3. 11. and wherein the Apostles and the People were all with one accord, Act. 5. 12. That must be some Porch of the Outward Court, for into this, the People, or the Apostles, or our Savior himself never entred, as not being of the Tribe of Levi, and of Aaron's Line, who were only to enter into it. Those mentioned Joh. 5. 2. seem to have been made to shelter fick and lame men repairing to that place, and watching for the moving of the Water, which being suddain, at one fixed time, they could not have been able to attend, had they had no Cover to defend them from the Weather, and place to rest in. " How tobet the fit? The Rule and Authority which, by Gods Dispensation, is given to some Angel, over the Element of Fire, for the ordering of it; as to some other Angel is like Power given over the Waters, as Rev. 11.6. & 16.5. The Angel of the waters. Angels being for this purpose termed Principalities, Powers, and Dominions; because to them is committed of God the ordering and conservation of the Creatures, Rev. 14. 18. An Angel which hath Power over the fire. Some expound this of Christ, who is said to come, to fend fire into the Earth. Some, that the Angel should execute Gods vengeance upon the bloody Kingdom of Antichrift, with fiery and fervent affection. But others more probably, yet understand this of the ability and strength whereby some 'Martyr fhould bear and overcome the violence of the fire, "( which is to have power over the fire ) applying it to Thomas * Cranmer, sometimes Arch-bishop of Canterbury, who not only gave his Body to be burned of the sire for the Truth, but al-6 fo fuffered his right Hand to be first devoured, by which he had subscribed against the Truth; and thus had he power over the fire.

It may be that Angel spoken of, chap. 8.5. who stood at the Altar of Incense, and took fire from the Altar of Burnt-offering, and cast it on the Earth, from whence followed the Judgments there ensuing. And in that respect he might be said to have power over the fire. Or, at least, it may be an allusion to that flory, and may represent such, as by their fervent Prayers could prevail with God to bring his Judgments on Antichrift, and his Followers, and as it were command Ministers and Rulers to go about it, stirring them up with the slaughter of those Martyrs which lay under the Altar, chap. 6.9. Or, this Angel is faid to have power over the fire, that is, to restrain the Fire of Contentions (Judg. 9. 2c.) from amongst Protestant Princes, that they might joyntly fight against the Pope. Annot. Domer | Might, ftrength, and ability to hurt and annov either Bodies (as Scorpions do by a natural strength) or

For this Cause ought the Woman to have Power on her Head, 1 Cor. 10. 11. What the word ¿ Euria here fignifies, will be best conjectured by looking on the Hebr. word, which fignifies the Womans Hood, or Veil, and that is TITT whose theme TIT, fignifies dominion or power over any thing or person; according to which notion of the theme, the word ¿guria must needs be answerable to the Hebr. 777, and consequently, though it figuific power primarily, is yet fitly fet here to figuific a Vill (and by the vulgar Translation, in some Copies rendred Velamen) by the same proportion, as Till, deduced from a Root fignifying Power, is put for a womans Veil, Cant. 5.7. & Ifa. 3. 23. And fo Gen. 24. 65. & 38. 14. And this more fit-ly, in respect of the discourse or rational importance of this place, which verf. 8. proves that the Woman should wear a Covering, in token of her Husbands power over her. And for the Womans Head, it fignifies her Head and Face both, which were customarily covered with a Veil, and it was counted immodest to be without it. And the woman must be covered because of the Angels, i. e. the ought to do that which was most decent in that place where the Angels were present to behold them : and that yet more particulary, when she hath those Angels ( which wie to be present in such places ) for example also, who by covering their Faces used to testifie their subjection toward God, Isaiah 6. 2. per Synecdochen, partis pro toto.
Predestination is a most righteous Decree of God, freely, according to his own good pleasure ( without any respect of fore-feen Faith or Works, as moving Causes ) ordaining from all eternity, out of the whole lump of loft Mankind, a certain number, to obtain eternal life in Heaven by Christ (having first called, justified, and sanctified them ) unto the praise of his glorious Grace, Rom. 8. 28, 29, 30. Ephef. 1.

Or, according to Peter Martyr.

' Predestination is the most wise purpose of God, whereby he hath before all eternity constantly decreed to call those whom he loved in Christ, to the Adoption of his Children, to Justification by Faith, and at the length to Glory through good Works, that they may be made like unto the Image of the Son of God, and that in them should be declared the Glory and Mercy of the Creator.

Whereas Election looks only to the purpose of Gods choofing, and to the opposite Member, to wit, Reprobation; between which and Election, there is a mutual and necessary reference, the one always including or implying the other; for, where there is an Election of some, there is a refusing of others, and on the contrary; yet Predestination respecteth both the execution of Gods purpose, with the whole progress of middle Causes leading unto the end, as Eph. 1.5, 10. Rom. 8. 29. Act. 22. 14. and also the ends them selves, both life eternal of the Elect, as the nearest end, and the Glory of Gods Mercy, as the utmost end, Rom, 9. 23. Eph. 1. 6, 11, 14. So as Predestination is of larger extent than Election. though in Scripture it is not found to concern any other fave the Elect. But Scholastical Writers make it the general both to Election and Reprobation, as the Decree of God, which is touching the ends of both, which be without end. So as Predeftination is largely taken, containing both the Decrees, and firially, being subordinate to the purpose of E-

' In every legal and legitimate Sacrifice, there must be (be-'fides the Sacrifice) a Prieft, an Altar, and Fire: As the 'Sacrifice was a Figure both of Christ our eternal Sacrifice, Eph. 5, 2, Heb. 10, 5, 6, 7, 10, and of our felves (whom the Apoftle calleth living Sacrifices) through him, Rom. 12, 1. So the Priest figuified and figured Christ to be that only Priest which can draw near unto God, Hebr. 5.6, *10. Jer. 30. 12. Also, that by Christ alone we draw near to God, and are Priests in and through Christ, Exod. 19. 66. 1 Pet. 2. 5. 9. Rev. 1. 8. Laftly, it figured the Mini-flery in the time of the Gospel, Isa. 66. 21. Now the Altar, whose property it was to sanctifie the Gift, it figured, first, Christ, who was his own Altar, and sanctified himself. Glob. 17. 19. Heb. 9. 14. Secondly, that we have Christ for our Altar, Heb. 13. 10. Rev. 8. 3. Priests were either.

I. In the Church; namely,
1. Patriarchal, being the first-born and the principal of the Families, Numb. 3. 12, 41, 45. & 8. 16, 17.

2. Mosaical, Levitical, or Agronical, Numb. 18. 1, 7, 22. Exod. 28. 1. 1 Chr. 9.49. of whom there were High-priefts, 1 Chr. 6. 4, 15, 50, 53. Chief Priests, who were the High-Priests Sons, Numb. 20, 26. Ordinary Priests of the same Line, Lev. 6. 29. Josh. 3. 6. who were divided in 24 Courses, 1 Chr. 24. 5, &c.

3. Judaical, or of the Tribe of Judah, Melchisedech, Gen. 14. 18. Hebr. 7. 1. Jesus Christ, Hebr. 7. 14. & 3. 1. & 4. 14.

4. Spiritual, even all true Christians in Christ, Rev. 1.6. & 4.10. & 20.6.

2. Apostatical, 2 King. 10. 11, 19. & 11. 18. 1 King. 12. 31, 32. & 13. 3, 32, 33. 2 King. 17. 32.

*Bigb pateft | The chief amongst and over the Priests of the Law, who was ever but one only, and in a special man-ener was a figure of Christ, both in his Garments, publick Works and Actions; and also in his eminent place, Christ being Chief among the Pastors, as Aaron was among the Priefts, Hebr. 5. 1, 2, 3. unto the vers. 10. For every High-Priest is taken from among men, 1 Pet. 1. 25. Heb. 9.11.

'The difference between a Priest properly and improperly taken, is this. The former hath an external and bodily Sacrifice, to give and offer unto God, as Christ did give his own Body, and the Priests of the Law, the Bodies of Beasts. The latter offereth Spiritual Sacrifices onely; as their Prayers, Praife, Obedience, Alms, and all other good Works and Duties of their Calling, which every Christian ( as well as a Minister ) is bound to offer. The Popish Priesthood is an imaginary and blasphemous fiction, having no ground, neither any colour and shew of ground and proof in the whole Book of God.

Shall bear the Iniquity of your Priesthood, Numb. 18. 1. that is, shall bear the punishment for all Iniquity that is done about your Priests Office. And this is special concerning the Priests whose Care and Charge is over the Levites also, which might not come near formething belonging to the Priest hood. I-Bopal Deiefthood I Pet. 2. 9. Christians are both Kings and Priests, but both with difference from other men of either of those Callings. They are Kings, not civil only, but Sacred Kings: They are Priests, not common or typical Priests, but Royal. The one word tells their Dignity to which they are Ordained, the other their Office in respect of God. Being a Royal Priethood, it is better than the Levitical Priefthood, which was not after the Order of Melchisedech. It imports Separation and Confecration to God, also Nearness and Constancy of Communion with him. Byfield on 1 Pet. 2. 9.

Danie in God. and of God The elect Believers made Partakers of the Dignity of Christ his Priesthood, having God propirious to them by his Death, and allowed to have access to God by Prayer, through his Intercession: These Elect, to fignifie that they are most excellent Priests, are therefore called Priefts of God, Rev. 20. 6. according to the Hebrew phrase; and Rev. 1.6 they are termed Priests to God, to shew that this Honor is given them, not to disturb States and Policies of the Earth.

They are faid to be made Priefts to God, that is, to offer fpiritual Sacrifices to him. Annot.

Hence it is that such a Division, or Town, or City, is in the Old Testament Phrase called a Chiliad, or Thousand, as in Micah it is, and in Judg. 6. 15. where the ordinary Translation reads, My Family is poor in Manasseh, but the Hebr. rendred in the marg. is, My thoufand is the meanest, &c. "The Promise of God to men is taken two ways.

ce t. Generally, for the prediction of any matter good or "evil, as 2 Pet. 3. 4. 9.
"2. Specially, for the foretelling and offer of fome good thing.

"Good things were purposed by God toward men be-fore all time, promised in time, and shall be performed in the end, and after and beyond all times. So Gods "Promife putteth us in mind of Gods Love of old in electing us, his Truth now in affuring us, his Power hereafter in doing that which he hath both purposed and pro-'mifed.

'Howfoever the Law, by reason of the condition annexed of perfect fulfilling it, be contrary to the free Promise of Life, yet the Law doth not abolish and quite take away the Promise of Grace, but serveth as an Helper and Servant thereunto; for by discovering the Danger and Damnation through Sin, it driveth afficted Sinners to Christ, who is Both Legal and Evangelical Promises are either general or ' indefinite, propounded to all , Exod. 20. 6. Joh. 3. 16, 17, 18. Or particular, directed to some kind of persons, few or one, Exod. 20. 12. Mat. 9. 2. Besides innumerable other proe mifes on both forts.

Gods Promife is two-fold.

. Legal, when he passeth his word for the giving of eternal life, and other temporal good things, upon Condition of fulfilling the Law, Lev. 18. 5, Eph. 6. 2. This is the first Commandment with Promise. Galatians 3. 12. Do this and · live.

c 2. Evangelical, when he passeth his word for the giving of Christ, and together with him, remission of fins, righte-outness, and eternal life; as also the blessings of this life, 'upon condition of believing the Gospel. Rom. 1. 2. Which he promifed before by his Prophets. And Rom. 4.26. That the Promife promifed before by his Prophets. And Rom. 4.26. That the Promife might be fire to all the Seed; that is, to fuch as walk in the fleps of Abraham's Faith. Gal. 3. 14. That we might receive the Promife of the Spirit through Faith. This latter Promife is called the Promife of Grace, because it is freely given, and freely performed. Also Gal. 3. 14. it is called the Promise of the Spirit, because the Spirit is both the Author and Applyer of Moreover, the things promifed, come from the Spirit. This Promife is also called the Word of Faith, Rom. 10 8. because the word of this Promise is made with condition of · Faith, which is the only Instrument to apprehend and receive it. Laftly, it is termed the promise of Christ, because he is the term and end of it.

Amfinally, better promises, not for kind or number, but

This Example may ferve to expound what he means by prophane. The Lord had annexed to the Birth-right the Promile of the Land of Canaan as a figure of Heavenly Felicity: wicked Esau not confidering this, despised it. So God hath appointed his Ordinances to be the means of Grace and Life to men; when they do not know and believe this, and receive it by them, they are prophane. Prophanenes lies in two things:

Prophetie] And prophefied, Luk. 1. 67. Besides, the foretelling of suture Events, which is the ordinary notion of to prophefie, it fignifies, 2. To work Miracles, Eccl. 48. 14. 2. To declare the Will of God to any, by Revelation or Million from him. In which fense, as Christs prophetick Office consisted in revealing the Will of God to the World; so all that have in any degree done the like, are ftyled Phophets. All that have taught men their Duties towards God and men. Thus the Heathen Poets which ordinarily reprehended their Vices, are by St. Paul called their own Prophets, Tit. 1. 12. Thus when Exod. 7. 1. God faith to Moses, I have made thee a God to Pharaoh, and Aaron thy Brother shall be thy Prophet; the meaning is, that what God had or should command, Moses should (as God to a Prophet, the Oracle to the conquires ) deliver to Aaron, concerning Pharaob; and Aaron should go as a Prophet sent from God, and deliver it to Pharaoh, Exod. 4. 16. 4. To expound or interpret Scripture, 1 Cor. 14. 1, 4, 5, 6, 22, 24, 29, 31, 32. 5. ' A Prophet is one that from the inward Counsel of God uttereth Oracles: fuch an one was wont to be called a Seer. 4 Sam. 9. 9. Amos 7. 12.

A Prophet in Hebrew and Greek, is named of speaking, uttering, interpreting Words and Oracles which come from God, Exod. 7. 1. 1 Cor. 14. 29. Also, of seeing and receiving them by Vision, such were named Seers, as I Samuel · 9. 9.

'3. A person under the New Testament, endued with a spe-cial Gift to soretel things to come, for the behoof, either of the whole Church, or some Members of it. In this sense A-'gabus is called a Prophet, because he fore-warned the Church of a Famine, Act. 11.27. and Paul of his Bonds, Act. 21. 6 10. Also, the Daughters of Philip were such Prophetesles.

4. One that interpreteth the Scriptures of the Prophets with a fingular dexterity and readiness, befides the Prediction or foretelling suture Events. Eph. 4.11. He gave some to be Prophets. 1 Cor. 12. 28. He ordained some Prophets. These were men that not only fignified what things should come, but excelled also in expounding Propheties concerning Christ.

In this sense Christ is called a Prophet, Act. 3. 22. And not only for declaring the Will of God, touching things to come, Rom. 12.6. 1 Cor. 14. 23.

'5. All those holy men of God, who be the Pen-men of the Holy Scriptures, for the common use of the Church to the Worlds end. Luk. 13. 28. All the Prophets [ball fit down in the Kingdom of God. 2 Pet. 1. 19. We have a most fure word of the Prophets. Also one who arrogateth to himself the Gift and Name of a Prophet, but is not, Deut. 12. 1.

'6. Every true Minister of the Gospel, endued with Wisdom to interpret and apply the Scripture. i Cor. 14.32.
The Spirit of the Prophets, &c. Any Teacher and Dottor, Luk, 7. The Writings, Books, or Sayings of the Prophets. Rom.

10. Chrift, Deut. 18.15, 18. Luk. 7.16.

11. Mofes, Hof. 12. 13. 12. The Holy Patriarchs, Abraham, Ifaac, and Facob, Pfal. 105. 15.

13. One a speaker for another, as his Mouth, Exod. 7. 1.

14. An Heathen Poet, Tit. 1. 12.

15. Prophets in the opinion of men, Jer. 29. 15.

16. Apostles and Apostolical Teachers in the Primitive Church, Mat. 23. 34, 37. raifed up among the Jews, 1 Thess. 2. 15. and elsewhere afterwards, Rev. 18. 20.

17. The Doctrine of the Prophets, and their prophetical Predictions, Mat. 5. 17.

As of Prophets, there were some true, and sent of the Chr. 24. 19. Jer. 1. 5. in whom was his Spirit, Neh. 9. 30. So there were false Prophets, 2 Pet. 2. 1. whom God did not fend, Jer. 23. 21. & 14. 14. his Prediction and fore-telling, to fall out otherwise then the evil Prophet had fore-spoken, that so he might be known (howfoever he boafted of the Spirit ) to be a Counterfeit and Deceiver, by his fore-shewing things which never happened. Ezek. 14. 9. If the Prophet be decrived when he hath focken, a thing, I the Lord have deseived him. Some do expound these words in this sense, that God should use false Prophets as Instruments to beguile such as for their former wickedness deserve to be given up to Error; and thus God dealt with Achab, 1 King. 22. 22. and threateneth the like punishment to the Followers of Antichrist, 2 Thess. 2. 11. This Exposition, though it be found and orthodox, yet the first is more plain and fit, as better agreeing with the fimplicity of the words which speak of deceiving the Prophet, not others by the Prophet. This interpretation both Peter Martyr liketh better, and Junius in his Note upon this place, doth incline thereunto

Deut. 18. 15, 18, 19. He shall raise you a Prophet like me. This Text is applied to Christ, Ad. 3. 22. & 7. 37. The Scope of all these Texts is, that Christ may be shewn to the Church to be the sole Mediator of men, promised by Moses, exhibited when Peter spake. Moses hereof as a Type, serving for his time, to be a mean between God and his People, which through Informity could not endure the Majefly of God speaking; but Christ (as truth of this Type) ordained an everlating Mediator; whose,

Mati] Herewith the Lord fed the Ifraelites, lufting after fiesh, and doubting that the Lord could not provide flesh for them in the Wilderness, Psal. 78. 18, 19. Exod. 16. 13. Numb. 11. 31, 32. The abundance of them was miraculous, for it is faid, that God rained flesh on them, as dust; and feathered Fowls as the Sand of the Seas, Plal. 78. 27. and with these they filled their greedy lusts; (seeding themselves without fear, as Jude v. 12.) though the Lord had threatned to punish them, vers. 20. Their carriage towards their young ones, is the same in effect with the Hens. To avoid the Snares of the Hunters, they remove them from one place to another. They are said to lay fixteen Eggs, and four times every year to bring forth young ones; twice with us, and twice in those Countreys whither they go about Harvest, and that their first Brood breedeth before their departure;

fo that it is faid of Hunters, that he that in the Beginning of the Spring killeth one Quail, killeth an hundred. They neither build their Nests on Trees, nor abide thereon, but have their abode on the ground. Though (being weighty) they cannot fly well, yet they can run very swiftly. And being to remove, the Matrix becometh a Captain or Leader among them. So the Glottis (having a long Tongue) also the Cynchramus, and Guss. They feed on Hellebore, which is poylon unto others. They are very luftful, and very fearful. Whilst they fly they make a noise, especially when the South wind bloweth, whereby being moift, they are made less able to fly, at which time the Hunters do especially seek after them. Therefore God to shew his Power, even by a South wind brought abundance of them, Pfal. 78. 26, 27. Being weary through long flying, they are often caught by Mariners in their Ships. Though they be fearful yet are they earnest in fight. When the Sun and Moon rise, they utter an harsh and dismal found, as if they were angry with both. Having drunk of a clear Spring, they puddle therein with their Beaks and Feet, till it become muddy, and fill it with Dust also, that others may not drink there-
